Bullets Rout Strikers; Green Protests on Use of Soldiers.

Union Aid Charges Abuse Under NRA

Lines Refuse Collective Bargaining, He Says, Hours Boosted.

Columbus, Ohio, July 9 (AP).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a telegram late today to Acting Gov. A. W. Merriam, of California, protested the use of troops in the San Francisco longshoremen's strike.

San Francisco, July 9 (AP).—Only a few blocks from San Francisco's tension-bound waterfront, which a few hours previously witnessed the first whine of National Guard bullets answering shots from a mysterious automobile, President Roosevelt's labor disputes board began sitting today as a court of inquiry into the strike of 27,000 Pacific Coast longshoremen and marine workers.

Threats of expansion of the strike into a general walkout here and at other ports continued.

Stories of frustration and abuse were related by representatives of the striking unions before the Federal Board, composed of Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, and Oscar K. Cushing, an attorney.

Charges NRA Used as Club.

A charge that ship owners had taken advantage of the NRA to deal with the International Seamen's Union was made by Paul Scharrenberg, representing that craft. He asserted the shippers had organized to obtain benefits under the National recovery act, but had declined to deal collectively with the strikers.

Scharrenberg testified the United States Shipping Board under President Harding began to cut wages, eliminate overtime pay and lengthen working hours.

"The ship owners," said Scharrenberg, "refused to deal with us collectively, contending agreements should be made between the union and individual companies, but they have organized to grind the seamen into the dust."

The shippers, he said, were "keep-

8 Hoboes Dead In Train Wreck

Many Injured as Twenty Freight Cars Overturn at La Vergne, Tenn.

La Vergne, Tenn., July 9 (AP).—At least eight hoboes lost their lives this afternoon when a Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway freight train, bound from Nashville to Chattanooga, was derailed here.

Many others were reported injured and it was feared some bodies were still in the wreckage.

F. F. Gamble, a garageman here, said that bodies of one white man and six colored men had been recovered. A white man, one of several injured started to a Nashville Hospital, was dead upon arrival there.

Twenty cars overturned and two others were derailed. Gamble said a wheel of a car flew off and he believed this caused the wreck.

"It sounded like a cyclone," said Gamble, in describing the wreck. "Cars were piled on top of each other, were turned over on their sides and broken, were twisted and torn up in every way possible."

None of the train crew was hurt.

Virginian Has a $6,000 Job, but Can't Draw Pay

Richmond, Va., July 9 (AP).—The chairman of the State commission on conservation and development, beginning January 1, 1935, will be filling a $6,000 a year office, but with no $6,000 available to pay him.

The paradox, revealed today by officials, arises from a conflict in legislation passed at the last General Assembly. The Senate bill making the chairman a full-time official at $6,000 per year was passed, but did not appropriate the necessary $6,000.

Much Warmer Today, Weatherman Warns

After a two-day respite from midsummer heat, Washingtonians were warned by the U. S. Weather Bureau last night to expect warmer weather today.

Temperatures are not expected to reach the sizzling heights of the recent heat wave, however, it was said.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 86 degrees at 5 p. m. while the humidity was only slightly above normal. There is no rain forecast for another 48 hours.

600 'Babies' Attend Kress Anniversary

Dr. Lauretta Kress yesterday celebrated golden anniversary of her wedding to Dr. Daniel Hartman Kress by giving a party attended by 600 of the 3,571 babies she has helped bring into the world. Photo shows Dr. Kress and her husband holding three of "her" babies.

Surrounded by more than 600 smiling, laughing, sometimes crying, children of the 3,571 she has ushered into the world in the past 40 years, Dr. Lauretta Kress, with her husband, Dr. Daniel Hartman Kress, celebrated her golden wedding anniversary yesterday.

Japanese lanterns swayed in the summer breeze as Mrs. Kress, one of the world's foremost woman obstetricians, moved among her babies, large and small, who came to pay her tribute and sip fruit punch in her landscape garden at 705 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

They came from all sections of

Saunders' 151 Tops Golfers By 3 Strokes

By Dave Herman.

Harry Saunders, 27-year-old District horseshoe champion, applied his knowledge of "barnyard golf" to the East Potomac links yesterday and scored enough "ringers" and "leaners" on Old Man Par to take a three-stroke lead over a field of 80 golfers at the half-way mark of the 72-hole sectional trials for the National Public Links Championship.

Bobbing up from nowhere, and given little consideration in the pre-tournament calculations, Saunders proved himself a distinct "dark horse" by negotiating the flat layout in 76—75—151, 11 strokes over orthodox figures for the 36 holes.

Claude Rippy Falters.

After setting the pace in the morning round with a 75, Claude Rippy, heavy favorite, cracked wide open on the last nine, taking 42 strokes. He finished in the runner-up position, one shot ahead of John Connelly, who posted 76—79, and Everett Johnson, who also aggregated 76—79.

Frank Ortman, young left-handed golfer, created somewhat of a sensation by shooting a 74 in the afternoon, after making an 82 in the morning. His 156 put him in a tie with John R. Miller, former Beaver Dam champion; R. H. O'Malley, Georgetown University golfer, and Bobby Burton, the bespectacled former public links qualifier. Ort-

Balloon Ascent Awaits Weather

Poised Stratosphere Bag Is Christened Explorer.

Rapid City, S. Dak., July 9 (AP).—Perfect weather conditions for the stratosphere flight were at least two days off today as the craft was christened.

Mrs. Tom Berry, First Lady of South Dakota, christened the black and white gondola The Explorer with a bottle of liquid air before a selected crowd of scientists, Army officers and State and civic officials in Moonlight Valley, scene of the ultimate take-off.

Among the spectators were Gov. Berry, officials of the Geographic Society; Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, Omaha, Seventh Corps Area commander, and Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, Washington, director of the United States Bureau of Standards.

Road Murder Spurs Search For Dillinger

Desperado Is Believed at Head of Wisconsin Highway Killers.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 9 (AP).—Posses tonight toured eastern Fond du Lac County, where possible hideouts abound, in search of gunmen, possibly led by John Dillinger, who today shot down an unidentified motorist, loaded his body into their own automobile and escaped a fusillade of lead from deputy sheriffs.

Two machine guns in the gang car spat fire at the deputies during a running fight for several miles. The squad replied with pistols and a shotgun, but was outdistanced.

Undersheriff Gilbert Booth and Traffic Officer Anton Raffenstein said, however, they were close enough to the fugitive car to see plainly the body of a man lying on the running board of the machine. Three men were in the car, they said.

The officers seized the ditched sedan in which the gang victim was shot and which bore Indiana license plates issued to an Indianapolis paper company but reported stolen. Blood was on the front seat, three bullets were imbedded in the back, and the windows were broken.

Farmers said they were attracted by gunfire, saw the small car careen into the ditch with the gangsters' car following, and occupants of the ambush automobile tie the body of their victim on their running board and drive away.

Booth and Raffenstein, responding to a telephone report of a "wreck" near Eggersville, passed the fleeing car atop a hill, wheeled and gave chase. Bullets from their quarry punctured the top of the squad car and the deputies emptied their own weapons before the machine outdistanced them.

Witnesses insisted one of the gunmen resembled Dillinger.

Leesburg Youth, 19, Drowns in Potomac

Leesburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Roy Newton, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton, Leesburg, was drowned today in the Potomac River, near Balls Bluff.

Young Newton, who was unable to swim, was with a party of friends on an outing. He was wading in in water less than 5 feet deep when he stepped into deeper water. The body was recovered.

He is survived by his father, mother, a brother and a sister.

Pastor Traps Young Bandit Who Came Back for More

When the Rev. George G. Shilling, of Seat Plasant, Md., picked up a hitch-hiker near Alexandria, Va., several nights ago, he didn't bargain for a series of rapid developments.

The Rev. Mr. Shilling, rector of Addison Parish, St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, told police that a smiling youth, neatly dressed, "thumbed" him for a ride. The clergyman obliged.

They rode some distance, with the young man carrying on a polite conversation, the Rev. Mr. Shilling reported. Then, without warning, the youth drew a long knife and ordered his benefactor to stop.

The Rev. Mr. Shilling said his passenger robbed him of $9 and took his automobile. Yesterday the incident took a new turn.

The youth appeared at the Rev. Mr. Shilling's Seat Pleasant home. For $50, the young man said, he would return the machine. The clergyman told him to wait while he telephoned for the money. A few minutes later police arrived.

The youth was arrested and when turned over to Washington authorities said he was Anthony C. Anderson, 19, of the 1300 block of L street northwest.

Court Sets MacCracken Term Aside

Appeals Tribunal Holds Senate Exceeded Authority.

Action May Aid Brittin; Senator Black Plans to Push Fight.

A broad-shouldered, sandy-haired, jovial man in summer flannels sat in a breeze-swept office high in the National Press Building yesterday, receiving congratulations from a steady stream of callers and by wire and phone.

William P. MacCracken, jr., former Assistant Secretary of Commerce, had won an important victory over the United States Senate, through an appellate court decision which wiped out, temporarily at least, his 10-day sentence for contempt.

In striking contrast, a tall, thin, bald, grim-faced man, who had served 10 days in the District Jail on a Senate order similar to that which was reversed by the Court of Appeals, appeared briefly in town, congratulated the smiling MacCracken, and disappeared.

Col. L. H. Brittin, former vice president of Northwest Airways, who was discharged from jail here February 25, "broke, jobless and friendless"—to use his own words—saw possible vindication and restitution in the court's decision, but remained grimly silent on the subject.

Black to Press Fight.

Down in Birmingham, Ala., Senator Hugo L. Black, diminutive inquisitor, whose resolution as chairman of the Senate Airmail Committee sent Brittin to jail and would have committed MacCracken but for the latter's appeal, announced last night the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court, for a final word on the right of Congress to punish those who defy it.

Upon the high court's decision will rest MacCracken's eventual victory, and possibly an award of damages to Col. Brittin, the latter's attorney, Seth W. Richardson, said last night.

By a three-to-two decision, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals found yesterday that the Senate did not have the power to punish MacCracken for a "past and completed" contempt. It ordered the judgment of the District Supreme Court reversed, the cause remanded, and the lawyer, who has been free on $5,000 bail, discharged from custody.

Sentenced by Senate.

At the time of the Senate inquiry which resulted in cancellation of the air-mail contracts, MacCracken, legal representative of several private carriers for a time, refused to deliver to the Black committee his client's papers, which had been subpenaed. Some of these papers

Near Beer Must Go, Chicago Council Votes

Chicago, July 9 (AP).—You may have to sneak up the alley if you want near-beer in Chicago. A "near-beer-must-go!" ordinance had the approval today of the city council's license committee.

The idea is that much near-beer sold here is far too near. In fact, said the councilmen, it's beer, but under the other name it can be sold without a license.

Roosevelt Reads, Naps, Sun Bathes; Nearing Colombia

Aboard the U. S. S. Gilmer accompanying President Roosevelt, July 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt neared the South American coast tonight after spending the whole day under the azure sky of the Caribbean, reading fiction and sleeping.

The President, on board the cruiser Houston, was favored by fair weather as the ship held to a diagonal course for Cartagena, Colombia, where he will land tomorrow for a visit with the Colombian President.

The President spent a great deal of time on deck today, enjoying a sun bath.

The President is watching official reports relayed to him from the White House, showing particular interest in those relating to the longshoremen's strike at San Francisco.

2 Scottsboro Boys Get Stay of Death

Fight Before U.S. Supreme Court Heralded.

Montgomery, Ala., July 9 (AP).—A new legal step in the now nearly four-year-old "Scottsboro case" was taken today with the filing of an application for a rehearing before the Alabama Supreme Court, resulting in an indefinite stay of execution for the two colored boys under death sentence.

The rehearing application probably will not be acted upon before October, as the Alabama Supreme Court now is in recess.

In event the rehearing is denied, the court will again set a date of execution, with the next step to save the defendants an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Revived Vow Ties France And Britain

Friendly Understanding Reached at Parley of Leaders.

Locarno Pledge Made Stronger by Simon and Barthou.

London, July 9 (AP).—A friendly "understanding" between Great Britain and France fortifying and bringing up to date provisions of the Locarno pact, was believed to have been reached between Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and the French foreign minister, Louis Barthou.

While the actual results of the important sessions were bound up tight in official secrecy, it was understood France was warmly assured Great Britain has every intention of fulfilling all her obligations under the Locarno treaty.

At the same time a shadow was cast over Anglo-French naval conversations by Italy's refusel to modify her announced naval construction plans. It was understood that Barthou brought this strongly to the attention of British officials.

Await Italy's Plans.

The French, it was reported, may feel unable to pursue extensively their preconference discussions in preparation for the 1935 naval parley until the full extent of Mussolini's plans is revealed.

"All the French want to know is whether Italy means business," said an informant. "If so, France has no alternative but to follow suit. If not, then there is a good chance for a Franco-Italian understanding."

Unofficial sources interpreted reports concerning the "understanding" between France and Britain to mean that technical collaboration of British and armed forces is assured the French, in case Belgium ever is invaded.

Not to Be Discussed.

All quarters were agreed, however, that Barthou had not suggested any sort of political pact and that none will be discussed.

Barthou was understood to have outlined elaborately France's needs for eastern European security pacts. He assured the British there was no ulterior motive in forming such pacts and that they were for peace enforcement purposes only.

The British hold that such pacts are purely continental and outside their sphere, but they were pleased

Provision Man Shot in Head

C. A. M. Loffler Found in His Garage; Family Refuses Comment.

A successful operation to remove a bullet from the brain of Charles A. M. Loffler, 57, proprietor of the A. Loffler Provision Co., Convention Hall Market, was performed at Garfield Hospital yesterday after the merchant was mysteriously shot in the garage of his Silver Spring home.

His condition was still grave last night and Mrs. Loffler and his son, Andreas L. Loffler, were beside the hospital bed.

Arising at his accustomed hour of 5 a. m. to go to work yesterday, Mr. Loffler descended into the garage of his home at 11 Mansion drive. Soon a pistol shot awakened his wife and son.

The merchant was found lying on the floor with a bullet wound in the right side of his head just above the ear. After emergency treatment by Dr. Gerald A. Scully he was removed to Garfield in a private ambulance.

Neither Mrs. Loffler nor the son would comment on the shooting.

'Assassin Proof' U. S. Cars Sent Into Cuban Strife

Pittsburgh, July 9 (AP).—An automobile that is as ordinary in appearance as the family car, but in reality an assassination-proof arsenal on wheels, is being pressed into the police war against crime and disorder in Cuba.

Its sides are made of bullet-proof steel and its windows and windshield are an inch thick and shatter proof. Upholstery between the front and rear seats conceals a large kit of submachine guns, rifles, ammunition, tear gas and gas masks.

Its tires are puncture proof and as for speed — "Eighty miles an hour," the manufacturers say.

Ten of the cars, with a dozen heavily-armored trucks of box-like appearance, were shipped to Havana today to help President Mendieta's government maintain law and order, the Pittsburgh producers announced.

Mountain Climber Falls To Death in Wyoming

Jackson, Wyo., July 9 (AP).—H. R. Leese, 29, of Milwaukee, was killed today in a fall while climbing the Grand Teton north of here.

His companion, Fred Orendorf, 28, was reported missing. Rangers of the Grand Teton National Park who were dispatched to search for him feared he also was dead.

Pound-Dollar Stabilization Plan Attacked

Thomas Charges Harrison Overstepping Rights in Money Talks.

By Elliott Thurston.

George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has no authority from the State or Treasury Departments, or from the Federal Reserve Board, to propose or promote stabilization of the dollar. Nor is he acting for this Government in seeking equal treatment for American holders of Dawes and Young plan German bonds.

The Treasury, the State Department and the Reserve Board did their utmost yesterday to end a tempest in a teapot, provoked by dispatches from Basel, Switzerland, indicating that the New York Reserve Bank governor was consulting with Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and others, with a view to "tying the dollar to the pound."

The publicity attending Harrison's trip stirred up the inflationists to violent protest. Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, their Congressional leader, made public a voluminous cablegram echoing the views of the ever vigilant Committee for the Nation. It was addressed to Harrison, care of the Bank for

Family Reunion Ends in Suicide

Danville, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Mrs. W. D. Mansfield, 43, who last night ended a family reunion at Milton, N. C., near here, by swallowing poison. She died five minutes later. With her husband she had gone to attend the birthday dinner of her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. L. Mansfield.

She went to her husband's car and drank the poison, walked to the front porch where the guests had gathered, informed her husband what she had done and collapsed in his arms. She died before a doctor arrived.

Mansfield said his wife was despondent over illness.

Nazi Influence Menace to U.S. Moley Says

'Bales of Propaganda' Cited at Hearing Before House Group.

New York, July 9 (AP).—A warning by Raymond Moley, former Assistant Secretary of State, against the spread of Nazi influence in this country and testimony of "bales of propaganda," sent here from Germany, were heard today by the subcommittee of the special House Committee on un-American Activities.

Moley, an advisor to President Roosevelt, appeared before the committee briefly as editor of the magazine Today.

"Whether an organic connection with the Government is proved or not, any organization that has the same ideals as the Nazis in Germany is a danger to our country," Moley said.

Fritz Gissibl, member of the national Socialist party of Germany, made the disclosure regarding propaganda pamphlets, some of them attacking Jews and Masons. He declared the material was distributed by the "Friends of New Germany," an organization for which Bissibl is the newly appointed Middle Western leader.

Wished "Favorable Articles."

The committee also made public testimony taken at a previous private hearing purporting to show that Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador at Washington, had ar-

Mississippi Dry Laws Go Before Voters Today

Jackson, Miss., July 9 (AP).—Mississippi will vote tomorrow whether to throw overboard its 25-year-old dry statutes and legalize the sale of hard liquor.

If a majority votes against Statewide prohibition the May-Roberts act becomes immediately effective and the State liquor commission is to advertise at once for bids for wholesale shipments of liquor, which will be distributed to State liquor stores in those counties where a majority of voters favor sale of intoxicating beverages.

Horse Race Riches Dangled As Bait in Huge Swindle

New York, July 9 (AP).—Federal jurors cocked ears to real-life swindle tales as prosecutors sought to pin the far-reaching activities of an international bunco ring to James C. McKay and William J. Graham, Reno (Nev.) gambling kings.

A parade of disillusioned persons, ranging from middle age to autumn infirmity, warmed the witness stand with voluble and indignant testimony about an alleged systematic fraud scheme whose locale extended from Florida to Saskatchewan, and whose operators invariably took their victims to Reno for the "killing."

Edward W. Gilsdorf, of Chicago, 70, said he lost $150,000; Judson A. Elston, 83, United States commissioner at Caldwell, Idaho, gave up $23,600; Frank Diauto, of Randolph, Mass., lost $25,000. Allison Forbes, ranch owner, of Victoria, B. C., was loser by $30,000. George Kurchus, Flint, Mich., mechanical engineer, said he was swindled out of $61,000.

Frank Roskwitalski, Buffalo, N. Y., coal and wood dealer, testified he lost $15,000. Frederick Bray, of Guernsey, Saskatchewan, said his loss was $21,000.

In each case, except that of Kurchus, the alleged swindlers dangled huge but fictitious race track winnings before the victims and told them the cash was theirs if they put up the necessary "good faith" money.

In each case the money was put up and "lost" on another horse—always the "wrong horse" on the final bet. In the Kurchus case it was the stock market that was played, and the "wrong stock" was purchased in the end.

In each case, transfer of money or liquidation of stocks and bonds for the victims was effected through the Riverside Bank of Reno. George Wingfield, Nevada copper king and president of the bank, has been subpenaed by the Government. Roy J. Frisch, cashier of the bank, is missing.

The alleged victims told the jury the gang always was careful to get them out of Reno after the swindle. Railroad tickets were bought for them and they were told their losses would be made good.

Storm Troopers Assert They Prefer Jail to German Regime.

Reich Pushes Drive On Armed Forces

Powerful Veterans Group Is Ordered Out of Uniforms.

Mulhouse, France, July 9 (U.P.). Uniformed Nazi Storm Troopers crossed the border at Kembs tonight, announcing they preferred prison sentences for illegal entry into France to continued residence in Germany.

The refugees, fleeing the purging of the Nazi party by Chancellor Hitler, said numerous Storm Troopers were leaving Germany for Holland.

Berlin, July 9 (U.P.).—A new move to take millions of Germans out of uniform and restore the Reich to normal civil life gained impetus tonight with an order for the Steel Helmets' war veterans organization to take an enforced holiday until August 18.

During the vacation period, wearing of the uniform of the organization was forbidden.

The order followed a declaration earlier of a month's holiday for the Nazi Storm Troops. They, likewise, are not to appear in uniform during July. The result was expected to lessen tension between the two semi-military bodies and permit the people to forget the bloody events of the past ten days.

Ask For Hitler.

The Storm Troops' new commander, Viktor Lutze, also granted members permission to leave the country for trips abroad, such as the Nazi welfare organization have scheduled for workers this summer.

The vexatious problem of demobilizing the Storm Troops will be Chancellor Hitler's first task on returning from a quiet week-end in Bavaria, where, for the first time since executions began on June 30, he had a chance to review the troubled domestic situation calmly.

After settling the Storm Troops' issue, Hitler plans to embark on the new cruiser Deutschland for a holiday voyage in Scandinavian waters, it was reported. He will be accompanied by Defense Minister Werner von Blomberg and a few other high reichswehr (army) officers.

Thugs Kidnap Young Couple

Youth and Girl Are Forced to Drive 2 Near Border, Then Robbed.

Worcester, Mass., July 9 (U.P.).—A young Worcester couple, college students, related tonight how they were kidnaped at gun point while driving and forced to go 20 miles to a lonely wooded country, where they were robbed and ejected early today by two youths claiming to be escaped killers.

Miss Kashman was driving Sharfman home. Near the Sharfman home the gunmen, who said they had escaped from a prison and were heading for Canada, jumped on the running board.

They forced Sharfman to take the wheel from Miss Kashman, and to drive north toward the New Hampshire border. When they told Sharfman he would have to drive them all the way to Canada, he and his comapnion protested. They stopped beyond Hubbardstown, about 20 miles distant, and after handing over $9, his watch and some papers, Sharfman and Miss Kashman were put out of the car.

Reno, Nev., July 9 (U.P.).—Sistie and Buzzie Dall are just another pair of kids to Indian children in the Pyramid Lake region. When President Roosevelt's grandchildren threw stones at several little redskins recently, they had to be rescued by a Secret Service man.

Sistie and Buzzie were playing with six Indian children near the ranch home where Mrs. Curtis Dall is residing preparatory to obtaining a divorce. An argument arose. Sistie and Buzzie threw stones at their playmates, who replied in kind.

A Secret Service operative assigned to watch the Dall children stopped the ruckus before any one was hurt.

greatest single source of trouble within the party. Moderates who still would like to see the dismissal of other high radical advisers for the present are willing to allow the Nazis a breathing spell to work out their own problems.

Depends on Storm Troops.

On the spirit with which the rank and file of the Storm Troops accept disbandment depends to a great extent the cohesion of the Nazi party.

The number to be retained as mentioned in responsible circles varies from 100,000 to 700,000 men, but best informed opinion believes the new Storm Troop will not exceed 350,000. What to do with those disbanded remained a serious aspect of the problem, but it was hoped many can be absorbed in labor camps.

Meanwhile, it was understood Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen would go on leave the end of the week, perhaps first visiting President Paul von Hindenburg at Neudeck, East Prussia. Decision on his resignation, again offered, probably will be postponed until late in the summer.

It is generally believed Von Papen never will return to his duties as vice chancellor.

Meanwhile, in conformity with the announced plans to restore the nation to normal following the executions of the last ten days, the authorities proceeded with reorganization of the concentration camps.

High feeling between the Storm Troops and Steel Helmets was increased with the death of Fritz Molzahn, a Storm Trooper, as result of wounds inflicted by Erich Kummerow, a member of the veterans' organization, on June 23 at Quetzin.

Powers Seek to Learn Motive in Peace Plea

(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.)

Berlin, July 9.—An apparent softening of the Nazi attitude toward Germany's neighbors and the great powers brought a siege of callers today to foreign diplomatic missions in Berlin, seeking to know the meaning behind the address of Cabinet Minister Rudolf Hess.

The official German version that this was the greatest peace speech of modern times did not seem to satisfy foreign observers, and significance was sought behind Hess' flattery of Louis Barthou, the French foreign minister, and his lavish compliments to the French nation, especially to her war veterans.

The fact that Hess, recently mentioned as possible successor to Franz von Papen as vice chancellor, instead of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, was chosen as spokesman for Nazi foreign policies, also was commented upon as having possible internal political significance.

Viewed as Apology.

The consensus among the chief foreign missions seemed to be that Hess in a way was trying to apologize for the actions of the propaganda ministry when it "suggested" to the entire German press to splurge in large headlines the details of an alleged plot between some of the Germans who were executed June 30 and France.

Another interpretation was that Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath and Gen. Joaquim von Ribbentrop, the foreign minister's envoy on disarmament, have been warning Hitler of an isolation in which Germany finds herself and told him that his expressed approval of the June 30 executions had fallen with somewhat unwelcome effect on foreign ears.

A third interpretation was that the Reichswehr (regular army) has left no doubt but that the belligerent attitude fostered by the Storm Troops must be considered a closed chapter.

Unexpected Move.

It was believed the necessity had been made plain of bending every effort toward reaching an understanding between France and Germany, especially in view of the conversations in London today between Barthou and British officials.

The Hess address, made to 12,000 Nazi chieftains at Koenigsberg yesterday, stressed the belief that a defenseless country endangers world peace and said that Germany would be satisfied with armaments sufficiently strong to maintain security.

In all quarters the Hess speech was considered an unexpected reversal of a firm Nazi foreign policy. Only a few weeks ago Germany emphasized again that she must have many more arms and would not be dictated to. The position was that the world must woo Germany's friendship.

French Suspicions Are Not Allayed

Paris, July 9 (AP).—"Actions speak louder than words" was the tenor of comment in French circles tonight on the gesture toward France by Rudolph Hess, German cabinet minister, in his address yesterday.

Official circles made no public comment, but indicated that French suspicions of the Nazi government remained.

The motive for the peaceful gesture was seen as realization on the part of Hitler of the need to dissipate international hostility toward his regime.

The Hess speech was believed to have been timed to discourage French efforts to line up Great Britain and other powers in "defensive" agreements.

One spokesman said that the French remain "a peaceful people," and declared that the speech of the German minister made no change in the situation, since "it wound up with the same old demand for arms, to which France can not consent."

ranged free transportation to Germany for several American writers because he hoped they would present Germany in a favorable light in subsequent articles.

Gissibl asserted that the "bales of propaganda" came from the foreign propaganda office in Germany.

"And that was to be spread in this coutnry?" demanded Representative John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee.

"Yes, if you call it that."

Wishes to Be Citizen.

What Gissibl called it, he said, was not spreading propaganda but "showing the other side of the picture—the true side."

Hitler, he testified, represented "the racial feelings of Germans, no matter where they live or where they are born."

"Do you mean that applies to you as an American citizen, if you become one?" asked McCormack.

"Yes, in a sentimental manner, not a political manner."

Gissibl, who succeeded Heinz Spanknoebel as a liaison agent between the Nazi government and German organizations here, stressed that he resigned from the National Socialist party in order to become an American citizen.

Asked when he applied for his first citizenship papers, he answered, "this morning."

The evidence about Dr. Luther and the free boat rides to Germany came through John Schroeder, managing director of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Steamship Lines.

Schroeder said Dr. Luther had spoken to him personally about free transportation for Col. E. Alexander Powell. Dr. Luther was quoted by Heinz Schuengel, managing director of the lines, as expected "much good in favor of Germany from the activity of this well-known writer."

"Reluctant" to Act.

Others for whom free transportation was requested were Karl K. Kitchen, Burton Holmes, the lecturer; Mrs. Helen Appleton Reed, James Aswelt and Allen Cleaton.

Schroeder's testimony declared he "reluctantly" permitted the organization of units of the "German labor front in the United States" in offices of the steamship companies by C. Mensing, National chairman. He was told to do so by Spanknoebel, he asserted, but admitted that he had been "misled."

A notice from Mensing to the employes, read into the record, announced that those who did not join would lose their German citizenship and could not get work if they returned to Germany.

Congressmen Begin Oil Industry Probe

Tulsa, Okla., July 9 (AP).—A Congressional committee of five headed by Representative William P. Cole, of Maryland, began an investigation of the oil industry here today in informal and private conferences with oil executives.

Cole said the conferences were designed to lay the groundwork for open hearings next fall, when testimony will be taken on which to base recommendations to Congress.

If a Horse Laugh Is Heard, It Must Be Robert Lee's

Robert Lee, colored, probably would be in jail today had it not been for his horse.

Lee, who drives a trash wagon, was arrested on a charge of intoxication early yesterday. He was arraingned before Judge Given in Police Court. He took the witness stand and pleaded for leniency—but not for himself.

"Judge," he said, "I don't mind going to jail for this offense, but will you please appoint someone to take care of my horse?"

"Where is your horse?" the court asked.

"He's all alone at home. There won't be nobody to take care of him while I'm in jail."

"That being the case," grinned Judge Given, "I'll let you go home. Your horse will probably be glad to see you."

School Study Of Film Value Planned Here

Courses in Appreciation Considered by Catholic Leaders Here.

The possibility of instituting motion picture appreciation courses in Catholic schools with the opening of the fall term as part of Washington's League of Decency campaign, will be discussed this week with the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary archbishop of the Diocese of Baltimore, campaign heads said yesterday.

"We think it a good idea to encourage appreciation of good motion pictures in the schools just as courses in musical appreciation are now taught," said Mrs. Harry J. Kirk, chairman of the committee on public morals of the Sodality Union of Washington, directors here of the Nation-wide campaign against "unclean movies."

A committee composed of the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, pastor of St. Francis Xaxier Church and spiritual director of the local movement; Miss Mary Mattingly, in charge of Catholic pledge returns, and Mrs. Kirk will meet soon with Bishop McNamara, it was said. Means of calling in more pledges against viewing "unclean movies" also will be discussed, Mrs. Kirk said.

About 20,000 pledges have been distributed among the 35 parishes included in the Capital district, of which at least 10,000 are expected to be returned, she continued.

"Many persons who are not sending in pledges are living up to the spirit of the pledge just the same," she said.

The office of the Washington Federation of Churches, composed of Protestant churches here, yesterday said that it is expected that the federation will join next fall with the Catholic "League of Decency" in its campaign against "unclean movies."

Federal Relief Office At Ashland Helps 100

Ashland, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—One hundred applicants were aided during June by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration here, Dorothy Jones, Hanover County relief director, reports.

The relief office spent $2,000 on purchaser orders and work-grocery orders. July expenses probably will be reduced through utilization of products from subsistence gardens.

Mrs. Roosevelt Wins Marathon With Chicago Fair Reporters

Chicago, July 9 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's visit to the World's Fair, which started as a game of hide and seek and developed into a marathon, ended today in a walkaway for the First Lady.

The wife of the President ended a whirlwind inspection of A Century of Progress apparently as fresh as when she began. In her wake were members of her party and assorted curious, all in various stages of exhaustion.

At the start of the day Mrs. Roosevelt granted an interview with the press and warned newspapermen she intended to see the World's Fair "like any other visitor," and that any attempt to follow her would result in a game of hide and seek.

Paying her own admission, she entered the gate at 10:15 a. m., with her brother, G. Hall Roosevelt, of New York, and her secretary, Miss Malvina Scheider.

After half an hour in the Ford Building, the party, with Mrs. Roosevelt in the van, hiked to the General Motors Building. Her brother appeared to be the only one who could match her strides, and others in her party and an unofficial retinue of some 20 reporters and photographers broke into a trot to keep up.

She had lunch at the Administration Building with Rufus and Mrs. Dawes. Then the sprint was on again.

Ahead of their pursuers, the Roosevelts, walking alone, went through the Hall of States and visited the exhibit of her friend, "Slim" Williams, who has an Alaskan show.

She was in the midst of a discussion with the grizzled, ruddy-faced William when her panting followers caught up. She patted the head of Rembrandt, "boss" dog of Williams' pack of Alaskan huskies, and posed with Williams for photographers in keeping with a covenant made with the cameramen.

She hurried through the medical exhibits, but paused momentarily before a demonstration of a "strong motion accelerograph."

to obtain full information from Barthou.

Many have interpreted France's recently consummated agreements with the Little Entente and other eastern European nations as "ringing Germany with steel." Germany is known to be concerned over conversations here and endeavoring to learn exactly what France's plans are, and also the extent of the friendly understanding between France and England.

Conference Is Lengthy.

The entire British and French delegations conferred all morninft but in the afternoon the foreign ministers discussed political affairs. The French ambassador had a private conversation with high British officials on sea questions.

So extensive were the conversations this afternoon that separate political and naval discussions will be held again tomorrow morning. Barthou will leave for Paris tomordow.

Italys announced plans for construction of two 35,000-ton battle ships were understood to have figured heavily in the conversations today.

Behind the scenes, pressure has been brought to bear on Italy from several quarters to bring about modifications of her building program, but so far unsuccessfully.

Disarmament Discussed.

Disarmament in all its phases was aired at a luncheon given by Sir John Simon in honor of Barthou. Sir Arthur Henderson, president of the world disarmament conference, was present. He was the only person there not directly connected with the Anglo-French discussions.

Acting Prime Minister Stanley Beldwin did not attend today's conversations, but will give a luncheon for Barthous at 10 Downing street tomorrow.

Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at Large, was expected to confer with Barthou some time before the latter's departure.

Murray Given W. Virginia Post

Former Valuation Expert Here Is Public Service Group Chief.

J. Donald Murray, formerly valuation expert of the District Public Utilities Commission, yesterday was appointed chief valuation accountant of the West Virginia Public Service Commission, with headquarters at Charleston, W. Va.

George Wilson, accountant, was made first assistant to Murray. They assume their new duties today.

Employment of Murray followed a decision of the West Virginia commission to conduct a State-wide investigation of the 337 public utilities companies operating in the State.

Murray was a member of the District commission staff for the last 11 years. He was one of 14 persons it was necessary to drop June 30 because of reduced appropriations.

All except two of these have been employed at materially increased salaries.

Amsterdam Strike Brings New Clash

Marines Rule Waterfront, Riot Victims Buried.

Amsterdam, Holland, July 9 (U.P.).—A fresh strike broke out on Amsterdam's water front today, causing further clashes which marines and police tried hard to quell. The harbor still was occupied by marines tonight. Quiet prevailed as night fell.

Funeral services for the first victims in the rioting which began last Saturday were conducted without incident.

At Rotterdam, 200 workers struck in response to agitation by Communists seeking to tie up the dock workers. Ten Iindependent Socialists and one executive committee member were arrested on charges of inciting rebellion. Six were released.

Appeals Court Sets M'Cracken Sentence Aside

Holds Senate Exceeded Its Authority; Action May Aid Brittin.

subsequently were destroyed by Brittin. On February 14, the Senate, by a two-to-one vote, adopted a resolution to commit MacCracken and Brittin to jail for ten days. Two other air-line officials, Harris M. Hanshue and Gilert L. Givvin, were tried by the Senate and acquitted of contempt charges.

Col. Brittin, his connection with his firm severed and his financial resources nil, squared his military shoulders and went to the District Jail, without appeal.

MacCracken, represented by Frank J. Hogan, entered into a vigorous legal struggle to escape the Senate's sentence, launching a series of court appeals, which followed an earlier game of hide-and-seek with the Senate's sergeant at arms, Chesley W. Jurney.

Senate Power Challenged.

Hogan contended his client had purged himself of the contempt charge by delivering the papers, eventually, to the Black committee, and that the Senate lacked power to punish MacCracken, since the offense was over and done with before the legislative body brought the accused attorney before it.

This contention was upheld by the Appelate Court's majority decision yesterday, Justices Robb, Martin and Van Orsdel holding the Senate should have cited MacCracken to the courts for punishment. Justices Groner and Hitz dissented.

"Unless there is to be an intermingling of the legislative and judicial power to deal with contempt," the majority decision read, "thereby rendering it possible in all cases as a matter of legislative power summarily to try one thus accused without subjecting him to the statutory modes of trial provided for criminal offenses, protected by the limitations and safeguards of the Constitution, then we must and do declare that the Senate is without jurisdiction to inflict this punishment on the petitioner. The judgment, therefore, is reversed, and the cause remanded, with directions to discharge the petitioner from custody."

Held Case for Courts.

Both Senate and House, the appellate court ruled, have Constitutional power to punish anyone obstructing legislative processes, but the power ceases if the offense is not a continuing one.

In effect, the court held that if a witness permitted papers to be destroyed or otherwise disappear, and so was unable to deliver them in accordance with a Senate summons, his offense would be completed, and the courts would become the proper tribunals to pass on the case.

Dissenting from this finding, Justices Groner and Hitz held that "to say at one moment that the power exists to punish for failure to deliver papers, and then to say that it is lost if the competency of the witness results in destruction rather than in deliberate withholding, seems to be both inharmonious and absurd."

MacCracken at first declined to produce papers of the aviation companies without his clients' permission. Col. Brittin then removed papers sought by the Black committee, and destroyed them. Givvin, Washington representative of Western Air Express, also removed papers from MacCracken's files, at Hanshue's instigation, but these later were returned and delivered to the committee.

By-Play With Jurney.

When the Senate ordered MacCracken's arrest, the by-play between the lawyer and Sergeant at Arms Jurney ensued. Armed with a Senate warrant, Jurney set out to look for MacCracken, but failed to find him for several days.

Then, on a Saturday evening, MacCracken showed up at Jurney's residence, and demanded to be arrested. As the warrant directed the sergeant-at-arms to bring his prisoner immediately before the bar of the Senate, which was not then in session, Jurney declined to effect the arrest. MacCracken refused to leave, so Jurney put him up on a cot for the night.

Before retiring, MacCracken obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Supreme Court Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue at the latter's home. On Monday morning, MacCracken appeared before Justice O'Donoghue, maintaining he had been arrested, but the court held that this was a misrepresentation of the facts and fined the lawyer $100.

After his sentence by the Senate, MacCracken again appeared before Justice O'Donoghue, claiming the legislative body lacked the power to punish him for an offense that was not continuing. United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett opposed the motion, and the court held that the Senate had not exceeded its powers and ordered that MacCracken be turned over to the sergeant-at-arms.

It was this decision which was reversed yesterday by the appellate branch.

MacCracken Gratified.

Questioned yesterday as to the course his office would pursue, Garnett said the matter rested with Senator Black, as the Government was not a party to the suit.

Black told the Associated Press last night he "assumed" the matter would be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

If the Government were a party to the suit, Garnett would forward briefs and the appellate court's decision to Attorney General Cummings, with recommendations for action by Solicitor General Biggs. In the recent case, Garnett said, it will rest with Black whether the United States Attorney or the Solicitor General asks the high court for a writ of certiorari.

Pending a possible appeal to the Supreme Court, MacCracken yesterday declined to comment, other than to say that he was "pleased and gratified."

Col. Brittin's attorney, however, said that if the appellate court's decision is upheld, or not reversed by the high court, it will have a most important bearing upon his client's position.

"It will be merely a matter of how much compensatory damages he is awarded," Richardson said. "The Senate was warned time and again at the time of the trial that it was exceeding its authority."

Col. Brittin had not consulted his attorney, and the latter said the former aviation pioneer "probably won't have anything to say until we see what the Supreme Court does."

School Delay Blame Placed On Art Board

Gotwals Enters Dispute; Dr. Ballou Replies to Moore.

Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, entering the controversy between the Fine Arts Commission and the Board of Education, yesterday placed responsibility for delay in constructing the Woodrow Wilson High School with the Fine Arts Commission.

"The delay," he said, "was due entirely to the commission changing its mind on the location of that building. We adopted a plan and then the Fine Arts Commission decided they wanted it built in a 'romantic setting.' Then it took them a long time to decide what they meant by that."

Comment of the Engineer Commissioner was prompted by a letter from Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, to Charles Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts Commission. Dr. Ballou was replying to a letter from Moore in which the latter criticized school authorities for failure to submit to the commission a list of proposed school buildings sufficiently far in advance of building to permit the commission to pass upon their esthetic qualities.

Moore singled out the Woodrow Wilson High School for special criticism, saying it had been planned for a flat site, but had been built on a hillside.

The Fine Arts Commission should have written to the District Commissioners and the Budget Bureau, Dr. Ballou said in his reply, and pointed out that the Commissioners and the Budget Bureau always cut the school building estimates prepared by the Board of Education.

Chest to Open Air Camps for Brief Sessions

Requests for Aid Fail to Record Seasonal Drop in D. C.

Although requests for relief do not show the usual summer decreases, the Community Chest has collected sufficient funds from last year's pledges to open various fresh air camps for a short time this summer, it was reported yesterday to the Board of Trustees.

The report of the Application Bureau showed that 507 requests for aid were made during June, nearly as many as were made last November. Of these applicants, 85 were white. Only 12 were transients. Collections of funds are proportionately ahead of last year, it was reported by William J. Flather, jr., treasurer.

A nursery school which will serve as a model for the Nation is being planned for Washington, Elwood Street, former director of the Chest and now Director of Public Welfare, told the board. Mr. Street and Walter S. Ufford, former general secretary of the Associated Charities, were elected members of the board.

Changes were made in the by-laws to permit the executive committee to act for the Board of Trustees between board meetings. H. L. Rust, jr., chairman of the campaign committee, outlined some plans for the fall drive. He reported that plans were more nearly complete than ever before at this time of the year. The publicity committee told of its "open house" held on June 7 at St. Joseph's Home and School. This is only the first of a series of similar events to be held in institutions helped by the Chest.

Two Montgomery Mines Start Work

Christiansburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). Two coal mines in the mining region of Montgomery County have resumed operations, but approximately 450 miners are reported still out of work pending approval of a new wage scale.

The Pulaski Coal Co. resumed operations through receipt of Government contracts and other orders and the Virginia Anthracite Coal Co. resumed under an agreement with the miners on the wage scale.

Several weeks ago the distressed condition of the miners became acute in this region and an appeal was made to the relief administrator of Montgomery County. An emergency grant was obtained from the county board of supervisors for $300 and flour was purchosed and distributed among the needy. A little later another grant was made.

New Group Will Clean Out Undesirable Elements.

Liquor dealers of the District of Columbia organized yesterday at a meeting in the Mayflower Hotel and announced their intention to clean out undesirable elements in the business.

The organization is composed of those who sell liquor only and is headed by William Sachs, proprietor of the Quality Liquor Store. M. J. Davis, of the law firm of Davis & Travers, was named secretary.

Thomas Charges Harrison Is Overstepping Rights in Money Talks.

International Settlements, Basel. It was blistering.

No Mincing of Words.

"I warn you," it said, "that any step you take toward tying our money in any way to any foreign money is a usurpation of the powers and prerogatives of Congress."

"As a member of Congress," it added, "I protest your assumed authority to meddle in this way. Your viewpoint and your activities do not represent the best interests of our people, and your acts are certain to provoke a demand for a Congressional inquiry.

"Your reported activities can lead to so many serious consequences that I am communicating with my fellow members of Congress concerning them."

Scarcely a year ago the same inflationist forces were up in arms because Harrison, with President Roosevelt's since ousted financial advisers, James P. Warburg and Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, was dickering with the Bank of England and Bank of France for an exchange-steadying agreement which Mr. Roosevelt blasted in his celebrated July 3 message that blew up the London Economic Conference.

Departments Disclaim Him.

Assuming that Harrison was back at the old stan dagain, the inflationists, through Thomas, worked themselves into another fever yesterday. And having learned a lesson a year ago, the Government departments concerned lost no time in disavowing Harrison as their emissary or agent.

"He is not acting for the State Department," said Secretary Hull, who explained that he has had no communication whatever with the traveling banker.

"No, he is not," replied Acting Secretary of the Treasury T. Jefferson Coolidge emphatically when he was asked if Harrison is acting for the Treasury Department.

"He has no authority from us to propose stabilization," said Gov. Eugene Black of the Federal Reserve Board when the same question was thrust at him.

As Mr. Roosevelt is away and the White House practically closed down for the present, there was nobody over there to disavow Harrison, either. However, it seemed quite clear that he is abroad on his own, that the inflationists are needlessly tearing their hair.

Tempest in Teapot.

Harrison obtained from the Reserve Board—as he had to do under the law—the necessary authority to go abroad to attend the meeting of the B. I. S. But there and at the State and Treasury Departments it was made abundantly plain that getting this permission gave him no more authority to negotiate for the United States than getting a passport conferred upon him. A few regrets were heard that Harrison had achieved so much publicity. It seemed like old and best forgotten times.

Out of the incipient tumult emerged once more the fact that the Roosevelt Administration still thinks of stabilization as something for the impenetrably remote future. The Treasury view is that England is not ready to discuss the subject because of the uncertainties on the continent, the desire to keep a free hand as we do and unwillingness to peg the dollar and pound at their present ratios.

Thus such random hopes, for early ending of the exchange chaos, as lingered among State Department advisers who want to promote reciprocal tariffs, or among the "sound money" survivors in the Treasury, go glimmering again. The annual episode serves at least to re-illuminate that subject.

The British Object.

Inasmuch as there is no discoverable governmental sanction for any negotiating by Harrison, the Thomas-Committee for the Nation cablegram becomes largely academic.

This 1,200-word message alluded to the publicity, recited the Committee for the Nation's argument for restoring 1926 price levels, and for further devaluation of the dollar to the limit of the President's authority, that is, halving the original gold content by making the price of gold $41.34 an ounce instead of $35 an ounce as at present. It insisted that the pound should equal at least $6.08. That would be fully $2 more to the pound than at present. And the British already object that the dollar is too low.

Then the cablegram scored Harrison. It said:

"You, Mr. Harrison, as head of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, which has exercised a dominating influence over the entire Federal Reserve System and the United States Treasury, led New York influences in counselling the deflation policy of the Hoover Administration. Your policy has been to keep unchanged or as low as possible the dollar price of gold while the purchasing power of gold increased two and one-half times in five years, or faster than ever before in economic history. Thereby you created deflation and brought needless, tragic destruction on our country. You ignored the example of wiser financial leadership in many other countries, which released their peoples through raising teh price of gold early and high enough to correspond with its increased value.

Blame Laid on Him.

"It was your personal fate through lack of understanding of monetary forces to be the central figure in the world's greatest, most inexcusable and most costly tragedy of financial leadership. I ask by what right do you now presume to initiate even a partial return to your policies which have been tested and proved so ruinous."

"Your efforts," it added, "in the exact measure that they progress, will handicap and embarrass the freedom of Congress to exercise its most important sovereign function. This country is no longer in a temper to tolerate manipulation of its money by private or international interests.

"Foreign central bankers and governments may not understand that your negotiations are an unwarranted usurpation of Constitutional powers of Congress, and therefore your unauthorized negotiations may result in serious complications, unless it is made clear that Congress has not delegated to anyone the power to regulate or influence the value of this Nation's money by tying it to any foreign currency."

If Harrison has any influence in persuading Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, to give equal treatment to American holders of German bonds, if British or other holders are paid at least part interest, the State Department will be gratified. But even that will be unofficial aid. Harrison, it appears, is about the most unofficial observer who has ever sailed abroad.

600 "Babies" Attend Kress Anniversary

Obstetrician Greeted by Some of the 3,571 She Brought Into World.

Youngest 2 Weeks Old.

Lillian Maxine Thomas, 2 weeks old, daughter of Mrs. George M. Thomas, was the youngest. Clad in the latest thing in baby fashions, Lillian was unaware that her official number in Mrs. Kress' catalogue is 3568, and that she was attending her first party.

The oldest "baby" in attendance was Ralph Raymond, of 218 Vine street, Takoma Park, who was born 36 years ago.

There were babies in blue, babies in pink, babies in yellow, and babies in green. There were older "babies" in tweed suits and white summer gloves. Swiftly-growing babies crawled over the greensward in rompers, and sometimes had to be spanked when they failed to mind.

Get New Introduction.

With the 600 youngsters came about 200 mothers and fathers, who introduced their offspring all over again to Mrs. Kress as she stood in the receiving line, formed informally on a slope in the garden.

"This," smiled Mrs. Kress, looking at her husband, a specialist in nervous and digestive disorders, "is the greatest day of my life. I'm 70, and feel as young as the youngest mother here. And my, what a large family I have, and how proud I am of myself."

No. 1 in Mrs. Kress' numerical baby catalogue was born in Flint, Mich., 42 years ago—the physician's first obstetrical case. She has lost track of that infant now.

Mrs. Kress was a mother when she went with her husband to the University of Michigan to study medicine. After their marriage, 50 years ago, in Flint, they lived the lives of ordinary business people, until the medical idea struck them.

In Takoma Park 27 Years.

After practicing for a while in Michigan, the couple went to England and then to Australia and New Zealand. They came to Takoma Park 27 years ago, and any baby in Takoma Park who doesn't know who Mrs. Kress is simply is not a native.

Several policemen patrolled the street in front of the Kress estate, across from the Takoma Park Sanitarium, while the party was in progress.

They saw to it that traffic didn't become too congested and that none of the little guests wandered into the street. Fifteen graduate nurses administered to the wants of the guests, and those who were yet too young to drink the punch were properly supplied with milk. One mother brought seven children, all of them delivered by Dr. Kress.

Many of the mothers who brought their babies were given their physical beginnings in life by Mrs. Kress. In the background hovered Mrs. Kress' daughter, Dr. Ora Mason, of Murray, Ky., the wife of Dr. William Mason and a physician in her own name.

"I'm very sorry all my babies, all those from the very start, can't be here," said Mrs. Kress wistfully.

"There are lots of them in Australia, for instance. And that's much too far away—even as the stork flies!"

ing wages low, conditions bad and lengthening hours through their hiring halls. They refuse jobs to those who resent this treatment.

Points to Lobby in Capitol.

"They have organized an extensive lobby at Washington to get all the benefits available, but they claim they can not organize to deal with us."

The control of hiring halls is the main issue in both the seamen's and longshoremen's strike. The unions demand control of these agencies and have refused to arbitrate the issue.

The shooting, following fights in which two men were killed and many injured, occurred last night.

Sentry Opens Fire.

Pickets began forming a group. On an officer's order a sentry fired two shots over the heads of the group and it dispersed. An automobile moved up before the Guard lines and police said four shots came from the speeding car. The Guardsmen dropped to the pavement and were not hit.

The Federal board's inquiry was adjourned to permit union representatives to attend the funeral of the two pickets killed last Thursday. The board also arranged to confer with the strategy committee of the San Francisco Labor Council.

Twenty of the 120 unions represented in the San Francisco Labor Council voted to support a general strike, and the teamsters of San Francisco and Oakland voted to go out Thursday morning unless the maritime strike is settled before that time.

Dodson Rites Set for Today

Retired Real Estate Man Had Been Active in Church, Civic Work.

Funeral services for I. B. Dodson, 73, retired real estate man, who died Sunday at his residence, 1860 Columbia road, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut avenue and Everett street. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder will officiate.

Mr. Dodson had been retired for the past ten years, but until that time was engaged in the real estate investment business and was actively interested in civic matters. He came to Washington from Danville, Va., as a young man.

Until its merger five years ago with the Saint Paul's Lutheran Church he was treasurer and councilman of the Epiphany Lutheran Church, serving in these capacities for 20 years and for the last five years has been a council member of St. Paul's.

A charter member of the Washington City Club and a life member of the National Highways Association, he also held membership in the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, Columbia Chapter, No. 10, Odd Fellows; Washington Board of Trade and Kalorama Citizens Association.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Gertrude Dodson; a son, Frederick W. Dodson, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Gordon, both of New York City.

Active pallbearers will be Luther W. Linkins, Lewis M. Neel, Will F. Disner, Homer N. Link, W. B. Robinson and G. G. Loehler. Honorary pallbearers will be George C. Husman, F. M. Criswell, Russell L. Alden, Abner Y. Leech, D. S. Harwood and David M. Rust.

Little Girl Badly Hurt When Struck by Auto

While playing in front of 825 Fifth street northwest yesterday afternoon, Mary F. Furr, 5, of 605 I street northwest, ran into the street and was knocked down by an automobile. She was taken to Emergency Hospital suffering from possible skull fracture and other injuries.

Police reported the automobile was driven by Leo J. Long, 49, of 1722 D street southeast. The accident was held unavoidable.

$19,909,464 Released to Depositors; Brightwood Payment Is Made.

With the Bank of Brightwood starting payment yesterday of a third dividend of 10 per cent, or approximately $100,000, to about 600 depositors, the Treasury Department made public figures revealing $20,927,177 of deposits still tied up in 16 of 19 closed banks in the District.

Analysis of the Treasury Department figures showed the estimated deposit release of the 16 banks dealt with in its report, plus probable offset allowance, to be $19,909,464 and that their deposits at failure were $40,836,641.

The department's chart, published elsewhere in this edition, fails to include deposits of three banks which did not reopen at the close of the National banking holiday of March, 1933. Two of these, Mount Vernon Savings and Franklin National, have been absorbed by Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, now the City Bank of Washintgon.

Assets Being Liquidated

Although Mount Vernon Savings released 40 per cent of its deposits, or $800,000, and Franklin National 65 per cent, or $2,000,000, at the time of their absorption, their remaining assets are now being liquidated by trustees in hope of further dividends. Efforts also are being made to open a third bank, the Industrial Savings, as a new institution.

When the unpaid deposits of the latter three are added to those of the department's report, it will be seen that unreleased deposits of the 19 closed banks of Washington approximate $22,000,000.

The Treasury Department's report dealt only with banks that are in receivership. The last named three are not in that category. It also fails to list the latest pay-off of the Bank of Brightwood.

May Seek RFC Aid.

Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. Connor said yesterday his department is making a study of the closed banks in Washington to see whether it could get additional funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the depositors.

He called attention to provisions of recent legislation with respect to loans on or purchase of assets of closed banks. This states that in making any purchase of or loan on the assets of closed banks, the corporation should appraise the assets in anticipation of orderly liquidation over a period of years rather than on the basis of forced selling values in a period of depression.

Comptroller O'Connor's statement followed his order last week levying a 100 per cent assessment against stockholders of five local banks, prime assets of which were used in the plan creating the Hamilton National Bank.

No statement or comment was made by the Treasury Department as to the assessment of two other banks' prime assets of which were sold in the Hamilton Bank plan. These are Washington Savings and Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Banks.

Assessment Notices Signed.

Notices of assessment of stockholders of the first of the foregoing Hamilton components, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., were being signed yesterday by Cary A. Hardee, receiver. Norman R. Hamilton, receiver for District National, Potomac, Northeast and Seventh Street Savings Banks, also took steps toward assessment of stockholders of these other four components of the Hamilton plan.

Although depositors in these banks received 50 per cent of their deposits on the opening of the Hamilton institution, doubt is expressed whether assessment of their stockholders or any other means can secure for them a similar percentage. In the history of closed bank liquidation, the average percentage of deposits freed is 65.

The undoubted inability of many stockholders to pay the assessment, coupled with an appreciable shrinkage in the banks' remaining assets militate against the depositors' chances of full payment.

Hit-Run Bicycle Damages.

Conneaut, Ohio (U.P.).—A "hit-skip" bicycle rider rode his way into a police court here. I. H. Baxter told police the rear fender and tail light on his car were damaged when the machine was struck by a "bike," while parked. He said the cyclist fled.

Reservoir Leak May Threaten Water Supply

War Department Speeds Repairs to Conduit at Cabin John.

The District engineer and a staff of assistants have started work on a small leak recently discovered in the second supply conduit at Cabin John Bridge, it was stated yesterday at the War Department. The leak may threaten Washington's water supply.

To determine the cause of the leak a night shift of workmen has been employed to open a trench alongside the massive siphon across Cabin John Creek, just below the bridge.

War Department officials said it is hoped a curtailment of the city's water supply can be avoided. However, they said it may be necessary to shut off, temporarily, one short section of the second supply line for inspection from the inside.

The conduit affected was constructed about ten years ago, paralleling the original Washington aqueduct from Great Falls to Dalecarlia Reservoir.

At present some additional water storage is available in the Dalecarlia, Georgetown and McMillan Reservoirs. However, this is not enough to carry the city through a prolonged summer period when water consumption is at a maximum.

Fredericksburg Rotary Club Elects Kishpaugh

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—R. A. Kishpaugh has succeeded Kuszner Bauman as president of the Rotary Club.

Cecil L. Reid was named vice president, W. W. Douthat was re-elected secretary, and C. C. Cox was chosen treasurer. The board of directors now consists of the officers, Dr. J. Minor Holloway and Chancellor King.

Street Car Fires Stampede Crowds

Traffic Tied Up as Flames Hit 2 Trolleys.

Passengers were thrown into a panic and traffic during the rush hour was disrupted when fires, due to short circuits, broke out on two crowded street cars late yesterday afternoon.

Crews of both cars, operated by the Capital Transit Co., succeeded in quieting the crowds and emptying the cars of passengers before any one was injured.

The first car caught fire at Fifteenth street and New York avenue northwest. Traffic was tied up about 15 minutes while firemen fought the ames. The second fire occurred at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest and tied up traffic for several minutes.

Third Arrest Made In Veteran's Death

Leesburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Richard J. Cooper, 48, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff B. C. Cooley late today and taken to the Leesburg jail in connection with the murder of Basil Brown, a disabled war veteran, whose beaten and hacked body was found in a ravine near here a week ago.

With Cooper's arrest, the number of men held in connection with the crime was brought to three. The others are Clarence Barnhouse, 46, formally charged with the slaying, and Cleveland Harper, 40.

Easy Fishing for Snake.

West Hartford, Conn. (U.P.).—Four times Patrolman Adam Stasium hooked a speckled trout, and four times, as he was about to net the fish, a large snake poked its head above the water and made off with the catch. Each time, Stasium said, he was compelled to cut the line.

G. W. Wharton, 59, Magazine Director, Dies

Newspaper Man Had Active Career in Civic and U. S. Work.

George W. Wharton, 59, widely known newspaperman and for many years advertising director of the National Geographic Magazine, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital after a long illness.

Born in New Orleans, La., where he spent his childhood and attended the public schools, Mr. Wharton went to New York. He was graduated from the Arts Department of Columbia University and later became a special reporter for New York papers.

He came to Washington in 1913 to accept a position in the Department of Agriculture, where he was one of the founders of the Department's information division. During the World War he was associated with the American Red Cross, the Liberty Loan Drive and other patriotic activities. He resided at 3812 Thirtieth street northwest.

In January, 1920, Mr. Wharton joined the staff of the National Geographic Magazine and remained active until January, 1932, when he retired because of ill health. He was a member of the National Press Club, the University Club and Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elna Harwood Wharton; George Wharton, jr., of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Armisted Wharton, of the Department of Agriculture; Aline Wharton, a student at Central High School, and Mrs. Vernon Brewster, of Sligo Park Hills, Md.

Funeral services will be held at the V. L. Speare funeral establishment, 1009 H street northwest, Wednesday.

Church Opens Fete Saturday

St. Francis Xavier's Gala Carnival Will Continue Through July 28.

St. Francis Xavier's Church will hold its gala carnival from Saturday through July 28, on the church grounds at Twenty-seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, under the direction of the Rev. P. P. Rakowski.

Officers of the carnival are Benjamin R. Swann, chairman; Pete Keithley, vice chairman; John T. Crittenden, secretary, and the Rev. Rakowski, treasurer.

Assisting the regular officers are Frank Brannan, chairman of the arch committee; Michael Burke, chairman of the parade committee; Mrs. Emma Crittenden, chairman of the donations committee, and Bob Radford, chairman of the publicity committee.

The carnival will open with a parade of commercial and private floats, two bands and a squadron of motorcycle policemen. The parade will begin at 6:30 p. m. from the carnival grounds, proceed along Pennsylvania avenue southeast to Thirteenth street, then along Thirteenth street to South Carolina avenue, thence to Kentucky avenue and back to the grounds.

Relief Body Ready To Furnish Servants

Housekeepers Can Fill Needs by Call.

Competent domestic and personal help will be supplied Washington residents in response to a telephone call to the Public Employment Center, 456 Indiana avenue northwest, Mrs. Pauline Shereshefsky, field supervisor of the social welfare department, announced yesterday.

The telephone number of the center is National 3303.

"If Washington housekeepers knew that a phone call would bring them competent help, and at the same time aid a needy person or family, it would greatly increase the demand for domestic help," Mrs. Shereshefsky said. The center can supply immediately maids, cooks, butlers, laundresses, nurses and other domestic experts, it was said. Jobs have been found for 88 since June 1.

Sheriff Road Residents Ask for Speed.

Completion of improvements to Sheriff road and Jay street northeast, between Forty-fourth and Forty-ninth streets, in time for a neighborhood celebration next month was asked of District officials yesterday.

The delegation which called on Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, and Capt. H. C. Whitehurst and L. P. Robertson of the Highway Department, was headed by P. M. Tolliver, president, and L. W. Giles, secretary, of the Deanwood Civic Association.

Now Uncle Sam's Trying to Make Our Honey Sour

When Department of Agriculture experimenters finish, housewives may be able to make their pickles with honey.

The scientists are working on the theory that honey would make swell vinegar. In fact, they know it can be fermented into vinegar.

The idea is this: It is thought that honey, fermented into vinegar, may retain in the process its peculiar bouquet and taste. If this happens the result would be a superior fancy vinegar which would be highly prized at premium prices and furnish a market for excess honey.

Jury to Hear Swindle Charge

Former Telegraph Carrier Sent False Money Orders, Charge.

Charges he duped a telegraph company of $200 held William H. H. Little, 20, for action of the grand jury yesterday when he was arraigned before Police Court Judge Isaac R. Hitt.

Little, described by police as a former telegraph messenger boy, was arrested on a charge of false pretenses after an investigation.

Apparently familiar with code messages, Little allegedly defrauded a local company of $200 by sending a false money order, it is charged. After addressing several telegrams to himself under a fictitious name, police said he pieced together portions of the message and formed a fake money order. The order was in a code known only to telegraph employes.

Little, it is said, reputedly sent the order to the company's main offices from a downtown hotel. Later, giving the named used in the message, Little applied for payment and was given the money, police said. He was arrested after complaints by officials.

Funeral Services Held for Mrs. Rice

Dean of Potomac School Died Here Saturday.

Services were held yesterday for Mrs. Helen Fisher Rice, 60, dean of the faculty of the Potomac School, 2144 California street northwest, who died Saturday at the home of her niece, Miss Jessie C. Fisher, 6211 Thirty-first street northwest.

After graduation from Central High School and Washington Normal School, Mrs. Rice taught in local public schools for a number of years, and then founded the Calvert School in Baltimore. She resigned control of the Calvert School after several years and became associated with the Potomac School.

Partial Payment Tax System Expected to Help Crisfield

Crisfield, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—A system of partial payment of taxes in weekly or monthly installments is being inaugurated in Crisfield to speed payment of taxes, both present and past due.

It is expected that this method of collection, which is to be carried out by appointed collectors as well as at the city hall, will not only aid the taxpayers in liquidating their debts, but will also reduce the need for advertising properties for sale for unpaid taxes.

The collector will call on the various property owners and arrange for the convenient amount and time of payment. At the appointed time he will call for the payments, or the installments can be paid at the city hall. Mayor William H. Bradshaw and president of the city council, Raymond K. Woodland, have announced that this plan will be put into effect immediately and that all owners who neglect to take advantage of this offer, or at least to make some arrangement for payment by July 20, will have their properties advertised for sale.

In the case of small property owners, installments as low as $1 a week are possible; larger holdings will be in proportion.

Knife "Prizes" Held Criminal

"Claw" Machine Operators Face Fresh Threats of Prosecution.

Operators of so-called "claw" machines, recently under fire on gambling charges, faced new threats of prosecution yesterday when Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart claimed they were distributing "dangerous weapons" as prizes.

Hart said that on numerous occasions it had been brought to his attention that "claw" machine prize winners were rewarded with long-bladed knives. He declared that complaints reached his office after persons found in possession of long knives, classed as dangerous weapons, said they won them in claw machines.

Hart threatened prosecution after John Chefe, 47, arrested as intoxicated, was found carrying a knife. He said the knife was a "claw" machine prize. Hart ordered him charged with possession of a concealed weapon.

"If we find reports true," Hart declared, "and that dangerous knives are actually being dispensed by machines, we intend to prosecute to the full extent of the law."

In a recent test case, conducted by the District Attorney's office to determine whether the machines were gambling devices, the machines were given "a clean bill of health."

Girl on Motorcycle Hurt in Car Crash

Hurled from a motorcycle when it collided with an automobile on Thirty-ninth street near Yuma street northwest yesterday afternoon, Doris Myers, 18, of 3903 Davenport street, was taken to Georgetown Hospital suffering from shock and bruises and possibly a skull fracture.

Claude B. Sanford, 19, of 1518 Upshur street northwest, her companion, was injured slightly. Police reported the car was driven by Paul J. Kientz, 41, of 4239 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Carolina Jail-Breaker Is Captured in Capital

Freedom gained from a North Carolina jail by making a key out of a spoon was short-lived for Ernest G. Toler, 29.

Toler, said to be a seaman, was in jail at Jacksonville, N. C., on a charge of housebreaking, when he escaped. Police here were notified. Detective Sergts. R. J. Cox and A. D. Mansfield found him yesterday at the Transient Bureau and he will be back in North Carolina soon.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

Correct the Glare

The District of Columbia Division of the A. A. A. has issued a statement pointing out that there were 8,900 automobiles involved in accidents in 1933 in which one or both headlights were out, or in which the lights were glaring. Tests show that lamps need to be replaced or adjusted in nearly 70% of all automobiles operating on our streets and highways. A blinding glare which dazzles approaching traffic is usually caused by the beam of light being tilted too high. Inspect your lights for glare.

708 Here Ask Repair Loans

$100,000 Is Sought From HOLC for Work on D. C. Homes.

Funds for repair and reconditioning of their homes are being sought from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation by 708 Washingtonians whose properties already have been refinanced by the corporation, it was learned yesterday.

Loans sought in the applications total approximately $100,000. All of the applications have been filed in the few weeks since the home loan act was amended to allow loans for repairs.

At the same time it was learned that for the entire country 288,000 applications have been filed. They present requests totaling approximately $55,000,000.

Loans by the corporation for repairs will be made only to those who have been given a mortgage by the corporation and to those who own unencumbered property and are unable to obtain a loan through private channels.

'Outside Activities' Of Prosecutors Hit

Judge Given Raps 'Neglect' of Police Court Work.

Judge Ralph Given, in Police Court yesterday, scored the practice of assigning assistant corporation counsel to outside boards and commissions.

The question arose when Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward Curran reported he would be unable to prosecute a case set for trial by Judge Given because he was required to attend a meeting of the Board of License Revocation and Review.

"I would like it known," the judge said, "that I am opposed to this practice of naming our assistant prosecutors to outside boards and commissions. Police Court work should have first call on their services. I feel sure the other judges concur with me in this attitude."

Sleeping Man Halts Train and Gets 15 Days.

Amos E. Miller, 63, went to sleep early yesterday. He said he went to sleep because he was sleepy—but he couldn't explain why he chose a railroad track for his bed.

In Police Court yesterday he pleaded guilty to intoxication charges before Judge Ralph Given. A policeman testified he found Miller asleep in a Southeast railroad yard. His slumbers held up a freight train and it took several minutes to induce him to move from the tracks, the court was told.

Judge Given gave Miller 15 days in jail to catch up on his sleep.

Award Given Phone Workers.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). An honorary emblem in token of five years' service with the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia has been awarded Ellen D. Firth, Fredericksburg employe. Miss Firth's award is one of 127 given throughout the State to employes who have served from 5 to 25 years.

Prince Georges Slaying Case To Grand Jury

Three Colored Men Face Charge of Death of John T. Geary.

The Prince Georges County grand jury yesterday received the case of three colored men charged with the murder of John T. Geary, Priests Bridge, Md., barbecue stand proprietor, last May.

The men are John A. Gross, Gordon Dent and Donald Parker. Besides the slaying, police charge they were connected with the hold-up and robbery of Lawrence Dayton, Bladensburg town baliff, and the robbery of several other persons in the county and in Washington.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, at the opening of the special session of the circuit court yesterday morning, told the grand jury that quick action on such cases of "unusual atrocity" would have a "salutary effect."

He charged the jury to consider the cases as quickly as thoroughness would permit. A number of crimes in which lives have been lost have caused a definite menace to the peace and good order of the community, he said.

Although no definite information was given as to how many cases were reveiwed by the grand jury, State's Attorney Alan Bowie said evidence against several other defendants had been presented.

The entire list includes six murder cases, four manslaughter cases and four cases of assault with intent to kill. Indictments will be made public in several days.

Four Open Homes To Slum Children

Fredericksburg Prepares Places for 84.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). Four more residents have signified intention of caring for the "Fresh Air" children when the young vacation visitors from the New York tenements arrive in this district July 19.

Mrs. B. T. Pitts has agreed to care for one boy; Mrs. Claire D. Schlemmer, Stafford, one girl; Mrs. G. W. Biscoe, one boy, and Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Brooks, Falmouth, one boy. The Fredericksburg roster now totals 84.

Plans to care for 27 children have been made by the fresh air committee of Orange, Va., where the children will arrive July 17. The Orange committee is composed of the Rev. H. S. Southgate, Unionville, chairman; Miss Christobel Childs, secretary; Mrs. W. T. Hazard, Mrs. R. L. Ashton, Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, the Rev. Henry J. Davis, Dr. C. R. Stribling, the Rev. W. L. Ware and Miss Sally Combs, all of Orange; Mrs. Garland Schuler, Somerset, and Mrs. H. B. Craig, Montpelier Station.

Rites Held for U. S. Dredging Employe

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). Funeral services were held here yesterday for Gov. Green, of Stafford County, who died Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. Robert F. Caverlee, of Fredericksburg Baptist Church, officiated. Interment was at the Bethel Church in Stafford.

Mr. Green was employed by the Department of the Interior Dredging Service for 16 years. He leaves his wife, three sons, Pratt, Wilson, and Henry Green, of Stafford, and two daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Tavenner, of Washington, and Miss Adelaide Green, of Stafford. He is survived also by a sister, Mrs. Susie Newton, of Stafford, and five brothers, Horace, Joseph, James, and Herman Green, of Stafford, and Peter Green, of Fredericksburg.

Reams Is Named Culpeper Justice

Culpeper, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—C. E. Reams, jr., Culpeper attorney, has been named trial justice for Culpeper County by Judge Alexander T. Browning, of the circuit court.

The new trial justice is a graduate of the University of Virginia and George Washington University. He formerly was commander of the Culpeper American Legion.

Judge Reams has presided for several years over the juvenile and domestic relations court. His jurisdiction still includes these matters, but has been extended to comprise those formerly handled by justices of the peace and the police court duties of the mayor.

June Building Figures Far Above Last Year

Publicly financed contracts in June totaled $73,308,200 or approximately three times the June total for 1933, according to a report issued yesterday by the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Publicly financed contracts let last month increased 2 per cent over May, the report added.

Total construction contracts according to the report, let in the past six months approximately doubled those let in the similar period of 1933. Publicly financed construction in the past six months totaled $571,000,000 as compared with $161,000,000 in the same six months of 1933.

Orange County Reports 2,294 Eligible to Vote

Orange, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Orange County has 2,294 citizens eligible to vote in the fall elections, Clerk J. W Browning reports. This is the number of qualified voters who have paid poll tax six months before the date of election.

Madison district, comprising the towns of Orange and Gordonsville, has the largest number of voters, with 1,070 registered. Taylor district has 501, Barbour district 400, and Gordon district 323.

Preston Plans Museum Study

Senate Librarian to Visit England With View to Preserving Relics.

James D. Preston, Senate librarian, has made arrangements to sail July 21 on the Leviathan for England to study methods used in the British Museum and other famous libraries in preserving ancient documents, with the idea of introducing here any processes found superior to those used in Washington.

Mr. Preston's trip is unique among those now being taken by Government officials, in that it is not at Government expense. He is paying his own way to follow up a hobby which may contribute toward better preservation of irreplaceable Government documents. Nearly three years ago Mr. Preston resigned as superintendent of the Senate press gallery after 35 years' service, to take the post of Senate librarian at a lower salary, in order to pursue his work of arranging and preserving historic papers.

He has been asked to make suggestions and recommendations regarding the storing and care of historic documents to be placed in the Archives Building, which will be completed next winter.

Traffic Safety Parley Set Today

Police Officials Will Meet With Trade Group.

Traffic and police officials will meet with members of a business men's committee at 10 a. m. today to map final steps in the proposed "safety conscious" campaign.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, police superintendent, said preparations for the drive are nearing completion. He conferred at length yesterday with Capt. Milton D. Smith and Sergt. Walter H. Thomas, of the Traffic Bureau, recently sent to Pittsburgh, Pa., to study traffic conditions.

He is studying their report with a view toward presenting it at a luncheon meeting with civic and business officials at the Press Club tomorrow. Arrangements, Maj. Brown said, probably will be completed this week.

Dr. C. Chewning Heads Rotary Club at Orange

Orange, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—The Rotary Club has elected Dr. C. W. Chewning, president; W. I. Lord, vice president; R. W. D. Taylor, secretary; H. C. Clark, treasurer, and W. R. Preddy and K. G. McWane, directors.

Dr. Chewning succeeds V. R. Shackelford as president.

Blind Man Asks State to Let His Dog Ride Buses

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—The Maryland Public Service Commission was asked today to grant permission for a blind man's dog to ride on any bus in the State.

Transportation companies forbid dogs in buses, but the blind man, Arthur E. Sewell, custodian of the historic flaghouse here, believes his case is unusual. His dog is his "eye." The dog guides him about with such skill that Sewell frequently makes long trips throughout the city.

The trolley company here has given him permission to take the dog on street cars, but Sewell says his work often takes him on trips through the State. So he wants permission to take his dog on buses.

He was advised by the Public Service Commission to obtain permission from the bus companies.

Have Husband Arrested on Assault Charge.

Leesburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—The sheriff of Loudoun County, the Commonwealth's attorney and the judge had their early morning slumbers disturbed when at 3 a. m. today Mrs. Ray Beans, who lives in the quiet little Town of Hillsboro, appealed to the officers to help her subdue her husband, who, she said, had threatened to kill her.

The sheriff, with a warrant charging assault issued by the judge upon the orders of the Commonwealth, arrested Beans.

Beans later was released to appear at a hearing in Leesburg tomorrow morning.

Murder of Train Victim Suspected

Body of Luray Man Found by N. & W Tracks.

Luray, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Jesse Seal, 35, was found dead alongside the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks near here early today.

According to reports reaching Luray, Seal's body was mangled.

His home is about 6 miles north of Luray. Mystery surrounds his death. He had left home only a short time before the body was found. Some suspect foul play and say that he was murdered and his body placed on the railroad tracks. He is a son of the late Frank Seal.

Louisiana Votes Newspaper Tax

House Passes Advertising Bill as Long Shouts; Cotton Board Hit.

Baton Rouge, La., July 9 (AP).—Striding up and down the aisles shouting "vote yes!" United States Senator Huey Long today whipped through the House a bill to tax newspaper advertising 2 per cent, placing similar levies on gross receipts of public utilities and 2 cents a $100 on future sales on the cotton exchange.

The measures were first advocated by Long four years ago. Although opponents charged the advertising tax was Long's method of hitting back at opposition newspapers, the Senator forced the bills, estimated to bring in revenues of $3,000,000 a year, through the House.

A satisfied smile was Senator Long's only reply to the shouted charges of his opposition that the newspaper tax was aimed at free speech and was shaped as reprisal against the Louisiana dailies that have bitterly criticized his five-year political dictatorship.

Dog Gets Own Full Dinner Pail Picking Berries

Benton, Tenn., July 9 (Spl.).—Rover, shepherd dog belonging to Miss Anna Taylor, goes berry-picking with her and others and fills his pail about as fast as the best of them.

Miss Taylor says she first noticed the dog picking green berries from the vines and eating them. When the berries began to ripen he picked the ripe ones.

She ties a bucket around his neck and he picks the berries off the vines and drops them in it until it is full, then goes home and eats them on the porch.

Shooting at Stafford Claims Third Victim

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). The third death resulting from a Fourth of July colored shooting scrape took place today when Floyd Brown, 19, died in the Mary Washington Hospital.

Brown, a bystander, was struck by a wild bullet from the gun of Bernard Lee, who had just engaged in an exchange of fire with Charles Allen over the affections of a woman. The affray occurred at a Shiloh church celebration in Stafford. Both Lee and Allen died at the hospital last week.

Shenandoah County Records Being Rebound

Woodstock, Va., July 8 (Spl.).—Old legal records of Shenandoah County, some of them more than 150 years old, are being rebound at the clerk's office here. C. F. Sponer, of Kentucky, has charge of the work.

Shenandoah County records are among the oldest in the State, some dating from before the county was formed as a separate unit. Included in these old records are those of the first court held in the county in 1772, when Shenandoah was known as Dunmore County.

Landowner Is Bankrupt.

Charles Town, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Marshall Burns, one of the oldest and largest landowners in this section of West Virginia, was adjudicated bankrupt today by Judge Baker in the United States court at Elkins, W. Va. Burns filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy recently.

Roanoke to Employ 23 Fewer Teachers

Roanoke, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—As a part of a retrenchment program coupled with reorganization to increase efficiency of the public school system, the local school board will employ 457, or 23 less teachers for the 1934-35 session than were employed last year.

The curtailment was made possible by a decision to eliminate the eighth grade and raise the minimum school entrance age for pupils to six and a half years. Previously it was six years. Grades past the seventh will be classified into first, second, third and fourth year high school work.

Dixon a Candidate For State Senate

Piedmont, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—George G. Dixon, merchant, this city, has filed notice with the secretary of State that he will be a candidate in the Democratic primary in August for the nomination for State Senate in the Fourteenth District.

He is a member of the House of Delegates. This was the only district to return a Republican State Senator in 1932 and no Democrat has been elected since 1897. Others who have filed in Mineral County are:

House of Delegates—John I. Rogers, Ora L. Simmons, Republicans; Arnold Roster and John W. Barger, Democrats.

County board of education—George M. Loy, W. E. Coffman, W. W. Doll, Wilbert M. Gower, Thomas J. Martin, John A. Tice, J. A. Monnett, I. N. Lyon, C. S. Jenkins and J. B. Kimble, Republicans; John H. Rice, William B. Stewart, Newton B. Carskadon and W. W. Walker, Democrats.

County commissioner — D. W. Idleman, Republican.

Clothing Union Perils Industry, Company Says

Maryland Concern, Facing Loss of Blue Eagle, Gives Stand.

Westminster, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—L. Grief & Brother, Inc., Baltimore clothing manufacturers, with branch factories here, in Pennsylvania and Virginia, threatened with the loss of their Blue Eagle unless they make a wage restitution amounting to approximately $1,000,000, or are granted a wage exemption, defended their position in a public announcement today. The high point of the statement was a charge that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America were seeking "so to dominate and control the men's clothing industry as to force all manufacturers into the union or out of business."

The announcement, headed "in the interest of the Middleburg Manufacturing Co. and the Carroll Manufacturing Co.," follows, in part:

"L. Grief & Brother, Inc., of Baltimore, have been certified to advisory council of the compliance division of the National Recovery Administration by the code authority for the men's clothing industry, not for failing to pay minimum wages, because they have always paid the minimum wage scale and better since the establishment of the men's clothing code, but for refusing to allow the men's clothing code authority to dictate the wages to be paid above the minimum to all their employes.

Among Nation's Largest.

"This company, the second largest clothing manufacturer in the United States, has been in business for over 70 years, employing over 4,000 people.

"This hearing also affects over 80 large clothing manufacturers throughout the country who employ approximately 25,000 persons.

"Leonard Weinberg, of Weinberg & Sweeten, counsel for L. Grief & Brother, Inc., are contending that this matter involves not only the constitutionality of certain provisions of the NRA, but the attempt of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and Sidney Hillman, its president, together with manufacturers into this union or so dominate and control the men's clothing industry as to force all manufacturers into this union or out of business.

Charges Union Rule.

"It is maintained that the men's clothing code was proposed by an association known as the Clothing Manufacturers Association of the United States of America, which illegally refused membership to manufacturers who would not agree to surrender to this association complete authority over all code matters and trade practices.

"It is alleged that the Men's Clothing Code Authority, which is authorized to regulate the enforcement of the code, is controlled and dominated by a group of men selected by this association and Amalgamated Union and that one of the means used to coerce open shops like Grief's into unionization, or to force them out of business, was the incorporation in the clothing code of an ambiguous and indefinite section known as 2 (b), which provides for the maintenance of a differential in rates of pay to workers over and above the minimum wage scale of $14.40 per week provided for in the National recovery act and set up in the code.

No Notice Given.

"It is charged that without notice to Grief's the code authority adopted an interpretation of this section which, it is claimed, differs entirely from the intent and scope of the section itself; that it is arbitrary and unrelated to the present earning capacity and skill of the workers and discriminates in favor of those manufacturers having a working agreement with the union and is unfair, incalculable and not susceptible of uniform application.

"Finally, counsel for Grief's charge that this whole subject of differentials is unlawful, but has been seized upon by the Amalgamated Union and a group of affiliated clothing manufacturers, for the purpose of using the NRA to accomplish their own selfish ends in stifling competition and endeavoring to bring about unionization, even in plants where employes have refused to join the union and are satisfied with their working conditions."

Fredericksburg Fears Effect of Pay Dispute

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Concern was felt here today for the welfare of local employes of the G. & H. Manufacturing Co., subsidiary of the firm of L. Grief & Brothers, of Baltimore, which was recently ordered to pay approximately $150,000 in back wages by the NRA National Compliance Board, and which faces prosecution for refusal to do so.

The city council today announced appointment of O'Connor Golrick as legal counsel to protect the interests of Fredericksburg in the dispute to cooperate in defending the Grief Co.

The controversy centers around the company's alleged failure to pay minimum NRA wages to its employes at plants in other cities. The local concern was aroused by the possible effect on employes here in the event of severe disciplining of the parent organization.

Loudoun County Woman Dies at 90

Leesburg, Va., July 9.—Mrs. Matilda Heater, 90, well-known resident of Loudoun County and widow of Richard Heater, died at her home, Springdale Farm, near Leesburg, yesterday. She had been ill only a few days.

Mrs. Heater is survived by a son, Charles E. Heater, at home, and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Herrick, of Kensington, Md.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from St. John's Catholic Church, Leesburg, with burial in Leesburg Cemetery.

Queen Culpeper II Chooses Maids-of-Honor for Festival

MISS VIRGINIA FLETCHER.

BRIG. GEN. HARRY LEE.

Culpeper, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Miss Catherine Crump Jones, daughter of Mrs. Charles Samuel Jones, of Culpeper, a student of George Washington University who was chosen Queen Culpeper II to reign over the annual Tri-Festival here on August 2 to 4, has selected as her maids-of-honor Miss Lucy Robb Winston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian D. Winston, and Miss Anne Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Clark, of Afton Farm, both of Culpeper County.

Princesses from 16 Virginia Counties and 5 cities also have been appointed. Miss Virginia Fletcher will represent Rappahannock County. Repeating the courtesy extended last year, a detachment of State troopers under the command of Capt. Nichols, of Richmond, will act as an escort to the queen and her court at the coronation ceremonies at the Fair Grounds.

Brig. Gen. Harry Lee, U. S. M. C., of Quantico, has accepted the invitation to crown Her Majesty, and the old English rites of coronation ceremony will be read by the Rev. Francis Allison, rector of the Episcopal Church of Brandy.

The queen's ball will be held on the evening of the opening day of the festival at the Pot and Kettle Clubhouse.

Fire companies and American Legion Posts from all northern Virginia counties, and some from the valley, have accepted invitations to take part in the parade.

The big street parade, scheduled for Thursday morning, August 2, will feature decorated floats sponsored by civic and fraternal organizations and business houses of the town.

Other features of the festival will be races at the Fair Grounds, with a special steeplechase over the horse show course of 2½ miles, for which a group of business men have donated a silver cup.

The public wedding, with 47 prominent Culpeper and Rappahannock County people taking part, will be the center of interest on Friday evening. The names of the couple to be married have not been disclosed by the committee, but it is understood the bride hails from Rappahannock County and that the bridegroom-elect is a young business man of Culpeper.

Chief J. William Swan of the Culpeper Fire Company, who heads the board of managers, says that nine mayors of towns in northern Virginia will take part in the first day's program.

Hustner Cigar Workers Quit At Manchester

State Police and Deputy Sheriffs Called to Prevent Trouble.

Westminster, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—A walkout of employes of the H. N. Hustner & Sons cigar factory, at Manchester, Carroll County, today resulted in a call for State police and local deputy sheriffs to avert anticipated trouble.

The walkout, however, was said to be the nature of a sympathetic strike to force the reemployment of 20 persons dismissed by factory officials Friday. No disorder was reported.

Theodore F. Brown, State's attorney of Carroll County, warned a group of employes congregated about the factory today that they were liable to arrest should any attemp be made to interfere with the operation of the plant.

Although a number of persons from Hanover, Pa., arrived in Manchester this morning, apparently to replace the dismissed employes, they did not go to work. Only 15 employes were reported at work in the plant this afternoon. According to county officials the employes allege that factory heads are violating the code. The action of the manufacturers in dismissing the workers is said to have resulted from a check-up which revealed certain employes had not been performing the required amount of work.

Orange Relief Head Named

Miss Mary Sturgis Will Direct County Work for Next Six Weeks.

Orange, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Emergency relief activities in Orange County will be directed by Miss Mary Sturgis, of Accomac County, for the ensuing six weeks.

Miss Sturgis succeeds Miss Louise V. Brooks, acting director, who took over the work two weeks ago following the resignation of R. E. Burgess.

Monroe Waugh was considered for the position instead of Miss Sturgis, but lost the appointment by a one-vote margin.

A. Plunkett Beirne has been appointed trial justice of Orange County by the Board of Supervisors, with Judge Henry T. Holladay, of Rapidan, named as assistant.

Beirne is a native of West Virginia and an alumnus of the University of West Virginia. He is an attorney here. Judge Holliday will continue to preside over the court of juvenile and domestic relations cases, a jurisdiction he has held 12 years.

Beirne's salary will be $900 per year, and Holliday will receive $300 per year.

United Brethren Open School of Leadership

Chambersburg, Pa., July 9 (Spl.).—The Rhodes Grove Leadership Training School opened today at Kauffman's Station, near here, to continue through July 13.

The school is sponsored by the board of religious education of the Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren Church (Old Constitution). The Rev. Clyde W. Meadows, Chambersburg, is dean, and the Rev. A. E. Martin, Orrstown, registrar.

Trial Delayed By Absence Of Witnesses

Anne Arundel Officials Get Indefinite Stay in Conspiracy Case.

Annapolis, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—Because six State witnesses failed to answer when the case was called, Chief Judge F. Neal Parke, in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, today postponed the trial of County Engineer John A. Bromley and Zach Johnson, chairman of the county delegation in the lower House of the Legislature, on charges of conspiracy.

The court gave no indication as to when the case would be brought to trial, the announcement being that all parties, including a special panel of 48 talesmen, were excused "until further notice."

Bromley and Johnson are accused of negotiating the purchase and sale to the county of a power shovel at an alleged "exorbitant price."

Six of the seven members of the board of county commissioners were indicted on charges of unlawfully expending money on the machinery, but the case was quashed a few days ago under a limitation plea. Subsequently the commissioners also were acquitted by a jury on charges of unlawfully paying the monthly salary of Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins, of Annapolis, during 1933, before the magistrate's criminal reports were sworn to. A similar case involving the salary of Magistrate Albert Dogge, Third District, has been continued.

The six absent witnesses in the Bromley-Johnson case were H. L. Langrall, of Baltimore, who audits county books; Sheriff W. L. Bradshaw, of Dorchester County; William Simmons, of Cambridge; William H. Thomas, Louis Binder and Douglas C. Elphingstone, of Baltimore.

Convict Escapes, Official Is Ousted For His Leniency

Moundsville, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Because Paul Leach, 30, of Logan, serving a life term for murder, betrayed a trust and fled from the State penitentiary here, Charles DuBois, superintendent of repairs and improvements, has lost his job.

According to Dr. C. F. McClintic, the warden, Leach was given permission by DuBois to go into a thicket on the State farm east of Moundsville to get some special wood from which clubs were to be made for the prison guards. Leach went, but kept on going. Leach had served four years.

Dr. McClintic announced that under the rules DuBois would have to go, and appointed as his successor Virgil McClung, of Mercer County.

Col. John Gilmore, Jr., Dies in Hospital at 65

Col. John C. Gilmore, jr., U. S. A., retired, died Sunday at Walter Reed Hospital, it was announced yesterday at the War Department. He was 65.

Col. Gilmore was born in New Mexico, July 23, 1869, and since his retirement in 1928 had made his home at the Metropolitan Club. He is survived by his cousin, Mrs. Helen D. Von Schrenck, of Pinehurst, N. C. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Ritchie Forces Back Radcliffe In Senate Race

E. Brooke Lee Offers Aid; Bruce or His Nephew to Give Battle.

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Developments of special significance in the Democratic political picture came thick and fast today, following an announcement by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie that he will sail for Europe on Wednesday for a four to six weeks' vacation.

Today's developments:

E. Brooke Lee, of Montgomery County, a member of Gov. Ritchie's high command, announced he (Lee) will support George L. Radcliffe for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Announcement by former Senator William Cabell Bruce that he will run for the Senatorial nomination if his nephew, Howard Bruce, Baltimore banker, decides not to run.

State Comptroller William S. Gordy, of Wicomico County, announced he will be a candidate to succeed himself for a fourth term.

Announcement by State Senator Dudley G. Roe, of Queen Annes County, that he will be a candidate for comptroller.

Gov. Ritchie's decision to leave just as things are beginning to happen is regarded with mingled feelings by Democratic party leaders. One impression is that the Governor is so certain of a fifth-term nomination, now that Radcliffe has abandoned the gubernatorial race, that he doesn't even think it is necessary to conduct a campaign.

Jackson Has Field.

During his absence, of course, the field will be open to Mayor Howard W. Jackson, his principal opponent for the nomination, and Dr. Charles H. Conley, of Frederick, the other gubernatorial aspirant.

But the Governor has succeeded, through the announcement of his intended vacation trip, in creating the belief among a certain proportion of the voters that he considers the candidacy of Jackson and Conley too insignificant to bother with.

Another impression is that Ritchie has overworked himself in the interests of the State and is entitled to a vacation.

His only companion on the excursion will be Col. Stuart Janney, the Governor's former law partner and now chairman of the State board of welfare. So indefinite are the Governor's plans that he does not know precisely where he will go. He will sail on the Baltimore Mail Line steamer City of Norfolk, which first docks at Havre, France. The Governor said he may disembark there and make a trip to Paris and later to London before returning to the United States.

Radcliffe-Ritchie Tie-up Seen.

The announcement that Lee would support Radcliffe for the Senatorial nomination was viewed as almost a certain indication that Radcliffe will line up with the Ritchie forces in the primary campaign. The entry of either former Senator Bruce or his nephew, Howard Bruce, Democratic National committeeman, into the Senatorial campaign, would precipitate a primary fight of considerable proportions, although the Bruces and Radcliffe are regarded as men of such a type that mud-slinging and innuendo would be entirely absent from their campaign.

A primary battle also is in prospect between the two Eastern Shore condidates for the State comptrollership. Gordy has held the office for 12 years. He will run on the Ritchie ticket, but so will Senator Roe, the latter indicated today. That will cause some complications. Withdrawal of one of the candidates, or a transfer of one to the Jackson ticket, would be the only solution of the difficulty.

5 Hurt as Crash Demolishes Cars

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—A collision between two automobiles on the Shore drive late yesterday resulted in injuries to four young Richmond people in one of the machines, and to one of the seven colored occupants of the other car. Both cars were demolished.

Those injured were Broaddus Younce, 29, lacerations, contusions and probable internal injuries; Miss Elizabeth Womack, 18, lacerations, loss of four teeth and probable internal injuries; Miss Violet Womack, bruises and shock; Winton Newkirk, 24, fractured bone in right foot and abrasions; Willie Burton, colored, minor injuries to left leg and shoulder.

Mount Rainier Legion to Meet.

The Charles F. Huntemann Post, No. 110, American Legion, Mount Rainier, will hold a meeting tonight in the Chillum Democratic Clubhouse, Rhode Island avenue and Thirty-fourth street, Mount Rainier. Commander Eugene B. Plumer will preside.

Two Democrats Refuse to Serve G.O.P. at Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Two members of the Republican city committee, named at the mass meeting at City Hall Saturday, today declared use of their names was unauthorized, that they are "down the line" Democrats, supporters of the Roosevelt Administration, and will not serve on the Republican committee.

They are Marshall H. York, who was made a committeeman from Precinct No. 1 in Berkley, and A. J. Busky, elected for Precinct No. 11. Mr. York, in addition, was made a delegate to the district convention at Princess Anne Court House.

"I don't know where they got the idea I was a Republican or had any desire to serve as a delegate or committeeman," said Mr. York today. "They must have been hard put to fill out their lists if they reached over and grabbed Democrats without their consent."

Radcliffe Votes Go to Jackson, Backers Claim

Baltimore Mayor, Ritchie's Opponent, Outlines His 9-Point Platform.

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Former supporters of George L. Radcliffe for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland have transferred their allegiance to Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, it was reported here today, following the announcement of the mayor's gubernatorial platform at Ocean City yesterday.

In the crowd of 500 or more who heard the mayor were numerous former backers of Radcliffe's candidacy. Among these were former Gov. Emerson C. Harrington, his son, Emerson C. Harrington, jr.; Russell P. Smith and State Comptroller William S. Gordy, who today announced his candidacy for renomination on the Ritchie ticket.

Mayor Jackson's platform said pointedly that he is opposed to the fifth-term nomination of Gov. Ritchie. Other pledges he made were to:

Reorganize the State roads commission "as to personnel and methods" so that "it will be taken out of injurious politics," promising "the adoption of a State roads plan based on the needs of the people and not the desires of politicians."

Reorganize the State insurance commission, in which, the mayor said, the "real difficulty" is that appointments have been "made on the basis of friendship or political power, rather than any special equipment or inclination for the particular duties involved."

Institute a "review and restudy" of the State banking department.

Formulate new policies for the State conservation department.

Investigate the feasibility of reducing the annual automobile license tag fee to $1 or $2.

Promote legislation creating a State engineer to supervise all State work and coordinate the State's activities.

Advise the Legislature to create a pension system for State employes.

Boy, 3, Hopping Ride, Is Cut and Bruised

Bernard Studds, 3, of 1658 Avon place northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when he attempted to "hop" a ride on the side of a moving truck.

The youngster was thrown to the ground as the truck rounded a corner. He was taken to Georgetown Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises.

New Head Sought By Johns Hopkins

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Trustees of the Johns-Hopkins University today named a special committee to make recommendations for the appointment of a successor to Dr. Joseph S. Ames, retiring president of the university.

Those on the committee include Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, chairman; Howell Griswold, jr., Carlyle Barton, Dr. Thomas R. Brown and Walter S. Gifford, of New York.

Reports are that the committee is seeking a man of 40 or under. A rule of the Johns-Hopkins University requires an employe of the university, whether president or janitor, to retire at 70, and Dr. Ames will soon reach that age.

Virginia Dairy Profit to Rise

Richmond Predicts More Money for All Hands in One Milkshed.

Richmond, July 9 (AP).—Statistics in preparation by the Virginia milk commission will reveal, in at least one instance, higher prices to producers, greater profits for distributors and no increased price to consumers, under the commission regulations, it was announced at the commission's office today.

The elimination of unfair and uneconomic trade practices by the adoption of a planned economy in the dairy industry has made the change possible, the commission spokesman said. The commission is sure that in at least one Virginia "milkshed" the paradoxical situation of more money for everybody will be shown by final figures.

Meanwhile the commission said that in the Staunton and Waynesboro area a unique plan was being put into effect. Regulations for the conduct of the dairy business there to be issued soon will provide that both areas be considered as one producing district. Two distribution and consumption areas will be recognized, however. Both will be under supervision of one local milk board, yet to be appointed.

Fredericksburg Dance to Aid Families Hit by White Plague

These eight children in two related families of 14 children, who have been living together in a crowded small single-family house at Stafford, Va., have tuberculosis. A benefit dance will be held at Fredericksburg tomorrow night to raise funds to build a sleeping porch for the children to combat the disease and check its spread.

Funds to Build Outdoor Sleeping Porches for Eight Children.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 8 (Spl.).—Funds to save the lives of a tuberculosis-stricken Stafford family by constructing a sleeping porch for the children will be sought at a benefit dance to be given Wednesday night at the Mansfield Hall Country Club here under the auspices of the Stafford County Health Association.

Two related families of 14 children have been residing together in a small single-family house, despite the contraction by eight children of the disease. Physicians have declared that nine members of the two families can be saved if the affected children can be given a chance to recover by sleeping on an open-air screen porch.

Funds accruing from the benefit dance will be used toward erection of a porch and toward providing additional medical treatment. Many residents have already contributed individual subscriptions, association officials said. The family's only source of livelihood is the farm left when the father of the affected children was killed in an automobile accident two years ago.

Repeal of Fee Plan Hampers Liquor Laws

Virginia Commonwealth Attorneys Tell of New Difficulties.

Richmond, July 9 (Spl.).—Reporting today at the first public hearing of the State compensation board, Commonwealth's attorneys from many Virginia counties said that prohibition repeal has greatly reduced the fee receipts of their offices, and that enforcement of the liquor control law has been made difficult by the repeal of the special fee provisions embodied in the Layman act.

E. R. Combs, chairman of the board, asked each of the officers if the repeal of the fee provisions is affecting law enforcement, and all said that activity against moonshiners and bootleggers has been decidedly on the wane since the control law went into effect.

N. B. Early jr., Commonwealth's attorney of Greene County, stated that he did not expect people to travel 22 miles to Charlottesville for legal liquor when they could buy stuff near home at 25 cents a pint.

His conclusion was that while repeal has lessened fee receipts, it may mean more work for law enforcement officers in mountain counties.

Asked if the control law will mean more ready enforcement through the increasing willingness of persons to give information in liquor cases, Mr. Early said county officers have raided but one still since prohibition and that there has been no Federal activity in his county.

Jesse M. Lewis, commonwealth's attorney, of Essex, said that human nature remains the same and that sheriffs will not incur the same risks in raiding stills as they once did when a raid meant a special reward.

He said there is more public sympathy behind the liquor laws now that the public can buy legal liquor.

"In the past," he said, "there was practically no public support for liquor law enforcement and officers had to dig deep and dig alone to obtain a conviction."

Frank Wray, of Clarke, said that the new trial justice courts are increasing the labors of commonwealth's attorneys.

The Compensation Board, consisting of Mr. Combs, C. H. Morrissett, State Tax Commissioner, and L. McCarthy Downs, auditor of public accounts, is going over the reports of each of the attorneys for the commonwealth in detail, hearing their recommendations and asking them questions about their pay and their expenses, and about the amount of time their official duties require.

Children Fight Films

Baltimore Parochial Schools to Get Pledges Signed to Ban So-Called Immoral Pictures; White and Black Lists Are Prepared.

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Children in the parochial schools of the Baltimore Archdiocese will be leaders this summer in the campaign against allegedly indecent motion pictures.

Committees of students will continue to meet and circulate pledges. Signers promise not to attend what are regarded as off-color films. Adults also will be asked to sign pledges.

At a recent meeting of students and teachers at Loyola High School, officers of the Legion of Decency were elected. An advisory board also was named. A small "white list" of approved films and a "black list" of disapproved films will be circulated. It also was decided to recommend that all high schools conduct drives to induce pupils and parents to send letters of protest to producers of disapproved pictures.

The Catholics are not alone here in the drive. Numerous business houses and manufacturing firms have assured support in the campaign.

Virginia Rum Board Warns Hotel Keepers

Only Wines and Beers May Be Served to Guests, They Are Told.

Richmond, July 9 (Spl.).—The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board this afternoon laid down the law to a group of 18 Virginia hotel men, informing them wine and beer licenses of hotels as well as other establishments will be revoked unless the law forbidding the serving of spirituous liquors is obeyed. Hotels are forbidden to sell any liquor except wines and beer or to allow it served in public dining rooms. Guests, however, may bring in their own liquor for consumption in private rooms.

After asking the hotel men to confer about violations "now a matter of common knowledge," the board, through Maj. S. Heth Tyler, chairman, asked for their cooperation, saying that "if you violate this law and encourage the opposition of public sentiment against it, then the privileges you now have in the sale of wines and beers is likely to be taken from you."

Explaining that the board is not officially charging them with violating the law, but is merely asking them to see the problem from a State-wide point of view, Maj. Tyler said:

"If the leading hotels violate the law and sell hard liquors, then the entire control system will be weakened unless the board proceeds at once to revoke the licenses of such hotels. You can not expect to exercise a privilege which the Legislature denied you and which the law expressly forbids."

Col. Charles H. Consolvo, president of the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, and the Monticello, Norfolk, said hotel men have a serious problem because some guests insist upon bringing hard liquors into the dining rooms and ask for glasses. The board spokesmen said inn-keepers should remind such guests they are violating the law, and hence subject to arrest and fine.

Services Are Held For Rev. J. A. Dove

Headed Daleville College Board of Trustees.

Daleville, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Funeral services for the Rev. J. A. Dove, 68, prominent for a long time in the affairs of the Brethren Church and as an orchardist, canner and bank director, were conducted at the Cloverdale Church of the Brethren at 11 a. m. today. The body lay in state an hour at the church before the final service.

For several years the Rev. Mr. Dove was president of the board of trustees of Daleville College and more recently was a director of the Bridgewater-Daleville system of schools. He was a director of the First National Exchange Bank of Roanoke, Va. Most of the Rev. Mr. Dove's active ministry was spent in Botetourt County in the Cloverdale and Daleville sections. He resigned as patsor of the Cloverdale Church of the Brethren a few years ago.

Surviving are his widow, two daughters, Mrs. R. D. Boaz, of New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. L. N. Layman, of Cloverdale, and one son, Dr. F. D. Dove, a professor at Bridgewater College.

Mount Rainier Church Party.

The Bell Club of St. James Catholic Church, Mount Rainier, will hold the last of a series of card parties for benefit of the church tonight at 8 o'clock in the church auditorium, Thirty-seventh street and Rhode Island avenue, Mount Rainier.

Sacred Music Fete Attracts 2,000 Voices

Massanetta Springs, Va., Religious Program Is Outlined.

By C. B. Carr.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 9.—A school of sacred music climaxed by a festival in which 2,000 voices from church choirs of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia will participate, will feature the Massanetta Springs religious assemblies, the Rev. Dr. William E. Hudson, director, stated today.

The school of sacred music will be held July 16 to 22. Dr. John Finley Williamson, head of the famous Westminster Choir School of Princeton, N. J., will be director. Courses will be offered in conducting voice-training, model choir class and interpretations. Teachers from the Westminster faculty, Mrs. LoRean Hoddap, Mrs. Rhea B. Williamson and Norman James, will assist.

Sacred Music Program.

The program for sacred music week follows:

Monday night, reception for delegates and faculty; Tuesday night, hymn singing festival and hymn study program; Wednesday night, rehearsal of festival choir of 2,000 voices and concert by Mrs. Hodapp; Thursday night, folk music of many nations, and Friday night, concert by festival choir.

A special feature will be a program of sacred folk music by John Powell, Virginia's nationally known pianist, and Mrs. Annabel Morris Buchanan, composer and authority on folk music.

The Virginia Synodical and Auxiliary Training School will be held July 20 to 30.

Among speakers and teachers will be Dr. J. Blanton Belk, Dr. E. T. Thompson, Dr. Donald Richardson, all of Richmond; Dr. Darby Fulton, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Joseph Maxwell, Princeton, N. J.; Dr. Henry H. Sweets, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. E. L. Russell, Mrs. Hampton Fleming, Miss Laura Campbell and Mrs. Alexander Maitland.

Noted Speakers.

Among speakers at the Bible Conference and School for Pastors, August 13 to 26, are Dr. James Black, Edinburg, Scotland; Dr. Kirby Page, of New York City; Dr. Walter L. Lingle, Davidson, N. C.; Dr. S. L. Joekel, Austin, Tex.; Dr. J. R. Cunningham, Louisville; Miss Yosko Saito, Japanese colorature; Dr. William Evans; Dr. Frederick W. Norwood, London, England; Dr. William L. Stidger, Boston University School of Theology; Dr. Clovis G. Chappell, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. S. D. Gordon, world traveler, and Dr. Will H. Houghton, New York City.

Special days will be observed August 20, United Brethren Day; August 21, Methodist Day; August 22, Baptist Day; August 23, Disciples of Christ Day, and August 24, Presbyterian Day.

Utilities Asked To Ease Rates

Public Service Commission in W. Virginia Invites "Voluntary Cuts."

Charlestown, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Public utility concerns of West Virginia have been "invited" by the State public service commission to make "voluntary reductions" in their rates.

The commission stated that each utility knows if "its financial condition permits rate reductions," and urged voluntary action in order that "relief to consumers in proper instances may be secured more speedily."

"The regulation of public utilities operating in this State," the commission stated, "is an integral part of the recovery program and the responsibility resting upon the commission to readjust the conditions affecting the utilities and their customers is deeply felt by its members."

The Legislature at its recent session appropriated $90,000 a year for two years for the commission's State-wide survey.

The commission made it plain that the investigation is to be followed by a demand that utilities keep their books in such detail as "correctly to reflect all changes in capital account," and that they be required to furnish such other information as will enable the commission to establish a continuing inventory of property from which may be determined the value at any time without a field survey.

Aircraft Carriers In Gunnery Tests

Move Out to Sea From Hampton Roads.

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (AP).—The movement of fighting craft out of Hampton Roads, begun last night at midnight when the scouting force cruisers and destroyers steamed away toward their summer base at Provincetown, Mass., was completed today when the giant aircraft carriers, Saratoga and Lexington, moved out to sea for four days of gunnery practice on the Southern drill grounds, 50 miles off the Virginia Capes.

The Saratoga is scheduled to return to Hampton Roads Thursday. No information has been received as to when the Lexington will return, although it is presumed she will be back at her anchorage off the Naval Base before the end of the week.

Both carriers with their flying squadrons are based on Hampton Roads.

Ax Attacker Punished.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Edward Scott, colored, was fined $100 and sentenced to 12 months in jail by Corporation Court Judge Frederick W. Coleman today for assaulting French Newton and Ralph Eubank with an ax.

Miss Jo Coffin Made Assistant Public Printer

New York Labor Leader to Handle Women's Affairs Under Giegengach.

Women's relations at the Government Printing Office will be handled by Miss Jo Coffin, New York labor leader, who yesterday became Assistant Public Printer.

She was a copy-cutter on the old New York World for 15 years prior to its merger with the Telegram. She has been active for years in the International Typographical Union and the Woman's Trade Union League.

Miss Coffin has aided many small industries and unorganized groups, in presenting their cases at NRA code hearings. Directed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, she aided in establishing two centers for unemployed women in New York City, one for industrial and factory girls and another for office workers.

She served in the labor division of the Democratic National committee headquarters in New York two years ago.

Miss Coffin succeeds Miss Mary A. Tate.

August E. Giegengach, new Public Printer, announced there would be no other changes in his staff until August or September. He said he has begun a study of printing office operations.

Firebug Blamed In $1,500 Blaze At Fair Grounds

Frederick, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—About 264 feet of sheep and hog pens at the fair grounds were destroyed early today by fire of incendiary origin. It was the fourth blaze attributed to arson in the past six weeks.

The fire gained considerable headway before being discovered and a general alarm brought out the entire city apparatus. The firemen were compelled to break heavy locks on the entrance gate and water was pumped from a long distance.

The flames broke out at several different places and traces of kerosene oil were encountered by the firemen. Loss was estimated at $1,500.

Socialist Group Plans New Party

Right-Wing Faction Elects Heads in Virginia.

Richmond, July 9 (AP).—Organization of a new State political party in the near future was adopted as the goal of the right-wing Socialists at a conference here yesterday after many of the rightists were said to have seceded from the party.

While no party was launched, the bolting Socialists organized a "Social-Democratic political alliance," elected an executive committee and instructed the committee to undertake negotiations looking toward the formation of a new party "representing the views of moderate Socialists and broad enough to provide a political haven for all progressive-minded Virginians." The committee will seek to unite various groups in a new organization "similar to the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota," it was said.

Experts' Report Charts West Virginia Policies

Charleston, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.). Fiscal and economic experts who guided the recent Legislature today issued a report listing "trends" for the next session. The report was prepared by the Bureau of Governmental Research at West Virginia University, headed by John F. Sly, professor of political science.

Among recommendations are broadening of State supervision over local expenditures, a net income tax law, many changes in the election laws and a new liquor-control law.

Hanover County Jail Will Be Renovated

Ashland, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Purchase of mattress covers and other equipment to improve sanitary conditions of the Hanover County jail here has been authorized by the county board of supervisors after receipt of a letter from Roy K. Flannagan, of the State department of public welfare, scoring the "deplorable condition" of the jail.

Jailer Jourdan Woolfolk was instructed to make prisoners clean the jail, and to issue fresh blankets to new prisoners.

Virginian Wields Ax; Shot by Police

Floyd, Va., July 9 (AP).—Dan Crenshaw, about 35, was shot and critically wounded at his home here last night when he was said to have threatened officers with an ax when they went to his home in response to a call from Mrs. Crenshaw that her husband was threatening her life.

Funeral of Child Held.

Lynchburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). Funeral services for Barbara Ann, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Wheat, who died at Blue Gap farm, Bedford County, Saturday, were held this morning at West Lynchburg Baptist Church. Burial was in Spring Hill Cemetery.

Labor Official to Run For House of Delegates

Weirton, W. Va., July 9 (U.P.).—William J. Long, militant union leader, today filed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the House of Delegates at the primaries to be held August 7.

Two other union leaders, both presidents of lodges, filed for Justice of the Peace in Weirton. They are Jake Entinger and George Moore, both Democrats. There are 20 in the race for the local squire nomination on both tickets.

Prince Georges Schools Lose 202 in Year; Officials Puzzled

Decrease Also Offsets 440 Gain at Opening of Term.

Nicholas J. Orem, superintendent of the Prince Georges County Schools, said last night he was unable to explain why the county, for the first time since the close of the World War, failed to show an increase in school attendance at the close of the session.

Although the enrollment last September showed a gain of 440 pupils over the previous year, the increase was not maintained and on June 1, 1934, there were 202 pupils fewer than on June 1, 1933.

The figures, made public yesterday by Miss Kathleen Shears, school attendance officer, were at first believed to be incorrect, so startling were they to the school authorities. A careful check, however, proved their accuracy.

Several theories were advanced. These included the facts that many families of "floaters" left the county during the year, and that epidemics of measles and other contagious diseases were recorded.

The high school enrollment during the year reached a new record of 2,504, an increase of 111 over 1933. The total number of pupils was 13,899, as compared with 13,832 in 1933.

But the percentage of attendance, before the close of the year, dropped from 92.2 in 1933 to 90.3 in 1934.

PWA Chief Says 10,000 Have Gotten Jobs.

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Federal funds totaling about $64,000,000 have been expended in Maryland since the start of the PWA program, and over 10,000 men have been given jobs under the PWA, it was reported today by Abel Wolman, State PWA engineer.

His figures are for May and at the present time the total number of persons given work probably is in excess of 10,000, Mr. Wolman said.

The total expenditure in the State is for loans and grants on Federal projects, non-Federal projects, such as municipal improvements, public roads and railroad projects.

John N. Magill Rites Today

Mt. Rainier Man Will Be Buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Funeral services for John Milton Magill, who died at his home, 3729 Thirty-seventh street, Mount Rainier, will be held this morning from St. James Catholic Church in Mount Rainier at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Magill was one of the pioneer settlers of Prince Georges County having arrived over 33 years ago in what is now known as Brentwood. Later he moved to Mount Rainier. At the time of his death he was employed as an inspector on the new Supreme Court Building now under construction in Washington.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanch Mahorney Magill; two sons, John William Magill and James Milton Magill, both of Suitland, Md., and two daghters, Catherine T. Magill and Esther C. Magill; his mother, Mrs. C. G. Magill, and a brother, James A. Magill, of Washington.

Ahepa Governor

William Bardall Heads Marshall County Fair

Moundsville, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.). Plans for holding the third annual Marshall County fair have been made by an interested group of citizens, who have elected William Bardall as president; F. A. Simmons, vice president, and Clarence Fox, secretary-treasurer.

September 1 is the tentative date set for the opening. Plans for a State drum and bugle corps contest were abandoned because the State convention of the American Legion will stage one about the same time at Parkersburg.

Couple Accuse Two of Assault

Girl and Man, Given Lift, Declare Men in Motor Attempted Attack.

Charges of attempted criminal assault were placed against two Washington men yesterday by Carroll County, Md., authorities in connection with an alleged attack upon a Washington man and woman near La Plata Sunday night.

Miss Jean Curran, of 1320 Eleventh street, and Herbert Newman, no address given, both of Washington, made the complaint.

They told police they were picked up here in the automobile of the arrested men. Newman was struck over the head and the attempted assault was made on Miss Curran after the two had been driven to near La Plata, Miss Curran said.

Bullet Kills Man In Family Fight

Wife of Victim Wounded; Accused Youth Flees.

Buckhannon, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.) William Duncan, 30, was shot to death and his wife, Stella, critically wounded last night in a family fight at the home of Bud Anderson in Webster County near the Upshur County line.

Mrs. Duncan was brought to a hospital here with a bullet wound in the breast.

Boyd Anderson, 18, said to have done the shooting, fled and is still at large. He seized a revolver when his half sister, Iva Anderson, 14, screamed in a rear room, where Harold Duncan, 18, brother of the man killed, was making advances toward her, officers say.

West Virginia Veteran Is 106 And He's Young

Beckley, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Historians and genealogists of West Virginia are trying to find out if there is any older man living in the State than S. H. Young, a Confederate veteran, who has just celebrated his 106th birthday anniversary.

The event was celebrated in connection with the tenth annual reunion of his family at Pine Grove Park here. More than 200 attended.

In spite of his advanced years, Young is spry and hearty although his eyesight is dimming. In late years he has traveled extensively. He says he feels that he will live several more years yet and has planned to spend next winter in Florida.

Remember Mendel Beiliss.

The peaceful world of 1913 was deeply shaken when Mendel Beiliss, a Russian Jew, of Kieff, was arrested, charged with the fiendish "ritual murder" of a Christian child. At one of the most fantastic trials on record it was later proved beyond the slightest doubt that he was the victim of a frame-up fostered by the czarist government for political reasons.

Beiliss, who has just died at Saratoga Springs, barely escaped being the victim of one of the worst iniquities ever perpetrated by a ruthless government. Yet every country and every people are at times led by prejudice, ignorance and sheer hotheaded indignation to commit acts of injustice in the name of the law. So long as reasonable doubt exists concerning the guilt of persons accused of the most heinous crimes, public indignation should never be allowed to influence the course of impartial justice. For that reason, those who wish to save this country from incurring the stigma aroused by a possible gross miscarriage of justice will be relieved to learn that the Alabama Supreme Court has granted a stay of execution to two of the Scottsboro defendants who are under sentence of death.

The uncertainty that exists concerning the guilt of these men, because of the unreliable character of the chief witnesses and the atmosphere of prejudice that has surrounded the case, are compelling arguments in favor of the most complete and unprejudiced investigation. The people of the United States were shocked and indignant when it was shown that the czarist government had plotted to sacrifice an innocent man. The rest of the world would likewise be profoundly shocked if it should later be proved that the State of Alabama had permitted innocent men to be hanged by relying on possibly perjured testimony.

The Maryland Primaries.

Gov. Ritchie's decision to sail for Europe tomorrow was taken, he emphasizes, before the political developments of the week-end. None the less the decision of George L. Radcliffe to withdraw from the Democratic gubernatorial race will render his vacation more complete.

Mr. Radcliffe's action may not make the choice of the present Governor as a fifth-term candidate more certain, for Mayor Jackson of Baltimore will to some extent profit from the narrowed field. But it will mean a campaign of much less bitterness, and the disorganization which springs from bitterness, than would have been the case had Radcliffe forced Ritchie to run as an anti-Administration candidate.

By simplifying the gubernatorial contest Mr. Radcliffe has complicated that for the Senate. Howard Bruce has not yet filed his candidacy and his prospects obviously will not be improved by the switch of ambition on the part of the PWA official. The move which has clarified one part of Maryland's interesting primary fight has muddied the water on the Senatorial side.

Forgotten Competitors.

A sharp drop in cotton exports once more calls attention to the fact that the United States is the only country which is curtailing the output of this staple. It is, as yet, impossible to determine what influence the Bankhead Act will exert upon cotton growers in other parts of the world, and consequently upon the foreign market for American cotton. But the trend to date certainly is not encouraging.

Cotton exports during May fell to 285,000 bales, compared with 592,000 bales in the same month last year. Shipments during the spring of 1933 were considerably above normal because of the speculative wave in operation at that time. Even so, the five-year average for May, excluding that unusual month of 1933, amounts to 100,000 bales more than the total for May this year. During the first five months of 1934, 2,663,000 bales of cotton were shipped abroad, compared with 2,941,000 for the same period of 1933.

Higher cotton prices may be a factor in this slump in foreign demand, but these have been largely offset by devaluation of the dollar. Of more significance, at least from the long-range point of view, is the expansion of acreage in other countries. While American farmers were plowing under part of their cotton last year, their foreign competitors increased production by 16 per cent. Official estimates of acreage planted this season are not yet available, but trade reports from Egypt indicate an increase from 1,900,000 to 2,100,000 acres. Larger crops in China are forecast by the same source, although these reports must be considered tentative.

Competition of this sort is often slow in developing, but it is nevertheless a factor that must be considered in any program to curtail domestic production and raise prices of commodities that are exported in large volume. The advantage to either cotton grower or country would be hard to discern if subsidization at home should lead to permanent curtailment of export markets.

A League Triumph.

It would be difficult to invent a thriller with a more far-reaching crime, and with the processes of detection working more intelligently, than the true story of the successful efforts of the League of Nations to end the illicit manufacture of narcotics in Bulgaria. Even in bare outline the tale retains its fascination.

Driven from other nations by the efforts of the League's committee on the traffic in opium, the international narcotics ring had of late found refuge in Bulgaria. That heroin has been smuggled from that country in huge quantities, much of it to the United States, has for some time been known. But to prove the case has been far from easy, particularly since there was reason to suspect officials of the late Bulgarian government of profiting from the traffic.

At the May meeting of this League committee, however, painstaking investigation by officials of several countries bore fruit. Particularly interesting was the evidence presented by the American representative, Mr. Stuart J. Fuller, of the Department of State. He revealed that Bulgaria has recently been importing large quantities of a chemical known as acid acetic anhydride; that this chemical is used commercially in the manufacture of aspirin, rayon, certain dyestuffs, and more particularly for converting crude opium into heroin; that Bulgaria manufactures neither aspirin, nor rayon, nor dyestuffs, but is demonstrably the source of huge illicit shipments of heroin. Step by step, as the committee minutes show, Mr. Fuller developed an incontrovertible case to his conclusion that:

> indications exist pointing to the importation into a country where it is used for the manufacture of heroin of sufficient acid acetic anhydride to produce from twice to four times the total legitimate needs of the entire world for heroin.

Following the revelations made by Mr. Fuller and the delegates of other nations the Bulgarian representative, after explaining that a new government had just assumed power in his country, assured the committee that he would "transmit all the facts stated" to Sofia. That he did so with energy and promptness is shown by the pleasant sequel. Advices have just reached Washington to the effect that the new Bulgarian government has prohibited the importation of the suspect chemical, except under strict license, and has further subjected its production of crude opium, which for this year was estimated at 16 times that of 1932, to rigid control. As a result the price of the drug in Bulgaria has already dropped by 50 per cent.

In a sadly disorganized world this outcome is particularly refreshing as an illustration of what cooperative international action can accomplish for the welfare of society. When the researches of American, Canadian and Egyptian experts, made public at Geneva, effect the prompt subjection of an international dope ring in Bulgaria, the reasons for the participation of our Government in League activities becomes more clear. George Washington's farewell address means nothing to those who would smuggle habit-forming drugs of foreign manufacture into the immensely profitable American market.

The MacCracken Case.

Reversing the decision of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, the United States Court of Appeals has decided that the Senate had no authority to punish William P. MacCracken, jr., for contempt.

The circumstances leading up to the arrest and sentence in this famous case do not need to be reviewed here. At one stage of the contest of wits between the senatorial investigators and counsel for the accused, the affair took on the aspect of an hilarious comedy. Fortunately, the importance of the constitutional issue was only temporarily submerged during the preliminary period of skirmishing. After sentence had been passed upon the former Assistant Secretary of Commerce, the question that remained to be determined was whether the Senate had exceeded its powers in undertaking to punish him for contempt.

The issue raised in this case is of vital concern to the public at large because of the great and growing importance of legislative investigating committees. If Congressional committees undertake to punish witnesses for contempt, even though such punishment does not aid them in the discharge of their duties, the danger of legislative usurpation of judicial powers is undeniably great. It was on this ground that an appeal was taken from the decision of the lower court, which denied Mr. MacCracken's petition for a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from custody. He did not contest the right of the Senate committee to order him to appear, give testimony, and produce available documents in his possession. He did, however, maintain that the Senate had no power to order his appearance solely for the purpose of determining whether he should be punished for the disappearance of certain documents from his office.

Mr. MacCracken's contention that the Senate had no right to try him for the alleged offense has been upheld by a 3 to 2 decision. The majority opinion holds that "Unless there is to be an intermingling of the legislative and judicial power to deal with contempt, thereby rendering it possible in all cases as a matter of legislative power summarily to try one thus accused without subjecting him to the statutory modes of trial provided for criminal offenses, protected by the limitations and safeguards of the Constitution, then we must and do declare that the Senate is without jurisdiction to inflict punishment on the petitioner under Senate Resolution 172."

Two dissenting judges assert that the power to punish in this case is implied as a means of procuring information in aid of legislation. Evidently, however, this liberal interpretation would permit Congressional committees to exercise powers to punish in ways that would constitute a serious threat to the right of the accused to judicial trial.

Considering the extent of the authority over witnesses already possessed by Congressional committees, the present decision is welcome. Legislative encroachment upon the judicial arm of Government should be resented by those who feel that the careful balance of powers laid down in the Constitution is worth preserving.

Against The Wall.

The speech delivered by Herr Rudolph Hess at Koenigsberg on Sunday was the first official admission of the desperate nature of the present German crisis.

When Hitler's deputy declared that the bloodshed of the previous week-end had been "necessary to save the lives of tens of thousands," he revealed the precarious situation of the present regime in a way sharply at variance with previous boasts of solidarity. Here was public confession by its leadership that the Nazis hold power only by forceful suppression of millions of terrorized and embittered Germans. And Herr Hess candidly asserted that what he calls "mutiny" will be put down even if "every tenth man" must be punished "irrespective of guilt or innocence."

But Nazi fears of impending disaster, which it would counteract with bluster, are impolitic to dwell upon. Thus resort is made to the old trick of drawing a red herring across the trail. Seeing the country threatened with domestic chaos, the strategy is to take the public mind from internal difficulties by crying that the enemy is at the gate. So Hess produced a threat of invasion in an effort to smooth domestic cleavages. He cleverly mingled a note of conciliation with a defiance to any nation to cross the German border. If he can make it appear that the fatherland is in danger from abroad the discords at home may be lessened by patriotic unification.

There is just enough justification to make this approach plausible. France is obviously preparing for eventualities, with Britain, Russia and Poland acting in accord. But their actions are, at present, the tactics of defense and not aggression. However, when Hess assures the world of German pacific intent, he is probably sincere. There are many who believe that war would be a signal for that revolution in Germany which the Hitler government is now striving desperately to forestall.

Hitler's urgent task, as Herr Hess seeks to make clear while exonerating his chief, is to hold Germany together, to make peace with her neighbors, and to find some way of lessening the deepening economic strain. Bombast can no longer conceal the fact that the Nazis have their backs against the wall.

Reason For Optimism.

Addressing the Institute of International Relations at Vanderbilt University, Dr. Wallace McClure, of the Department of State, found "great significance, not to say encouraging signs of awakening intelligence, in the new movement for the cooperative reduction of trade impediments." Referring to the recently passed reciprocal tariff act, this official expressed hope that the measure will mean a "real reassertion of forces that favor the natural development of production where production is most efficient, and the interchange of products with less interference than formerly at national frontiers."

The optimism reflected in these views is of a decidedly tempered character. There is no suggestion that the new law will of itself remove impediments to international trade or radically alter trade trends. The emphasis is placed upon the change in sentiment, which finds reflection in a movement away from the policy of raising ever higher barriers to commerce with complete disregard of natural economic development.

From the long range viewpoint that change of sentiment is in itself a highly important development. Furthermore, the changed attitude is not confined to mere assertions of a new outlook. The State Department is proceeding rapidly to create the administrative agencies which will permit it to undertake negotiations with other countries.

The procedure to be followed in giving interested persons an opportunity to present their views in regard to proposed trade agreements has already been announced. The interdepartmental committee, which acts in an advisory capacity, has met and is preparing to arrange for general economic studies in connection with the reciprocity program. The committee for reciprocity information formed under the chairmanship of Tariff Commissioner Thomas Walker Page is also organized for work.

The speed with which the negotiating machinery is being put in order indicates that results are confidently anticipated. This attitude of confidence is itself a portent of accomplishment, and proof of a healthier approach to a solution of international trade problems.

Plebiscite on War.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

Now that war threatens in many European countries additional importance attaches to the vitally important plebiscite on war and conscription offered by Congressman James A. Frear as an amendment to the Constitution. It should be adopted now in peace times to prevent any entangling alliances as during the World War. The following comment on the resolution will interest your readers:

"The amendment is one of several that Congressman Frear has introduced into successive sessions of Congress for many years. It provides the machinery whereby the President shall submit to the people of the United States any proposal to declare war. It also provides that in case of war all public and private properties shall be taken over by the Government with interest or profit limited to 4 per cent and it prohibits forced military service except on the North American continent.

"Under the Frear amendment the Government will have the right to draft soldiers for defense at home, when we are attacked. It will not have the right to draft them for a foreign war, and it will not have the right to declare war at all, if the people of the Nation oppose it.

"That subject will probably be a big one next fall when the investigations of munitions manufacturers are under way and the Nation has had an opportunity to consider the charge made fifteen years ago by President Wilson, Gen. Smuts of South Africa and Lloyd George. They declared that the close connection between armament manufacturers and governments was ever an active cause for war."

From the Sunflower State.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

On Sunday, July 1, the Kansas Federation of Federal Employes Unions affiliated with the National Federation of Federal Employes came into existence at the Elks Club, Chamber of Commerce Rooms, Junction City, Kans.

It was resolved that the Kansas State Federation of Federal Employes "commend and thank The Washington Post and Morgan Baker for their interest in the Federal employes of Kansas and for the splendid article printed in the issue of May 8 and other issues which contain reference to Federal employes of Kansas and that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the respective parties and to Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, by the secretary."

It is with great pleasure that I forward this to you.

"Legends and Myths."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

Having gobbled up as much of the criminal jurisdiction as it now dares, the Federal octopus wails that Congress did not feed it greater gobs of money so that it could hire more men.

Criminal jurisdiction belongs to the States, and all these new Federal criminal laws are but wedges whereby further jurisdiction will be eroded away from the States. Unless there is an exposure of the Federal octopus, the day is not far distant when all criminal jurisdiction will be in the hands of Federal bureaucrats.

Crime is no especial menace, and most of the blah is myth or fiction. This Dillinger myth has been used up to the point of utter absurdity. This mere country boy is an ordinary person and has doubtless done none of the things lately alleged against him. Those who followed the silly legend about Capone were shocked to find that the worst thing he could be convicted of was evasion of the income tax law.

If the octopus wishes really to save us from dangers, let it cast its eyes on something real, something like the automobile menace. Automobile movements are more appropriately Federal, and certainly more dangerous to life and limb. The attention given to crime is all out of proportion to its importance. The crimes that occur are not so unusual for this time and day, and the local and State police are as efficient as they ever were. Putting a Federal badge on a man's coat makes him no different from a local policeman. There is no reason why a big body of men should be collected at Washington to eat up the taxpayers' money and concoct all sorts of legends and myths so that they can take trips about the country. H. C. TROOP.

The Raspberry!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

In your editorial of July 7, in which you so ably and wisely treated the much gnawed-upon subject of how to eat corn on the cob (or on the husk, as your woman's page editor referred to it a few days ago) why did you not stop with corn?

Why did you continue into the subject of raspberries? You would certainly have performed a service to humanity if you had informed the poor, city-bred Washingtonians on the difference between raspberries and blackberries. Yet, you further mixed matters by stating that all raspberries are red and all black berries are blackberries. If you had ever enjoyed a dish full of sparkling yellow raspberries or the smaller black raspberries, you surely would never have made such a statement. All blackberies are black, except the green ones, which are red; but there are black, red and yellow raspberries. Green black raspberries are red; green red raspberries are yellow, and green yellow raspberries are green.

The real difference between raspberries and blackberries is that raspberries are hollow and blackberries are solid.

If this isn't convincing, let me know and I'll send you a blackberry, and a red, and a yellow, and a black raspberry.

A Place for $500,000.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

One of the Washington daily papers said there was to be $500,000 spent to clean the outside of the Washington Monument. Why waste all that money cleaning the Monument when the streets and parks of Washington are in such a deplorable condition?

Would it not be better to spend that money cementing the walks through the parks that need it, and cleaning the rubbish off the streets all over town, thus making the District of Columbia look like what it should be to be the Capital of the United States? And that $500,000 would help a few hundred humans, while if put into machinery to clean the outside of the Monument it would help only the big fellow with his machines.

And here is another condition that might be remedied. All over town there are well-built houses being torn down to make parking places for automobiles. Parking places and filling stations on the best streets ruin the looks of the Capital of the United States and should be forbidden. M. A. R. S.

Gen. Mountjoy Bayly.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

I wish to correct an error or oversight in the article on page two of The Post of July 5 relative to the Congressional Cemetery.

You state there are but three Revolutionary generals buried in that cemetery, but if you will investigate further you will find the grave of Gen. Mountjoy Bayly, one of Gen. Washington's staff, and also a bronze memorial tablet in recognition of his distinguished service, which was dedicated by the Colonial Dames of America several years ago.

There are also the graves of Gen. Bayly's wife, his daughter, and her husband, Lieut. Smith, an artillery officer.

Renaissance Of Whist.

The curfew tolls the knell of contract bridge. Contract whist has appeared. Thus history repeats itself. Today's fad bowls over yesterday's vogue, struts its little hour and is, itself, displaced by the thing it deposed. Sic transit.

Whist's reign was no little hour. Whist and its forbears saw dynasties rise and fall. The game itself is reputedly of English origin. Some say that Caesar brought it to the island. Others fix it on William the Conqueror. Nobody accuses Henry VIII of wasting any time with cards. That chap may have had his weakness; perhaps peccadilloes were not too harsh a word. Anyhow, he never beheaded a partner for a dumb lead.

The eons came and the eons went. The age of reticence passed. Evolution and logic conspired to expose a hand in whist. So bridge was born. Bridge was motorized whist. It commenced to pall. Auction bridge was the answer. Finally, contract.

Now the pendulum swings all the way back to whist, with each player advisedly holding his hand so as to frustrate the curiosity of an adversary, and thinking, it may be, murderous thoughts at times, but never betraying an emotion, either of elation or despair. A slower, less showy affair, much more difficult, but, as Sidney Carton would put it, a far, far finer game than bridge.

Its enthusiasts predict that whist will sweep the country. And almost any reprieve from the tyranny of bridge will probably be welcomed. Many of us, though, would be saddened if the renaissance of whist should bury in eclipse the rollicking old game of chess.

Rocky-A-Bye Plymouth!

Postoffice, Tuesday.

WE believe in giving our critics a fair hearing—when we think that it won't go quite too hard with us. So we are more than ready, we are pleased, to publish the following criticisms of our recent column about the so-called Puritans:

Dear Sir:

. . . The statements made in it (the above mentioned column) are an omelet of many broken Plymouth Rock eggs. In fact poor Plymouth Rock would rock indeed if it could realize how the Pilgrims are mixed with the Puritans as in this revealing article.

The Pilgrims landed at Plymouth in 1620 and this was known as the Plymouth Colony and later the Old Colony. The Puritans landed at Boston in 1630 and this was known as the Massachusetts Bay Colony—hence Bay State. These two settlements were as wide apart in types and beliefs as the two poles. . . .

The Pilgrims had fled from England and lived in Holland for many years. They had difficulty in financing their departure for America and were pledged to pay back in various crops—also in furs. They intended settling in the Hudson Valley, but were forced onto the shore of Cape Cod, where they first landed before sailing across Cape Cod Bay to Plymouth.

The Puritans, on the contrary, set sail from England in 20 ships—bringing their furniture, servants and animals—each family financed themselves. They were able at once to build houses and necessary public buildings in what is now Boston.

The Pilgrims were Separatists from the Church of England. The Puritans sought to purify the Church—not to separate. . . .

ANTIQUARIAN.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I am sorry to see a paper of such standing as The Post, and a man as well informed (usually) as the Post-Impressionist, repeating the base and baseless slander that the Puritans of New England "burned" witches. No "witches," whether real or imaginary, were ever burned in New England, as any standard historian will inform him, although hundreds of thousands were burned alive in Europe and elsewhere.

And no one seems ever to have heard that the Puritans of Massachusetts, far from being the cruel and credulous monsters they are pictured, were the most merciful people of their generation, and that their judges, convinced that their punishment (by hanging) of a small number of "witches" was a sad mistake, made public confession of their wrong and asked forgiveness. Did any judge outside of New England ever do the like?

H. B. HASTINGS.
Washington, D. C.

It boils down to this: We, prisoners at our bar, stand charged with (a) confounding the Puritans and the Pilgrims, and (b) with falsely stating that both parties burned witches.

* * * *

We ask ourselves: "How plead we, Guilty or Not Guilty?"
And we answer: "Both."

At the time of the alleged offense, we clearly indicated that, according to our usual light-hearted fashion, we were using the term "Puritan" in the inclusive, if inexact, sense which is most readily understood, and almost invariably employed by the average reader. But, anyhow, Brewer—you know him: the Rev. E. Cobham Brewer, LL.D.—gives these two definitions following:

* * * *

"PILGRIM FATHERS (The)—The 102 English, Scotch and Dutch Puritans who . . . went to North America in the ship called 'The Mayflower.'

* * * *

"PURITANS—Seceders from the Reformed Church; so called because they rejected all human traditions and interference in religion . . . Fuller named them 'Nonconformists' because they refused to subscribe to the Act of Uniformity" . . .

Therefore, to the first count of the indictment, we plead either innocence or justification.

* * *

However, what about those witches that weren't burned by "the most merciful people of their generation?"

Well, of course that's another thing again.

The more or less well-known Encylcopedia Britannica remarks: "In New England, in the day of Cotton Mather, certain ministers . . . were zealous in hunting down and bringing to trial and death persons suspected of witchcraft." Yet it doesn't say that they were roasted, and we would not believe it if it did—because, upon the only two or three controversial subjects of with we boast exact knowledge, we find the E. B. generally wrong. The fact is, we really did know the gentle truth in this instance—but forgot it!

So we admit error. The New England witches were not burned. They were only hanged.

We hope they appreciated the clemency shown them. We hope they found posthumous satisfaction in the postexecution apologies of their judges.

* * * *

Nevertheless, we do feel that, if the New England witches were real witches, the form of death administered to them by the merciful Puritan-Pilgrims was—well, almost too merciful.

Thus, as we remarked before, to the charges upon which we stand indicted by "Antiquarian" and H. B. Hastings, we plead both "Not Guilty" and "Guilty."

The Ingenuous J. Ham

METHINKS that the Republicans, in the forthcoming Congressional campaign, are going to be up against the same thing that downed Mrs. Ruth McCormick Simms, who, as the Widow McCormick, ran for the Senate against J. Ham Lewis. What she could not possibly overcome was J. Ham's coquetry. It looks as though the Republicans are confronted with it now.

BARGERON

J. Ham is the chairman of the Democratic Senatorial campaign committee, and as such has been issuing statements for the past ten days or so. The Republicans so far have taken little account of them. They have passed them by and hit at what they considered the more important and vital issues of the day. They err. They had better watch J. Ham. The utter artlessness of an appeal he made in Sunday morning's papers, its naivette, is wholly feigned.

* * * *

If there is one thing definite about J. Ham it is that he is not innocent in matters concerning the people. He knows them well. That guileless appearance of his is but a pose.

Said J. Ham in his Sunday morning's appeal, there is really no need for the voters to elect Republicans to Congress regardless of how they may feel. Or rather, this is what he said, if I correctly understood what he was so ingenuously driving at. All the people have to do is to tell the Democrats what they want, just what phase it is of the more abundant life that is rubbing them and everything will be jake.

He intimates that nothing could be more foolish or inefficient than to kick Democrats out just because one is dissatisfied with the way things are going. Quicker results would be obtained by simply telling your grievences to them. They are anxious to please and, one might add, particularly anxious to serve.

* * * *

He has the assurance of the President, J. Ham said—the President having talked with him just before he, Mr. Roosevelt, left—that he is willing to make such changes as are necessary to relieve any burdens upon business. Now what the Democratic candidates are most anxious to ascertain is just what these burdens are, so they can come here and tell the President and he can give relief either by Executive order or when the next Congress comes in.

It seems to me that nothing could be fairer than this. It has, of course, been the custom in the past for the people to register their approval or disapproval at the polls, to kick out an administration which they disapproved and vote in the one which they approved. But simply because this has been our way is no reason why we should continue to pursue it.

Prof. Tugwell and some of the other brain trusters have frequently complained about the chauvinistic loyalty we have to the past. Now that J. Ham has spoken, it is not unlikely that what they had particularly in mind was our devotion to kicking out one administration and bringing another one in. At least, I'll bet it's one reform they would like to effect.

* * * *

Come to think of it, it may be that J. Ham, with his engaging frankness, has let the cat out of the bag as to what is meant by planned economy. There is no gainsaying the fact that it is a waste of energy and endeavor, of time and National wealth, for us to be going to the polls every two years and voting for or against a candidate on the basis of whether we are satisfied with what he is doing. Why not just tell the candidate? Oh, of course, if he continued his unsatisfactory way after we had told him four or five times then manifestly the thing to do would be to vote him out and another fellow in.

At least, we ought to act in simply an advisory policy in the forthcoming campaign. Because the Democrats have made no provision for a rainy day. They haven't put any money aside, they haven't built up any unemployment reserves. They are still celebrating and draining the cups of their victory of 1932. You would think that fellows as long out of jobs as they were would practice some thrift once they were reemployed. But they haven't practiced any thrift. They haven't even paid off their party deficit. They're good fellows while they have it, though.

Col. Shepherd Retires As Judge in Hanover

Ashland, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Freedom from tales of domestic distress for the first time in 12 years was enjoyed during the past week by Col. B. Morgan Shepherd, who has just retired as judge of the Hanover County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

Jurisdiction of the court, established here in 1922, has been assumed by Trial Justice Robert T. Winston and clerk Alfred Turner. Retiring with Judge Shepherd are his probation officers, Mrs. Page N. Hartsook, Ashland; J. Brackett Vaugah, Beaverdam; T. M. Fuller, Ellerson, and Henry G. Stone, Ashland.

$21,633 Estate Left By Wheeling Recluse

Wheeling, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Settlement of the affairs of Mrs. Emma Schramm, who died recently, and who lived as a recluse in an ancient three-room house void of all modern conveniences, has disclosed that she left an estate of $21,633, all of which was in cash excepting $1,500.

The estate was left to a friend, Mrs. Grace L. Toko, owner of a Market street bird shop.

Richberg Fears Peril In High Labor Costs

By Howard Turner.

Charlottesville, Va., July 9.—Sweeping increases in labor costs must be avoided to prevent economic ruin, Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, today told the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia.

Commenting on the difficulties confronting the shaping of recovery measures, he said:

"We did not inherit the genius of the founders of our country, but we did inherit their institutions, which must be preserved."

At the evening session of the institute, Mr. Richberg outlined the forces which brought on this period of economic stress, and presented the part NRA is playing in the rehabilitation of American industry.

Dr. Herbert Frazer, Swarthmore College economist, told the NRA forum that the populace demanded the Government to keep active. This pressure on Washington, he said, appeared in the Coolidge and Hoover Administrations, when various programs were undertaken to either extend prosperity or to relieve the commercial crisis when it arrived.

Dr. Thompson Sees New Trade Deal.

Dr. Wallace Thompson, New York publicist, asserted before the round table on "Management Versus Regulation in Government" that a new deal for foreign trade was in the making. He cited tariff powers which have recently been conferred on the President, and Secretary Hull's negotiations at the conference of Latin-American countries at Montevideo.

In his round-table talk, Mr. Richberg mildly debunked the "good old days and ways of our fathers," and added that "ism" scares are natural reactions against change, which is the essence of modern civilization. References were made to the "inconsistencies of the Darrow board."

Giving a brief outline of the short years of industrial civilization at the evening session, he said:

"Much of our lawmaking in the United States throughout this period reflected the alternating fear and admiration with which the populace regarded the commercial and financial rulers of our National destiny. By State and Federal laws we granted them special privileges, endowed them with sweeping authorities and protected them in the exercise of vast economic powers.

Middle of Road Course Is Advised.

"The National Industrial Recovery Act was written against this background. Its emergency purpose was to put men back to work and to increase purchasing power. But if this emergency measure had not been designed as the first step in a continuing process of stabilizing industry, it would have provided merely an alleviation of suffering, with no effort to cure a chronic and dangerous disease."

Two grave dangers, he pointed out, must be avoided in the establishing of industrial self-government under public supervision.

"If public regulation goes too far, individual freedom and the incentives of private gain may be restricted to an extent comparable with the disheartening tyrannies of State socialism.

"On the other hand, if public regulation is so weak that business combinations are granted an unrestricted license to govern themselves, without responsibility to the public interest, then we may subject the masses of the people to exploitation for the benefit of a privileged few."

Pleads for Better Mass Understanding.

Mr. Richberg hit oppositionists and pleaded for a better understanding of the year-old experiment.

"Those not actuated by partisan, political hostility, or prejudiced by ideas that became set in concrete some 20 or 30 years ago, to those who may be friends—even though skeptic friends—of the recovery program," he said, "it may be worth while to dispel the myth that the process of establishing codes of fair competition is a theoretical experiment being carried on by a mythical group of youthful brain trusters, operating under a Presidential dictatorship."

Reemployment, the security of the small business, and the promotion of mass "production of goods and services with high wages and low prices without fostering monopolies," are the primary objects of the program, he asserted.

Says Economic Balance Must Be Struck.

Asking the aid of all who still maintain faith in representative government and democratic institutions, he declared:

"We have the industries necessary to serve the needs of 120,000,000 people. We can not coordinate them in one board of directors. We want them to govern themselves. But we must make sure that they will govern themselves, not as warring economic states, or as trade monoplies, each seeking to prey upon the other, but as groups of individual enterprises, each as independent as an individual home, but all working in accord with a common purpose, to serve as coordinating parts of an economic system designed to serve the needs of the Nation.

"We can not solve this problem by ignoring it—or by casting the mud of destructive criticism at every effort of solution. We must solve it; because our political security and freedom depend upon our economic security and freedom—and upon both depend the well-being and future happiness of every man, woman and child in America."

In concluding his talk, Dr. Frazer said:

"Our problems for the future rest on how we can plan for our economic future, yet at the same time hold to the individuality and freedom that made our country really great."

County Proposes End of Fee System

Shenandoah Urges Fixed Salary for Attorney.

Woodstock, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—If a recommendation of the Shenandoah County board of supervisors is adopted, the fee system in this county, insofar as the office of the Commonwealth attorney is concerned, will be ended.

Shenandoah County has paid the Commonwealth attorney $750 per year and he has received a fee in State cases, the size of the fee varying according to the nature of the charge against the accused. At a recent meeting of the supervisors, a recommendation was made to State authorities that the annual salary of the Commonwealth attorney be $1,500 with an allowance of not more than $100 per year for office expenses.

Half the amount will be borne by the State and the other half by the county. Under the proposed arrangement no fees would be allowed.

Mrs. Snyder Runs For State Senate

Shepherdstown Woman in West Virginia Race.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.).—For the first time in the history of the Fifteenth West Virginia District, a woman is a candidate for the State Senate. This district includes Jefferson, Morgan, Berkeley and Hampshire Counties.

Mrs. W. B. Snyder, of Shepherdstown, has announced her candidacy on the Republican ticket. She is known over the State as an officer in the State Federation of Women's Clubs and editor of the West Virginia Club Woman, publication of the organization, and member of board of parole under Gov. Conley.

Mrs. Snyder's only opponent is another editor of Sheperdstown, Clifford S. Musser, Republican nominee several years ago. Milton O. Rouss, of Charles Town, is the only candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Short Circuit Cripples Trolleys Near Treasury

A short circuit in the street car tracks in front of the Treasury Department early last night blocked traffic for a quarter of an hour and thrilled pedestrians with a display of shooting flames.

One trolley was slightly damaged and schedules were disorganized on the line.

Road, Bridge Awards Made

43.61 Miles of Highway, Two Spans Planned by West Virginia.

Charleston, W. Va., July 9 (Spl.). Award of contracts for the construction of 43.61 miles of highway and two bridges, at a total cost of $460,993, is announced by the State road commission. Work will be started at once.

The projects and their contractors in the eastern part of the State are as follows:

Berkeley County—5.1 miles of the Martinsburg-Jefferson County Line road, grading, paving and surface-treated stone base, Pendleton Construction Co., Wytheville, Va.

Jefferson County—2.98 miles of the Berkeley County Line-Shepherdstown road, paving with surface-treated stone base, Pendleton Construction Co., Wytheville, Va.

1.54 miles of the Opequon Creek-Inwood road, paving with surface-treated stone base, Echols Brothers Construction Co., of Alderson.

Hampshire County—Capon Bridge approaches, grading, draining and paving with stone base and bituminous concrete, Echols Brothers Construction Co., of Alderson.

Preston County—1.27 miles of the Kingwood-Route 26 road, grading, draining and surface-treated stone base, George N. and O. J. Hoho, of Cameron.

Roosevelt, Peery Will Get Degrees

William & Mary College to Confer Honors.

Williamsburg, Va., July 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt and Gov. Peery will come here this fall, probably in October, to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the College of William and Mary.

Plans for the occasion are still far from complete, but the occasion is expected to bring to Williamsburg a large number of prominent persons from Virginia, the City of Washington and neighboring States.

The degrees were to have been conferred this spring, at the time of the celebration at Jamestown of the anniversary of the First Permanent English Colony, but President Roosevelt, because of the press of his duties at Washington, was forced to cancel his visit.

New Caroline School Trustees Are Chosen

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.). Three members of a new Caroline County school trustee electoral board were announced here today by Circuit Court Judge Frederick W. Coleman.

The new board will consist of Capt. C. T. Smith, former Caroline County treasurer; Dr. J. M. Holloway and Thomas H. Lanton.

No End of Books

By Theodore Hall

His Eminence of Boston.

SQUARE-SET, strong-minded, widely respected and much beloved, the senior among the four American cardinals celebrated last month his fiftieth anniversary in the service of the Catholic Church. When, in June, 1884, the 24-year old William O'Connell was ordained priest in Rome, a notable career began which is typical both of the church and of democracy. He was the youngest of the 11 children of a poor widow in Lowell, Mass. But by dint of great spiritual and executive gifts, he rose to the all but highest rank in the Catholic hierarchy.

THEO. HALL.

Now, better than any one else could tell it, William Cardinal O'Connell narrates that life in the smoothly-flowing pages of "Recollections of 70 years' (Houghton Mifflin, $3.50). He was nearly 12 when he worked one morning in a cotton mill. Suddenly, sickened by the monotony and the turmoil, he heard a voice which he knew came straight from God: "Child, this is not your place; work, yes, all your life, but your work is not here." From then on the path of the young William was plain to him.

It led to a Catholic college in Catonsville, Md., to Boston College, to the American College at Rome. Curate, rector, Bishop of Portland, Papal Envoy to the Emperor of Japan, Archbishop of Boston—these were the landmarks. In 1911 came the Cardinalate.

Now, in his old age, Cardinal O'Connell sits back a moment from his labors to dream of his past life and find it all good. Catholic and non-Catholic readers alike will welcome this autobiography of a pious and hard-working American.

If you nourish in your breast ambitions of going on the air, you would do well to look first at a little book by Robert West, director of the Radio Art Guild. "So-o-o-o You're Going on the Air" (Rodin Pub. Co., N. Y., $1.75) offers a good deal of sound and breezy advice with frequent caustic criticism of present radio favorites. Topics from microphone technique (which is nothing more formidable than voice technique) to correct speech, from radio humor to the pulpit on the air, will make you aware of most of the problems. As Mr. West writes about them, they will also provide you with amusing reading—often more amusing than he intended.

Sample from chapter on music: "The high and mighty of Tin Pan Alley have an uncanny understanding of the realities of the social scene and the place of music in it. Popular songs today are either melodious or 'heat' songs that provide the perfect stimulant in these days of depression, or postdepression."

Sample from advice on speech: "A vibratory something in the voice gives you a feeling of beauty and strength. The much-admired manly 'chest' tones of Edward C. Hill is (sic!) voice reinforced by sympathetic vibrations."

Wolf: "Aw come on, cutie—you look so nice in your little red cape . . . You're a little peach!"

Wolf: "A grapefruit?"

From this discussion of fruits, the opposite extreme is exhibited by Edward A. Bunyard's gentle and scholarly little volume: "The Anatomy of Dessert: with a Few Notes on Wine." (Dutton, $2).

An Englishman with a passionate connoisseurship toward the growing and eating of garden fruit, with a mellifluous style and a flair for classical quotation, he sets down a great number of things the average person knows nothing about. Of apples, apricots, peaches, plums, strawberries and so forth, he discusses the history of the various sub-varieties, their growing, the finesses of their different tastes, and their orthodox uses at table. It is all very old school, very foreign to most of us. Yet it has distinct charm and value (though the varieties for the most part are English or Continental, not American).

Mr. Bunyard defines his reverence for good eating when he says: "There is a universe between the meal set brusquely before you and that on which thought and careful planning have been spent." Those of like attitude will savor his book long and deliciously.

The garden variety of crossword puzzle has now taken its doctorate of philosophy. Nothing in the sport which I have seen on land or sea comes knee-high to "Oxford Cross-Words" (Oxford University Press, $1). This latest of the series, by M. R. Ridley, famed Keatsian authority, should set the most able among us to tearing our hair. The puzzles show all the puckish, nay fiendish, ingenuity of the English scholar in his lighter moods.

Not that Mr. Ridley's intent lacks candor: "The ideal crossword," he writes, "should require little use of the dictionary and less of the 'Encyclopedia Britanicca,' but it may fairly demand a reasonable stock of general knowledge and any amount of low cunning."

But let me just give you an example of two of his clews and "lights" (amazing English term for the desired words). What would you make of this for a six-letter across—"One who was me and Tandy took me by the hand?" Answer—"Napper," from the song, "The Wearing of the Green." But that is a pure cinch compared with some.

Consider this clew for a four-letter down: "May he who's loved, and he—who never loved, love me."

Very simple to read, of course. But the answer is "Cras," from "Cras amet qui mamquam amavit"—"tomorrow he shall love who never loved."

In other words, we're supposed to think at once of the refrain of "Pervigilium Veneris," a Latin poem, albeit very famous, of the fourth century.

My hat!

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Horse in a Metropolis.

A Girl—What is it?

Her Escort—It's a horse.

Girl—It's too big for a horse. I seen a horse once.

Her Escort—It's a little big, but I still think it's a horse. It's just swollen up or something.

* * * *

A Newsy—What's happened?

Newsy—Whose horse?

Ticket Speculator—Dillinger's I think.

* * * *

* * * *

Unemployed Actor—Disappointed in love.

* * * *

Old Lady—Officer, what's the trouble?

Policeman—A horse overcome by the heat, lady.

Old Lady—Why doesn't somebody do something? Give the poor thing an apple or some lump sugar or something.

Policeman—Somebody did give it an apple; that's why it fell down.

Chorus Girl (managing to stick her head through and get a look)—Hell! It's only a cow. Somebody told me it was Dutch Schultz.

* * * *

A Hotel Clerk—Throw some cold water on it. Who's got some cold water?

Old Lady—Why doesn't somebody get it some hay instead of just standing here doing nothing?

An Overwrought Stenographer—Get it a hot cup of coffee and some spirits of ammonia, please.

An Usherette—Why don't somebody roll it on a barrel?

Usherette—What's the matter with it?

* * * *

A Night Club Hostess—Lemme through; it may be somebody I know!

A Master of Ceremonies—Is there a doctor in the audience?

* * * *

Producer—A horse in Times Square? Are they reviving "Ben Hur?"

Hysterical Blonde (breaking through)—Where is he? Where is he? Let me see him!

Cop—Now, lissen, lady——

Hysterical Blonde—Where is he? Where is he? My place is at his side!

Cop—Whatzamattah, lady, whatzamattah? It's a horse! A horse, that's all.

Hysterical Blonde (indignantly)—Where's that hussy who told me she thought it was my husband?

Baptists Discuss Broader Program

Young People's Meeting Held at Culpeper.

Culpeper, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Members of the Baptist Young People's Union held their annual convention here yesterday in conjunction with Beth-Carr Church, of Madison, Va.

The Rev. R. M. Graham preached on "Christ Our Authority," and J. S. Satchwell discussed "B. Y. P. U. As a Soul-Winning Agency." In the afternoon session a symposium of opinions was heard on the subject "Enlarging Our Activities." The Stevensburg Union discussed "Enlarging Our Enrollment;" the Barboursville Union, "Enlarging Daily Devotions,' and the Woodville Union, "Enlarging Service Activities."

Open forum was held; V. S. Crenshaw directing one for seniors and adults and Miss Lula Belle Johnson directing one for juniors and intermediates.

Norfolk Shop Owner Kills Self by Poison

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—Floyd M. Trent, 45, proprietor of a painting and decorating shop, died today after swallowing poison at his home here.

Police learned Trent had been in ill health. A verdict of suicide was returned by Dr. C. D. J. MacDonald, city coroner.

Norfolk Tax Rate Is Fixed by State

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—The State corporation commission soon will submit to the City of Norfolk and other municipalities its tentative assessments of real estate and tangible personal property of public service corporations, including railroads and utilities, City Manager T. P. Thompson today said he had been advised.

Public hearings were held by the commission at Richmond in June on the reassessment of the properties of public service corporations.

Indications are that the corporation commission does not contemplate any material increases in valuation of utility property despite the wide variance between existing assessments for tax purposes and the valuations allowed for rate making.

Stores Increase In Maryland

An 11 per cent gain in the number of retail stores operating in Maryland last year, as compared with 1929, was reported yesterday by the Bureau of the Census. The 1933 total was 23,438, as against 21,082 in 1929.

Total sales fell from $619,573,000 in 1929 to $378,860,000 in 1933. Total pay rolls decreased from $64,291,800 to $44,958,600. The number of employes dropped from 53,480 to 41,747, while part-time workers rose from 6,490 to 12,383.

William L. Austin, director of the Bureau of the Census, said the report disclosed gradual gains were made toward the end of 1933.

Cumberland Wants Old Postoffice

Delegation Appointed to Go to Washington.

Cumberland, July 9 (Spl.).—A delegation headed by city officials and including other citizens will go to Washington on July 17 to confer with United States Treasury representatives in an effort to acquire the old postoffice and Federal courthouse building, located on the City Hall plaza. The city is anxious to obtain it for use as public safety headquarters here.

An offer of $45,000 for the building was turned down as inadequate. The city is unable to pay more. Alteration to the structure would bring the cost up to $50,000.

The delegation will be headed by Mayor George W. Legge, who has appointed the following to accompany him: City Solicitor Lewis M. Wilson, Commissioners Harry W. Matheney, Edgar Reynolds, Harry Irvine and Martin M. Connelly, Joseph B. Finan, Robert A. Setchanove, Postmaster George G. Young, W. Russell Brewer, president of the Chamber of Commerce; former Mayor George Henderson and Charles C. Holzshu, real estate expert.

Month's Delay Seen For Danville Loan

City Wants $332,189 From PWA for Schools.

Danville, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—A month's delay before the PWA Board of Review acts on Danville's application for a loan and grant of $332,189 for school improvement and considerable uncertainty as to whether money will be available at that time, was the report brought today from Washington by Superintendent of Schools G. L. H. Johnson and City Attorney A. M. Aiken, who have been to Washington.

The legal, financial and engineering divisions have approved the loan but it is so far down on the docket that it can not be reached until at least a month.

It is eight months since Danville decided to enlarge its schools through a PWA loan, most of the time being spent in getting plans and preparing the detailed application.

G. O. P. Candidates On Eastern Shore

Ocean City, Md., July 9 (Spl.). Two candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Harry W. Nice and H. Webster Smith, are on the Eastern Shore today campaigning in territories hitherto considered Democratic.

Mr. Smith just completed a swing through the lower peninsula counties, meeting political leaders and speaking. He is in the central counties today, with a big meeting scheduled in Easton later this week.

Mr. Nice spent yesterday at Ocean City. He today visited Snow Hill and other Worcester County towns. Tomorrow he will speak in Princess Anne. At night he will return to Snow Hill for another mass meeting. On Wednesday he will speak in Crisfield. Friday he will go to Grasonville, in Queen Annes County, on the Central Shore, to attend an American Legion crab feast.

Salesman Found Dead From Shot in Sutton

Sutton, W. Va., July 9 (U.P.).—Thomas Bearden, 45, Fayetteville, Tenn., wrought iron salesman, was found shot to death today in an alley here.

A guest from the hotel in which Bearden had been staying said he heard a shot last night. A coroner's jury returned a suicide verdict.

Wheeling Man Is Late Starter In G. O. P. Race

Bachmann Announcement for Representative Was Unexpected.

By W. L. Geppert.

Charleston, W. Va., July 9.—Mailed before the expiration of the time limit for filing notices of political candidacy, the name of Carl G. Bachmann, of Wheeling, former United States representative, will be entered on the Republican ballot in the First District for the primary elections August 7.

Bachmann's announcement was a surprise as it was generally understood he would not run. Three others are in the race: L. Reed Clark, Wellsburg; Ira L. Smith, Fairmont, and George L. Murphy, Grafton.

Democratic senatorial activities are centered in Charleston, where all party candidates for nomination for United States Senator had been invited to address the Charleston Jeffersonian Club tonight, with Robert G. Kelly, State chairman, presiding.

The candidates are William E. Chilton, former United States Senator, Charleston; Clem Shaver, Fairmont, who entered the race Saturday night following the withdrawal of Louis A. Johnson, Clarksburg; Rush D. Holt, Weston; Graham Sale, Welch; Arthur Koontz, Charleston; J. Alfred Taylor, Fayetteville; John W. Caldwell, St. Albans; Elbert E. Caldwell, Charleston, and Edmund M. Conaway, Board Tree, Marshal County.

Dr. Henry D. Hatfield, Huntington, running for renomination to the Senate, will have Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling, former representative; Hattie Stein, Charleston, and Washington L. Kirkpatrick, Philippi, as Republican rivals in the primary race.

Barton Wyatt, Matoaka, today filed for the Democratic nomination for representative from the Fifth District; H. E. Morgan, Fairmont, Republican, from the First District, and J. B. Kibler, Parkersburg, Democrat, from the Fourth.

14 Coal Hucksters Held in Baltimore

Men Are Accused of Two Law Violations.

Baltimore, July 9 (Spl.).—Fourteen men accused of delivering coal in Baltimore without having duplicate tickets as required by law, or without having statements showing the weight of the trucks and the coal carried in the trucks, were arrested here today in a campaign to halt underselling of Baltimore dealers.

The men arrested were reported to be from Pennsylvania. Numerous complaints have reached police regarding activities of out-of-town "hucksters."

The police said it has been customary recently for trucks to drive into Baltimore and meet at a specified point, where the drivers are given lists of delivery points by salesmen. Salesmen are said to have taken hundreds of orders for delivery in recent weeks.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors

"Crossing the Bar."

This is how the last farewell came to be written: Every October Tennyson and his family moved from their summer home in Surrey to their winter home at Farringford on the Isle of Wight.

They crossed the channel called the Solent on a ferryboat. In October, 1889, when Tennyson was 80 years old, and the family were making their annual transfer to the island, as he was standing on the deck of the greasy, dingy, unlovely ferryboat, smelling of oil and smoke and ropes and steam, these lines came into his head, just exactly as they now appear in print. He had no idea how they came into his mind or why they came in that picturesque environment. Tennyson said the whole poem "came in a moment."

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

As soon as the family reached their winter home that afternoon Tennyson wrote out the four stanzas, and after dinner showed them to his son Hallam, who said, "Father, that is the crown of your life's work." Tennyson himself did not realize that he had written a masterpiece; but when the world received it with almost awestruck rapture, Tennyson was gratified. On his deathbed three years later, October, 1892, the poet said to his son, "Mind you put 'Crossing the Bar' at the end of all editions of my poems."

Longfellow's last volume was called "In the Harbor," using exactly the opposite figure of speech for the idea of death as that used by Tennyson. One comes home after the stormy experiences of life; the other, after a circumscribed life in a narrow sea, crosses the bar and goes out into the open sea of death.

It has been observed by some that the figure of the Pilot is unfortunate; Tennyson hopes to see him when he dies; but as a matter of fact, in real voyages the passengers see the Pilot only when he leaves the ship. But what is meant by the poem is that just after we leave the wharf we are conscious of a guide who is taking the ship through the channel to the ocean, although we can not see his face; so through life we may have been conscious of some Divine Guidance; and we hope that after Death we may see Him face to face.

Carters Sail To Bermuda On Vacation

Plan 2 Months' Sojourn, Joining Seymours at Island Resort.

Proctors Also Aboard Pan-American, on Cruise South.

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

The idea that the summer must be spent in Northern climes to insure a respite from the heat is apparently not so firmly fixed in all minds, for many are selecting Bermuda for their vacations this year. There they may enjoy cool seabreezes every night, warm sun during the days, and the varied amusements which the resort offers: Golf, tennis, swimming, sailing, horseback riding, and last but not least, bicycling.

Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Carter have sailed aboard the Pan-American to spend two months in Bermuda where they have taken a cottage. Mr. Carter will return to Washington the end of this month, and rejoin his family in Bermuda again before they sail for home. Mr. Carter is a special assistant to Mr. Rexford G. Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, and after his brief vacation will resume his duties in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter have been making their home on LeRoy place for the past two or three years, the former being well known as the author of several books.

Seymours in Bermuda.

Their small daughter, Sonia, has accompanied them to Bermuda as have Mrs. Carter's two daughters, Valentine and Patricia Martyn. Valentine and Patricia have been at a boarding school in Connecticut since their mother moved to the Capital so they are not as well known to the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carter as is Sonia. In the autumn they will return to school for another year, after which Patricia will be presented to society.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney North Seymour, of New York, and their two boys already have arrived in Bermuda for a month's sojourn and will greet the Carters on their arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour spent two years in Washington when the former was in the office of Judge Thomas D. Thacher, at that time Solicitor General in the Hoover regime.

During their stay in the Capital Mr. and Mrs. Seymour occupied the beautiful old home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis deWolfe in Georgetown, where they entertained frequently; at formal parties in the winter and at delightful garden teas and suppers during the summer months when they remained in town. Mr. and Mrs. Seymour are again making their home in New York, where Mr. Seymour is associated with Judge Thatcher's law firm.

Mr. Dent Smith, popular young English newspaper correspondent, who has been in Washington for several years, is also planning to spend a part of the summer in Bermuda, where he will renew his acquaintance with a number of his English friends who are now there. Mrs. Carter is also a Britisher and will greet a number of her British navy friends there.

Sailing on the same ship with the Carters were Mr. and Mrs. John Claggett Proctor, who have started on a 1,200-mile cruise in South America.

Dinners Will Fete Bridal Attendants

Miss Moore and Dr. Crain Entertain Thursday.

Miss Louise Moore and Dr. Donell C. Crain, whose marriage will take place Thursday, will entertain the members of their wedding party tomorrow evening.

Miss Moore will have a dinner party for her attendants, Mrs. Charles W. Jenkins, Miss Lucille Crain, Miss Naomi Crain, and Miss Eleanor Harty, at the Highlands. At the same hour Dr. Crain will entertain at a bachelor's dinner in his home, 2943 Tilden street, when his guests will be his best man, Mr. Alan Crain and the ushers Dr. Raphael Edmonston, Mr. Oscar Brand, Mr. William Dismer and Mr. Louis Nichles.

Mrs. Lillian Leota Moore, mother of the bride-elect, will attend her daughter's dinner, as will Mrs. D. C. Crain, mother of Dr. Crain. Mr. D. C. Crain will attend his son's dinner.

Flemings to Honor Mr. and Mrs. Black

Reserve Board Governor to Be Dinner Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Fleming will entertain at a dinner Saturday night at the Chevy Chase Club in honor of the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and Mrs. Eugene Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Wright, of Newark, Del., will arrive in Washington Friday to attend the dinner and to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming over next week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming and Mr. and Mrs. Wright spent the Fourth of July holiday at Rehoboth Beach, Del., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis Smith. The Flemings returned to the Capital last Friday and Mr. and Mrs. Wright remained at the resort until yesterday when they motored to their home.

Mrs. John L. Cassin will sail Saturday from New York aboard the Georgic for England, where she will spend two months motoring. She will return to Washington the middle of September.

Lieut. and Mrs. Warren W. Christian, of Fort Leavenworth, Kans., have arrived in Washington to visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Christian, jr., in their home at 2649 Connecticut avenue.

Mr. George R. Galbraith left Washington last evening for Fishers Island to join his parents, Capt. and Mrs. W. W. Galbraith, who have leased a cottage there for the summer. He will return to the Capital early in August.

Ebsens Visit Capital En Route to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ebsen, jr., of New York, are at the Shoreham for a brief visit. From here they will go to Orlando, Fla., to visit Mr. Ebsen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ebsen.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Keith have closed their home on Twentieth street and will spend the remainder of the season at their summer place at Greenfield, N. H.

Mr. Daniel W. Armstrong, of New York, who spent several days in Washington, stopping at the Army and Navy Club, returned to his home last evening.

Mrs. Robson Brown, of Hartford, Conn., is at the Shoreham for several days. She is renewing acquaintance with friends in Washington, where she formerly lived. Mr. Brown, who accompanied her here after a trip to Chicago, has gone on to Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hahn have opened their summer home at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., and have as their guest the latter's mother, Mrs. Mathilda Israel, of New York.

Mrs. Edward Ostrow and Mrs. Herbert Glassman have left Washington for the West Coast. They will stop en route in Chicago and Yellowstone Park, and will return to the Capital in the early autumn.

Miss Ruth Buckwell has returned to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., after spending a fortnight with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Glaser, in their home in Chevy Chase.

Miss Elizabeth W. Allen, of Buffalo and Cazenovia, N. Y., will be the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Eaton, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Adele Wise, of Allentown, Pa. Miss Carol Hutchison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hutchison, of Plainfield, will be flower girl. The bride's two nephews, Mr. Richard Honeywell McKenney and Mr. William Vermilye McKenney, will be pages.

Mr. Cyrus D. Eaton, of Camden, N. J., will be his brother's best man and the ushers will be Mr. William Vermilye, of London, England, who arrived last week to attend the wedding; Mr. Douglas Delmar and Mr. Charles A. Eaton, jr., of Watchung, N. J., and Mr. Phillip E. McKenney, of Plainfield.

Dr. Winkfield Weds Miss Mary Boland

Winchester, Va., July 4 (Spl.).—Miss Mary G. Boland, of Reading, Pa., and Dr. J. Marshall Winkfield, of Winchester, were married in Reading recently in the rectory of St. Catherine's Church, Mount Penn. The Rev. Aloysius E. Tracy, assistant rector, officiated.

Dr. Winkfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Winkfield, of Winchester, just completed a year as chief resident physician at St. Joseph's Hospital, Reading. His bride was formerly director of nurses at that hospital.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital Training School for Nurses, and also studied at Columbia University. Dr. Winkfield is a graduate of Handley High School, Washington and Lee University and the University of Richmond. He expects to open an office in Strasburg, Va., July 15.

Mlle. de Lafajole Wed To Mr. Champin in Paris

Many Americans in Paris attended the wedding of Mlle. Lillian T. de Faramond de Lafajole, daughter of Admiral de Faramond de Lafajole and Viscountess de Lafajole, to Mr. Henri Champin, son of Mr. Marcel Champin, prominent French steel manufacturer. The ceremony took place in the Church of St. Louis des Invalides last Saturday.

Among the Americans present were Mrs. John R. Drexel and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thompson Drexel; Mrs. Laurence V. Benet, Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr, Mme. Henrique de Paats, Mrs. Carleton J. Holdrege, Princess Margaret Boncompagni, Mr. and Mrs. E. Berry Wall and Mrs. Bates Batcheller.

Rear Admiral Hubbard Entertains on Yacht

Miss Meushaw Becomes Bride Of Mr. Perry at Kenwood Club

Wedding Ceremony Takes Place Before Improvised Altar of Flowers—Couple Receive Guests and Depart on Honeymoon.

The wedding of Miss Helen Elise Meushaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conklin Meushaw, and Mr. Marlow Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sydney Perry, took place last evening at 8 o'clock in the Kenwood Club.

The ceremony was performed in one of the large drawing rooms of the clubhouse by the Rev. Michael Riordan, pastor of St. Martin's Church, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The bride was escorted by her father to the improvised altar formed by palms and ferns. She wore a gown of cream-colored Brussels lace over a satin slip, fashioned on princess lines with a long train.

The voluminous trail of tulle fell over the train from a coronet of lace, and she carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Bride's Attendants.

Miss Margaret Anne Espey, the maid of honor, wore a gown of filmy lace, and a coronet of the same lace in her hair, and carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Parker, Miss Mildred Sullivan, Miss Clarabelle Armstrong and Miss Phebe Gale, who wore frocks of peach-colored mousseline de soie with blue coronets and carried bouquets of Johanna Hill roses with blue delphinium.

Mr. Richard Claiborne Durham was best man and the ushers included Mr. Ronald Levy, Mr. Lorne Guild, Mr. Henry Whiting, Mr. DeWitt Hyde, Mr. Edwin Hutchinson and Mr. Donald Bittinger.

Wedding Reception.

A reception followed the ceremony. The young couple were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother, Mrs. Meushaw, who wore a gown of peach-colored lace, and Mrs. Perry, mother of the bridegroom, who was in a gown of peach-colored chiffon.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Perry left on a wedding trip, the latter wearing a traveling suit of navy blue crepe with hat and accessories to match.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Long Branch, N. J.; Miss Lavinia Leunbach, Miss Margaret Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lockhart, Miss Annette Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrest, all of Baltimore; Mr. Henri John, of Los Angeles, and Mr. Joseph Coker, of Rock Hill, S. C.

Capital Counts Absent Friends At Institute

Latin-American Meeting Draws Group Formerly on Duty Here.

Mrs. John M. Enochs has returned to Washington from Charlottesville, Va., where she attended the Latin-American round table of the Institute of Public Affairs. Mrs. Enochs, the widow of Capt. Enochs, U. S. N., has spent much time in South America and is interested in Latin-American affairs.

Among other persons of interest to Washington who attended the Latin-American round table were Mr. Dana G. Munro, former United States Minister to Haiti and former chief of the Latin-American division of the State Department; Mr. William R. Castle, jr., former Undersecretary of State; the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, and the former Ambassador of Cuba, Senor Dr. Orestes Ferrara. Senor Ferrara, who, with Senora de Ferrara, has been making his home in New York for nine or ten months, has not been in Washington since he left two years ago to assume his duties as Secretary of State of Cuba, but many of their Washington friends have seen them in New York and always find them interested in the activities of the Capital.

Mr. Benjamin Muse, former Secretary of the United States Legation in Uruguay, attended the institute meeting. Mr. Muse and his charming Mexican wife are now making their home in Petersburg, Va., where Mr. Muse, who has recently resigned from the diplomatic service, has started a Virginia country newspaper, the Southside Virginia News. Mr. Muse also was counselor to the United States delegation at the Pan-American conference last winter in Montevideo.

Dwights Leave Soon on Trip To Michigan

Open Gibson Island Home After Ten-Days' Visit in Detroit.

Mrs. John Henry Dwight and her daughter, Miss Mary Dwight, returned to their apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue yesterday afternoon from Somerville, N. J., where they spent the Fourth of July holiday and the week-end with Mrs. John W. H. Crim and her daughter, Miss Barbara Crim, at their summer home, Oakland Farm. Mrs. Crim and her daughter spent several days in Washington last spring.

Mrs. Dwight and Miss Dwight will go to Detroit the end of the week to spend about ten days. They will return by motor and early in August will go to Gibson Island, Md., where they have taken Tan Hara, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Newcomer, of Baltimore, for three months.

Few Washingtonians have taken up a summer residence at Gibson Island this season, but among those who have opened their cottages for the season are Mr. and Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, who, with their children, have been established there since the end of June.

Lovely Faces Require Extra Summer Care

Travelers Will Be Grateful for Convenience of Beauty Kit.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

WHY IS it a two weeks' vacation can prove so ruinous to a complexion? That's a question women are asking themselves now they are returning from or just setting out on summer trips.

There's no arguing the answer given by a woman versed in beauty culture. She says ordinarily a vacation is a kind of "let-up." It's a time for lazing around or turning one's energy into new channels. As a result, women are not as careful as usual about cleansing their faces every night.

Train travel demands particular care of the skin. If a person is going from city to city and eating here, there, and yon at haphazard hours, it is very likely the effects will show on the complexion.

Therefore, this expert goes on to emphasize, by all means take extraordinary pains to keep the skin clean, stimulated and nourished. And don't make it hard for yourself by carrying an assortment of bottles and jars liable to spill. "Buy," she says, "a compact little beauty kit which you can tuck away in your suitcase or carry in your hand. You can take it to the Pullman dressing room with you as easily as you do your purse."

A lot of shoppers answer that such kits are frequently too expensive.

In reply she says, "see mine."

Numbers of these are featured in a downtown store in white, red, blue, green and black leather. They include a liquefying herbal cleansing cream, herbal skin tonic, tissue cream, powder, lipstick and rouge.

Here are the things a skin needs to be kept in good condition. And here they are neatly packed, and inclosed in an attractive kit—not at all expensive.

• • • •

Small Street Purses.

The leather bags selling for $1 in an F street shop aren't large, but they're large enough. A casual guess places them at about 10 inches in length and 7 or 8 in width.

Small women usually prefer small bags. As a general thing however it's rather difficult to find a "smaller than usual" handbag that isn't a cocktail or occasional purse. These however, are tailored street bags, all of them white for summer wear. The leather is genuine.

• • • •

Protect the Hairline.

There are few things more annoying than a perfect facial make-up job, which smears itself upon the hairline. Or to cleanse the face thoroughly with cream which behaves likewise.

As a precaution against this kind of catastrophe it's a good idea always to wear a make-up band. A downtown store has some made of soft washable rubber which fit smoothly around the head and protect the hairline. They can be worn with savoir faire as their fit and style makes them actually becoming. They're 25 cents each.

• • • •

To Placate Wives.

If a man wants to persuade his wife to stay in the kitchen these hot days he's got to use strategy. He must contrive somehow or other to make the kitchen a more comfortable place for her. If he does his reward will be fewer salads and more meat.

A Connecticut avenue store suggests an easy means. It carries some adjustable kitchen exhaust fans that fasten in the window and draw the hot air and food fumes out and stir up a cooling breeze. Next to air conditioning this is the best thing yet.

• • • •

Reduced Sachet.

Those shoppers who are familiar with the two-dollar bottles of sachet which always have been popular sellers with a certain concern will be interested to hear they're featuring dollar sizes now. These dollar sizes, while they're a different shape, hold just as much, and possibly a little more than those which sold at a higher price.

Sachet has always been a summer favorite. It gives a subtle fleeting fragrance that many perfumes don't. These particular products range in fragrance from the very light to the exotic.

• • • •

Keeps Ice Frozen.

Few hostesses have failed to bump into the ice situation. No matter how quickly the electric refrigerator turns out cubes, ice vanishes in no time, causing never ending inconvenience. When drinks are served in the open, the ice bowl soon changes from a bowl of cubes to a bowl of water. Then for another trip to the kitchen. And likely the cubes are gone!

A solution is tendered by an F street store. They advise using their new crockery thermos. It looks like a large, attractive cookie jar. But when the top is removed a roomy thermos interior comes to view. It can be filled with enough ice to last the afternoon or evening through.

Small Dash of Meringue on Pudding Will Lend That Culinary Something

Every Homemaker Should Know How to Make It Well.

By Ann Barrett.

MAYBE it's meringue poised shiveringly atop that very delicate dessert called floating island (which oddly enough, stalwart, adventuresome men such as explorer Martin Johnson dote on). Or meringue moored firmly but lightly to the top of a lemon pie (favorite dessert of Harpo Marx).

But anyway, meringue—which (when it's good) proves to be the making of the dessert. So being able to whip up a good meringue is something that should be in every homemaker's bag of cooking tricks.

Taking this task apart, the simple secrets are revealed as follows:

First, about ingredients and utensils. Use good, fresh egg-whites, and have them cold. Have the bowl cold, too. Use a heavy rotary beater (or electric beater) and be sure this is clean, dry and cold. Use the finest sugar you can buy.

This will be confectioner's sugar or powdered sugar—sifted. (Experienced meringue-makers often use granulated sugar. But finer sugar is safer for folks who have meringue troubles).

Beating and Baking.

Second, about the process. Beat up the egg-whites till stiff enough to come up in peaks when you lift the beater out. Then, little by little (say 1 tablespoon at a time) beat in the sugar. Beat each lot of sugar in thoroughly before adding the next lot. This will get to be heavy work before you're done—but heavy work seems to make light meringues.

Another thing—always use plenty of sugar because it helps to hold up your meringue—if you beat it in thoroughly. Two tablespoons to each egg-white is the rule for pudding and pie meringues. Meringues for kisses and similar confections require ¼ cup sugar for each egg-white.

Third, and most important of all, I do believe, is the matter of baking. Slow, slow, slow must be the oven. So don't try making meringues when you're in too much of a fever to give them time. And always put the meringue on a cooled (never hot) mixture (pie or pudding). Then bake it at 325 degrees Fahrenheit for 15 minutes and it'll turn out light, tender and delicately browned.

Poached Meringue.

For floating island, it's an increasingly popular trick (especially in summer) not to bake the meringue, but to poach it. The ingredients used are exactly the same. But instead of baking the meringue on the pudding, you drop the mixture off a tablespoon into a shallow pan containing 2 or 3 inches of hot (not boiling) water.

You let these meringues cook gently (not boil) over a low fire, 2 minutes. Then turn them gently with a fork and cook them 2 minutes more. Next, remove them with a slotted spoon (draining them thoroughly) and put them atop the pudding. Note: These meringues should not be made far ahead of serving time. They will stand long enough to be chilled on top of the pudding, but will not stand waiting indefinitely.

Floating Island.

In case you'd like the whole recipe for floating island, here's how it goes: First scald 2¾ cups milk in top of double boiler.

Here Are Some Secrets About Whipping It Up Quickly.

Then mix 2 tablespoons cornstarch smooth in ¼ cup cold milk, and slowly add this to hot milk, stirring constantly till mixture thickens. Next, cook this mixture about 8 minutes, to make sure the cornstarch will not taste raw.

Meanwhile beat up 4 egg yolks with 6 tablespoons granulated sugar. Add this to hot mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Then cook about 2 minutes more. Finally, remove from fire, add a few grains of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, and pour mixture into large or individual dishes to cool.

For the meringue, beat up the four cold egg-whites till they peak, then gradually beat in very thoroughly ½ cup confectioner's sugar or sifted powdered sugar. Next, either poach tablespoons of this meringue or drop them right onto the cooled pudding and bake the meringue 15 minutes at 325 F.

Floating Island Variations.

In case you want to stray from the beaten track on this dessert, there's chocolate floating island. You make this by melting 1½ squares (ounces) of cut-up cooking chocolate in scalded milk, before adding cornstarch.

Then better increase sugar 2 more tablespoons, as chocolate takes extra sweetening. Or you might have butterscotch floating island—just by using dark brown sugar in place of granulated, and adding 1 teaspoon butter when you take mixture from fire.

All Day and in the Evening Seersucker Worn With Chic

By Amos Parrish.

NEW YORK, July 9.—So far we haven't unearthed any shoes or stockings of seersucker. But with that single—or double—exception, there's no common article of feminine wearing apparel that isn't made of it this summer. (And there are plenty of seersucker items for the home, too. To say nothing of men's seersucker suits.)

Moreover, there isn't any hour of the day or night that it isn't worn. For, as you can see in the illustration, even the formal hours of evening may be whiled away in a gay plaid or striped seersucker.

In delicate colors it has a cool look which is fine psychology on a warm day or evening. And in bright colors it gives you decided dash.

A Seersucker Day.

Here's how a typical seersucker day might go. Get up in the morning and slip on a seersucker bath robe over your seersucker pajamas while you run the tub.

As you dress, over your seersucker girdle, pull on a pair of seersucker panties and slip into a seersucker "bra."

Next your seersucker shirtwaist for breakfast and the morning tasks.

Later in the day perhaps you'll go to the beach or to the club for golf or tennis. Wear your seersucker sports outfit . . . the 3-piece one of shorts, shirt-like blouse and skirt. You take off the skirt when you get to the beach or the courts.

Bathing Suits, Too.

Or perhaps you'll take your seersucker bathing suit . . . the one lined with lightweight wool for modesty's sake.

If you later wear your linen suit, you may put on with it a seersucker blouse and hat and gloves and hand bag.

And then, as we mentioned before, into the seersucker dance dress. And so on, to bed in the seersucker pajamas again.

On another day, when you are going to town, you'll find a tailored seersucker dress or a seersucker suit very comfortable. And we'd advise you to take along your waterproofed seersucker raincoat in case of a sudden shower!

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Poison Ivy.

Certain plants fairly common in woods and fields are responsible each season for thousands of cases of poisoning characterized by inflammation of the skin and swelling of the parts infected. Occasionally there is a reaction severe enough to bring on a serious illness.

Two such plants are known as poison ivy and poison oak. Neither is a true ivy. Both belong to the genus Rhus and are really sumacs. Both plants may be recognized by the character of the leaf, which is divided into three distinct leaflets. The leaves of certain harmless plants may resemble those of the poison variety, but show a division into five leaflets. Those who are interested can get from the Department of Agriculture at Washington Farmers' Bulletin No. 1166. This booklet gives illustrations.

The poison is found in the resinous sap of the plant and this sap must come into actual contact with the skin before it can cause inflammation. The sap will retain its poisonous properties for some time and is readily transferred by the hands to other parts of the body. An exceedingly small quantity only is needed to bring on the skin inflammation. Instances have been noted where the poison has come into contact with gloves and, weeks later, has caused a true skin irritation when the gloves were worn. Shoes that are handled following an outing in the woods may transfer the poison to the hands.

Literally hundreds of remedies have been proposed and used. Potassium permanganate has proved efficient in many cases. A 5 per cent solution in water will stop itching and relieve irritation. The brown stain caused by permanganate may be removed by washing thoroughly, or by a weak solution of hyposulphite of soda. Oils or ointments should not be used during the acute stage.

Prevention consists in learning to recognize poisonous plants and avoiding them.

ESCAPE from the SOVIETS

By TATIANA TCHERNAVIN

"Escape From the Soviet" is the best-selling book of nonfiction in the United States today, and The Washington Post, by publishing it in serial form, offers its readers an opportunity to read the book while it is still the talk of the reading world. In yesterday's installment the author told of a child whose mother had been sent into exile. The recital today picks up at that point.

THERE was still a tiny, faint hope that the death-sentence had been commuted to penal servitude—but no!

"The sentence has been carried out, chairman of the OGPU Menzhinsky."

We felt exactly as though the OGPU agents had suddenly walked into the various offices and shot those who were in charge of the work. There were no blood-stained bodies on the floor, but essentially it was just the same. The empty desks of the murdered men stood in the usual place; their papers had for the most part not even been disturbed by the OGPU, who had "documents" of their own to incriminate them. Those who had not been arrested as yet wandered about the office in utter bewilderment. All felt that death was near and there was no escape.

In prisons the shootings continued on the quiet, but OGPU published no more lists of victims. It was said that the death sentences had made a bad impression abroad. Arrests went on at such a rate that in some departments of the main government institutions there were only typists and caretakers left.

Horror for Child.

Two days after the shooting of the "48" a little girl, the stepdaughter of one of the victims, ran to us in alarm.

"Mother has sent me. Yesterday they came and made a list of all our things and today they've come to take them away. They've taken all we have, everything . . ." Her lips trembled, her eyes were full of tears, but she was in a hurry to give her mother's message. "Mother has just received a notice, she has to go somewhere very far, and she asked perhaps I could live with you for a time. Mother thinks perhaps they won't exile me because daddy was not my real, I mean, not my own father." She corrected herself and suddenly burst into tears. "But I loved him very much, and I do love him still, and the girls in our class voted that daddy should be shot. I won't, I won't go to school any more," she cried through her sobs.

"There, there, pull yourself together. Where is your mother now?"

"She's gone to . . ." the child's eyes opened wide with terror, "mother said she was going to the OGPU. They'll shoot her there as they shot daddy!" she sobbed.

"Nonsense, they won't touch her. Why, you saw that she went there herself, she wasn't taken like daddy. I expect she wants to ask them if she may leave you behind."

"I don't want to be left, I want to go with mother."

Comfort Offered.

The child wept so bitterly, hiding her face in my lap, that my hands and dress were wet with her tears.

"Of course you will be with mother, only you will go to her later, when she is settled. Listen: mother will get there, find a room, find some work, then write to us here and you will go to her. Just think, other people are worse off than you: there's one mother who has two small children, and she isn't allowed to leave them here—and in the place to which they are sending her there are no hotels, and she doesn't know a soul there and will have nowhere to go from the station. It will be much nicer for your mother to travel by herself, and I will soon send you to her. And you need not go to school here." I was trying to comfort the poor child with the misfortunes of others.

"You know, they are sending into exile that mad woman, too."

"Surely not?"

Can't Travel Alone.

"Mother said so. Her sister will go with her; she can't travel alone."

"Well, you stay here and I'll go and see your mother," I said, freeing myself from the child's grasp as I saw that she was getting calmer. I could not imagine what her mother's state must have been.

It was too outrageous. Women, stunned with grief, and frightened children who could not grasp what had happened and watched, horrified, their mothers' despair, were being sent into exile, robbed of all they possessed except a change of clothes. Within three days of the fathers' execution the families had to leave for remote little towns, with no money, no help of any kind, not knowing where to put up, for it was extremely difficult to find living room anywhere. Perhaps it was the very depth of despair that saved these unhappy women. They signed notifications of exile and protocols of confiscation, hardly grasping what it all meant, and, taking their children, set off in utter hopelessness into the unknown. Their fate created perhaps even more panic than their husbands' death, and apparently this was precisely what the government wanted for their campaign of terror.

Suicides General.

In the meantime, people who were not directly threatened with anything, broke down in the general atmosphere of strain and fear, and committed suicide. Learned experts, some of the honest Communists, museum and scientific workers, for the most part comparatively young people, hastened to take their own lives. The numbers of suicides increased so rapidly that the papers were forbidden to mention them. Elderly people died a natural death, but a sudden one; their hearts nurtured on Liberalism and Tolstoy could not stand this new "Communist offensive."

No more than a week had passed after the execution of the "forty-eight," but one might have thought that the intellectuals had been stricken by plague; thousands were in prison, and those that were still free were a pitiful sight. No one argued any more or talked of justice or felt secure in the sense of his own rectitude. Prison, death or exile were the fate of all; it would have been shameful to expect mercy, when one's friends lay buried in a nameless grave, and their widows and children suffered in far-off exile.

Only Soviet citizens know what it means to wait for arrest, prison, and almost certain death when one has not done any wrong.

After the shooting of the "48" we went about as though we had been poisoned, looking round at every step, starting at every sudden noise, alarmed by everything. The day dragged on wearily. There seemed to be no strength left for work, though sometimes one did it with a kind of desperate energy, to try and forget one's thoughts. Four o'clock brought a certain sense of relief; we had not been arrested at the office, that meant we would be able to go home once more. And at home one felt more wretched than ever; the rooms and the furniture seemed hostile in their cold sameness and indifference.

My husband and my son came home, and it seemed as though this were our last evening, our last meal together; I could hardly swallow any food, thinking either of the friends who had perished so suddenly, or wondering how much longer my husband would still be with us.

The boy was watching us with frightened eyes. He knew that friends who had such a short time before been well and cheerful, had been to see us, had joked with him, were now killed—but he could not understand why and how. The little girl who sadly sat beside him was a living reminder of their dreadful and incomprehensible fate.

What Today Means

"Cancer."

If July 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a. m., from 12:45 to 2:45 p. m. and from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m.

July 10 may prove to be essentially a buyers' market. A good many sellers, under certain conditions, might be tempted to make valuable concessions. A good trader, however, will refrain from trying to drive too hard a bargain, or he may lose an excellent opportunity to buy at an advantageous price.

The woman born on July 10, generally, has a remarkably sweet and placid disposition. If born on this date, your readiness to help others may bring you unexpected reward. Love means a great deal more to you than does money, and the probability is that you will have an abundance of both.

The child born on July 10, as it grows up, will occasion very little trouble, and prove a source of a great deal of joy.

"I am a Relief Worker"

WHAT DO DR. M. W. LOCKE SHOES MEAN TO ME?

On relief duty . . . it's hurry, hurry, hurry to get from one case to another . . . and constantly going from morn till evening. But that's not the worst of it. A relief worker has to be about as patient as Job . . . as tactful as a Diplomat . . . as cheerful as Santa Claus. She can't be all this if she's dragging about a pair of achy, tired feet. Dr. Locke Shoes will carry her in brisk, swinging strides through the busiest day . . . comfortably . . . healthfully. What a relief!

Courage and Courtesy Are Two Essentials to a Successful Business Personality

Young and Pretty Budgeteers Talk About 'Planned Economy'

They Not Only Dress Well, Give Nice Presents at Christmas, but Are Able to Save Some for Rainy Days and Trips.

IT'S better to be a bee than a butterfly in Washington—especially if you're a young girl, pretty and earn only $12.50 a week. How to get by on it? That's easy. Hundreds of department store clerks, especially shop saleswomen and lunchroom workers, manage it all the time. Their clear-headed courage should make many high salaried complainers hide their heads in shame.

What's more, it is possible to save a little out of the $12.50 for a rainy day, say these girls. Several even report having put by as high as $75 with which to play Santa Claus during the year.

"It is our version of planned economy," explained one attractive young apparel shop clerk. "It's a case of looking ahead instead of living for the moment. On our salary, of course, laundry bills are taboo, also taxis. And we let the boy friend pay for most of the movies." And with a flourish of pad and pencil she jotted down her budget.

|---|---|
| Salary total a year | $650.00 |
| Board and room...$6.50 per week | |
| Street car pass.. 1.00 " " | |
| Movie ..... .25 " " | |
| Pym't on clothes 1.00 " " | |
| Total .....$8.50 | |
| Expense total a year ..... | $442.00 |

It's Not So Hard.

"You see, that leaves a surplus of $108 a year for Christmas and other incidental expenses."

But that budget! Where in the world could one get board and room for $6.50 a week, outside of one's own home?

The clerk was visibly astonished at such a lack of familiarity with conditions. She informed her questioner there were no end of private homes providing such accommodations. The same budget could be maintained, she pointed out, by several girls doubling up on expenses in a reasonably priced apartment.

A dime bank has proved the rainy day salvation of another department store clerk. In this she drops her weekly surplus, amounting to between $1 and $2. Her board and room cost $8 weekly and she walks to work. She dresses well, sees an occasional movie at her own expense, and pays on a doctor and hospital bill once a month.

"Saving money is sometimes as much a matter of the heart as well as the head," declared the girl earnestly. Some girls will live up to a certain standard, no matter what limitations their salaries suggest. They will run in debt, golddig, or anything, rather than to deprive themselves of luxuries they could do very well without.

You Learn Economy.

"But living within a close budget teaches one a lot of common sense. For instance, I learned some time ago that cotton slips fit just as well, last longer, and are twice as cheap as silk ones. What's more, they are cooler in the summer. So I wear them to work all the time now.

"When I buy my stockings, I get several pair of one shade at a time, rinse them out each night after wearing them, and that way, prolong their durability. My dresses I buy at the end, rather than at the beginning of seasons, selecting reasonably conservative rather than faddy models. This often gives me a complete seasonal wardrobe for the price of one or two dresses.

"I watch for bargains in soaps and other toiletries, buying a large quantity at a time. That is the only sensible economy. Last year, I was able to finance a week's trip to the Chicago Fair. And I didn't come home broke either."

A girl who lives with her family, paying them three dollars a week for board and room, said she was able to save $140 last year, over and above her clothes and incidentals. Her budget follows:

|---|---|
| Board and room | $3.00 |
| Weekly payment on a bill | 1.00 |
| Car fare weekly | .60 |
| Lunch, six days | 1.50 |
| Total | $6.10 |
| Total expense, yearly | $317.00 |
| Balance | $280.00 |

This left $140 for clothes and incidentals, and $140 for the bank.

Fairfax County Business Club Begins Activity

Veterans of Foreign Wars' Auxiliary Elects New Officers.

THE newly organized Business and Professional Women's Club of Fairfax County, Va., has been granted a charter, which will be presented to the club officially by either a State or National officer.

This new organization will adopt a program of activities and start functioning at once. Mrs. Helen Hill Miller, of Pickens Hill, Fairfax, widely known writer, is president.

The charter members are Mrs. Eleanor W. Aud, Miss Dorothy Brown, Mrs. Paul E. Brown, Mrs. William J. Cleveland, Miss Mavis C. Cobb, Mrs. L. M. Coyner, Mrs. Mary H. Cullen, Mrs. Elsie A. Davis, Miss Virginia Eaton, Mrs. Frederick M. Everly, Mrs. Bessie V. Gainer, Mrs. M. D. Hall, Miss M. Ethel Jeffries, Miss Olga Jensen, Mrs. Mary W. Lindsey, Miss Anne Lester, Miss Ida Hooe Jones, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Mabel M. Nichell, Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamans, Mrs. Lula R. Tanner, Miss Dorothy Stubbs, Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Miss Edith Thompson, Mrs. Mary L. Thompson and Mrs. Lucy Madeira Wing.

Newly elected officers of the District of Columbia Department, Ladies Auxiliaries to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are: Mrs. Clay Keene Miller, reelected president; Miss Adelaide Grand and Miss Katherine Lawson, vice presidents; Miss Leonelda Volkman, secretary; Miss Nellie Fuller, treasurer; Miss Jessie Thomas, judge advocate; Miss Florence Morris, conductress; Miss Rosina Luebkert, chaplain; Miss Edna McCutcheon, guard; Miss Rose Reilly, patriotic instructor; Miss Ethel Ridgeway, historian.

Mrs. Hume is treasurer of the local chapter, an organization for business and professional women.

Members of the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women were entertained at a tea by Mrs. Maurice Salisbury at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hazel Woods, of the Lee House, is the newly elected president of the Washington chapter of the National Executive Housekeepers Association. Other officers are Miss Katherine Allen, vice president; Miss Carrie Cook, secretary, and Miss Ella Yaedaker, treasurer.

Forestville Home Demonstration Club will meet at 10 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Claude Robey, Forestville, Va., for a demonstration on the canning of fruits and vegetables.

The Floris (Va.) Home Demonstration Club will meet at 2 o'clock today at the schoolhouse for a demonstration on accessories for the living and dining rooms. Mrs. John Middleton and Mrs. Donald Popovich will have change of the demonstration.

Mrs. E. A. Lelacheur, founder and first president of the Riverdale Heights Garden Club, was reelected president of the club.

Others chosen were T. C. Gardner, vice president; Mrs. C. E. Van Wie, secretary; Mrs. Mary O'Brien, treasurer, and Mrs. Catherine Frazier, librarian.

The Rev. Irving W. Ketchum will give an illustrated lecture on "Oberammergau" at the meeting of the Business Women's Council at 8 o'clock tonight in the chapel of the Covenant Church.

Young People Getting Scarce, Figures Show

Number Diminishing at a Startling Rate, Say Professors.

LESS than 100 years ago youth ruled the world—numerically at least.

But recent studies in population trends both in Europe and America reveal the number of young people is diminishing at a startling rate, the proportion of older ones is increasing, and the proportion between the ages of 20 and 50 is about the same.

Dr. Alfred J. Lotka, assistant statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and Prof. Johan Hjort of the Imperial College of Science and Technology, London, have collected evidence indicating the era when youth held the dominant position in our population is at an end.

Figures Prove It.

Dr. Lotka showed statistics proving in 1850 persons under 20 made up 52.5 per cent of our population, while in 1930 the percentage had dropped to 38.8 per cent. It is estimated that ultimately the younger element will drop to 26.3 per cent.

In this same period the percentage of people over 50 increased from 8.9 per cent in 1850 to 17.2 per cent. In 1930 their ultimate percentage will be 35.5.

Authorities believe the increased life span due to better sanitary conditions is responsible for the increase in the proportion of older people, and the decreasing birth rate is responsible for the decrease in the number of younger members.

Rapidly Declining.

"In the United States we had a birth rate of about 38 in 1870," Dr. Lotka stated. "It has been steadily and rapidly declining since that time and in 1931 was approximately 18 per 1,000 or less than one-half what it was half a century ago. During that period our death rate has been reduced from 20 to 11 per 1,000."

In the English discussion it was asked why people have children at all. The child, it was stated, seems to be regarded as a welcomed reenforcement by those who speak in the name of the State, but as often as not it is regarded as an inconvenient burden by the parents.

"In these days," comments "Nature," scientific English publication, "it is becoming increasingly common for parentage to cease to be a casual affair, and to be a matter for deliberate choice. In the future there will be no such thing as an unwanted child. The problem in its ultimate analysis comes to be that of cultivating the wish to have children, and of creating a type of society in which the child shall have a definite function.

"When the world is fit for children to live in they will be born. While things are as they are, it is perfectly reasonable to limit their numbers."

This BUSINESS of LIVING

What to Do About One of Those Secretary-Boss Office Loves?

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Please help me solve this—the greatest problem of my life. I am secretary to a very prominent executive. I have worked with him for three years, and during that time I have come to know him very well and to love him very much. If he did not care for me, and if he were happy with his wife, I would gladly leave my present position and go to some other city, where I am sure I could get something else to do. But this is the situation: His wife is an unsympathetic, coldly calculating type of woman, who clings to him only because he has a good position and makes a great deal of money.

* * * *

He has repeatedly tried to get her to give him a divorce, but thus far she refuses, although she knows he is in love with me and that she has no hope of winning back his love—even if she cared whether or not she had it.

He is miserable with her, and I know he cares for me. Should I leave my position and go away where I shall never see him again, or shall I stay here and continue to be his secretary, knowing the while I can never be his wife? I may as well tell you this: Life without him would not be worth living, even though I quit seeing him outside the office. Would you advise me to stay with my job in hope . . . he can eventually find sufficient grounds to procure a divorce? J. L. K.

Sever the Connection.

My dear J. L. K.: When the day comes, if it ever does, that secretaries give more thought to the work for which they have presumably fitted themselves and less to the idea they are heaven-sent affinities to their bosses, problems such as yours will be entitled to more serious and sympathetic consideration.

Possibly there do occur instances where a fine, deep, mutual, inescapable attachment develops unsolicited between a man and woman working side by side in the business world—one or both of whom are already married.

* * * *

But the majority of those alleged grand passions which flower, openly or furtively, in business offices can not really be classified as love. Eliminate the obstacles to legitimate courtship and in nine cases out of ten, at least, the attraction will wane. It is mostly the allure of forbidden fruit.

Briefly, I would advise you to sever both your romantic and and your business affiliations with this man. Get a job in another city, since you are confident you can.

* * * *

Since his wife refuses to divorce him there is no possibility of marriage in view. She may or may not be the dog-in-the-manger you paint her, but would you be any less so to prolong stubbornly a hopeless affair? As the situation exists you are inviting loss of your own self-respect and loss of society's esteem. What's more, you are simply losing time in reconstructing your life along necessarily new lines.

"Life without him would not be worth living," you say. I daresay the human being never lived who hasn't made that moan at some time or other, when he saw something he wanted eluding his grasp.

Yet the rise of man out of the primeval ooze is a case history of humanity's miraculous capacity for adjusting itself to things as they are, not as we would have them.

Prisoners Soothed by Music And Turned to Better Ways

By Virginia Lee Warren.

IT WAS Poet Williams Congreve who declared about 200 years ago that "music hath charms to soothe the savage breast." It remained for Mrs. Philip W. Chappel, recently of Colorado, now of Georgetown, to prove Congreve knew whereof he wrote.

As National chairman of the General Federation of Music Clubs' committee on music in penal institutions, Mrs. Chappell studied the effects of music on prisoners.

She learned persons with musical training seldom find themselves behind bars; inmates of penal institutions usually change for the better, in physical appearance as well as mental outlook, after they have studied music.

They Don't Go to Jail.

"A trained musician has never been committed to the Colorado State prison," said Mrs. Chappell, a sister of Emily Newell Blair, writer, at her apartment in Kew Gardens, yesterday. "And of all the prisoners who have studied music at the Colorado penal institution, not one has been returned on a second offense.

"Prison officials declare they can notice a difference in a man after he has had only a few music lessons," continued Mrs. Chappell. "The minute he begins to toot a horn in the band, he spruces himself up for every practice. His facial expression and his manner change, too. He seems more contented, less bittter."

If music has this much effect on criminals, it could be used as a character building force among law-abiding persons, believes Mrs. Chappell, herself an accomplished pianist.

To Revive Group Life.

"For too many years music has been a prerogative of the chosen few," she said. "But in these days of enforced leisure it should be used to revive fast-disappearing group life. Anybody who doubts group life is vanishing should try to give a community affair. It would have been easy 50 years ago. It is almost impossible today. Everyone dashes off in a separate direction in his own car. But music, in the form of sing fests and band concerts can bring people—especially young people—together as a unit for their own good as well as society's."

Mrs. Chappell, recently elected president of the Colorado State Society in the District, hopes the time will soon come when every crossroads village will have its own band.

"From those village bands we can gradually progress to a symphony and an opera in every city," she concluded.

Strictly Speaking

Of Musicians.

1. What celebrated German composer was born in Bonn in 1770 and studied with Mozart in Vienna?
2. How is Mozart pronounced?
3. What is the full name of the noted Polish pianist who gained fame as a composer and statesman?
4. What Polish composer and pianist found his most successful expression of his genius in the nocturne and the etude?

Answers Here.

1. Van Beethoven—pronounced vahn BAY-to-ven or vahn BAT-ho-ven.
2. Mozart may be Anglicized and called MOW-zart (first syllable to rhyme with "go") or it may be given the German pronunciation, MOAT-sart.
3. Ignaz Jan Paderewski—pronounced EEG-naz Yan pa-de-REF-skee or pa-de-RES-kee.
4. Chopin—called show-PAN.

PILLAR to POST

Three Small Sons Egg on Father to Tell of War Experiences.

"WHEN papa was in jail" is a subject the three small sons of the Assistant Commissioner of Patents, Bryan M. Battey, never tire of hearing about. It is their way of expressing their father's predicament when he was a prisoner of the Germans in the World War. Bryan, jr., is determined to be an aviator, "just like papa," when he grows up. And if fighting blood counts, he should be a good one. He has not only his father's record behind him, but two of his great-grandfathers fought and were killed in the Civil War, one a captain in the Union Army, the other a captain in the Confederate Army.

* * * *

The three boys, Bryan, 10, Fraser, 8, and Lawrence, 4, sat in a row on a settee, dressed in spotless white linen suits, and beamed upon the reporter who made "papa" talk about his war experiences. They are remarkably sturdy youngsters and the middle one, Fraser, is the image of his father. The assistant commissioner, tall, personable, immaculate in white linen, appeared too young (he is only 37) to have his title, but he has achieved much in the fields of engineering and law. The children's mother in a rose tea gown sipped iced coffee with quiet satisfaction, trying not to look too proud of her attractive family.

* * * *

It was not easy to interview Mr. Battey, who is a member of that secret organization of distinguished fliers known as the "Quiet Birdmen;" he is inclined to live up to that name. But with the cooperation of the boys a few facts were elicited.

Papa in Jail.

He attributed his early interest in aviation to his father, the late Dr. Sumter B. Battey, who was the first surgeon connected with the New York Aeronautical Society, organized soon after the Wright brothers made their early flights. He would often go with his father "to pick up the pieces when an aerly bird lost a wing."

* * * *

Leaving college in 1917 to volunteer for service in the flycorps he was commissioned as a pilot in the American Army, then transferred to the British Royal Flying Corps. After seven weeks at the front he was made a deputy flight leader. He described his last battle above the clouds with six enemy planes, as the boys sat on the edge of the settee with their eyes big and round.

* * * *

"I was forced down behind the German lines and while I tried to start my motor under fire from the trenches I was wounded and captured."

Cynical Prisoner.

"Now," he said, "I'm going to tell you a story I like."

* * * *

"After days spent in that solitary cell," narrated Mr. Battey, "I noticed that between the stones of the wall there were dots and dashes scratched on the mortar—the Morse code. All pilots in the war could read that code and it wasn't hard for me to decipher it. The first message I read told of a guard that could be bought. I found out later he had been transferred.

* * * *

"Then I read further, 'stone walls do not a prison make,' and I wondered why the prisoner who had been there before me had gone to the trouble of quoting that old 'saw.' But I persisted in decoding the message in the hope of getting some information of value. 'Nor iron bars a cage,' I read. Then I noticed the scribe had appended this observation, 'But they some darn near it.'"

Working Women Should Shed Fear and Lack of Confidence

That's What Miss Phillips, Who's Achieved Plenty of Success, Thinks and Determinedly Advocates; Another Business Woman Urges Affability.

Not only for social success but for business and political achievement, for all forms of effective living is personality woman's greatest need. How can the intangible qualities that constitute personality be developed?

The following is the eighth in a series of articles dealing with this question.

By Frances Mangum.

TODAY a business woman needs more than ability. She must have personality.

Depression changes have emphasized this fact. In all lines of work men and women are urging their capabilities for the other person's job. Forms of industry are shifting and knowledge of technical ability now must be reinforced by adaptability. The most reliable weapon with which the business woman can meet the world of today is—personality.

But what kind of personality? What are the ingredients that insure a business success?

For one thing the ability to shoulder responsibility, if one may judge from the career of Lena Madesin Phillips, honorary president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, and president of the National Council of Women of the United States.

Few women so young have had such widespread contacts among business women, or been able to meet the duties and fulfill the obligations which fall on her office as efficiently.

Deplores Women's Fear.

A long-time student of women and their problems, Miss Phillips has constantly urged that the members of her sex strike out more boldly in using their talents of imagination and initiative in the business world. Fear and lack of faith in themselves hold many women back from full self-expression in business, she maintains.

Courtesy is the first essential to the success of women in business, believes Mrs. Frank Bell, sr., who for 18 years has been affiliated with Washington real estate companies.

"In my line of work a woman can not hope to suceed without it," she said. "I have managed and organized apartments. I have even sold them. In all cases it has been courtesy that made for success."

Mrs. Bell has also had much experience in training apartment house managers. She says she always tries to teach them that courteous treatment of customers wins out in the end.

"When a woman comes to rent an apartment," she said, "she may find it does not suit her. But if the manager has been pleasant and affable, the client is likely to mention that to other persons and they will come to see the apartment for themselves.

"I have found," she continued, "it pays to study the individual and to adapt one's self as best one can, bearing in mind the desire to please helps adaptability, and almost invariably ends up in pleasant relations. That, of course, is a basis on which the most successful business is conducted."

No Prejudices.

She emphasized it does not pay to bear prejudices against persons with whom one hopes to deal.

Mrs. Bell speaks with authority. During her 18 years in the business world she has won recognition for the inevitable success of her ventures. She has been put in charge of organizing apartments that were entirely unoccupied at the time she took them over. It was her duty to fill them, to please the tenants, to see the buildings were run in an orderly fashion. Many times her duties meant pacifying harassed housewives whose refrigerators refused to freeze, or appeasing irate bachelors and spinsters when children stuck pins in their doorbells. She found by maintaining a pleasant manner she could successfully enter into peace negotiations.

"Although a woman's dress can scarcely be called part of her personality it does tend to accentuate her attractiveness," she said. "The woman who is tastefully and appropriately dressed is usually the one most pleasant to deal with."

A different light was thrown on the "business personality" by Miss Elizabeth Haney, chairman of the business and professional woman's department of the Y. W. C. A. She believes it's a stiff upper lip, a sense of humor and poise that count.

Got to Have Courage.

"Granted it's easy to say what a woman should have," said Miss Haney, "but the task is cultivating those attributes. I've worked in a man's business world long enough to know a woman simply has to have courage, has to see the funny side of things, and has to have assurance."

She feels women have a long way to go before they can acquire the same type personality which men employ in business.

"For one thing many of them still try to do business by feminine wiles," she said. "That's dynamite to a woman's career if she works with either men or women. Women see it right away. And men soon find it out. She's got to learn to be direct. Of course," she added with a smile, "if she can be a clinging vine subtly enough for a man not to feel that she's trying to be, then probably it's a very good thing!

"One thing sure, a business woman dealing with men must act as though she had a lot of respect for what they say. It's better for her to pretend she doesn't know half as much as they do, to listen intently, and to speak only when she is sure she has the proverbial words of wisdom to utter. If she maintains this attitude, it almost is a sure fact they have infinitely more respect for her judgment."

She's For Hobbies.

"To work toward developing a successful business personality a woman has to keep diplomacy constantly in mind. She has to be able to talk to people about other things than business. The best way to develop this aptitude is to study and learn about something outside. I strongly advocate a hobby. It sounds like a light form of specialization but it will keep a woman from becoming so engrossed in her business that she can think, talk, and act nothing else."

Miss Haney believes selflessness is another necessary attribute of the successful business woman. She says: "When a woman's discussing business if she would keep herself out of it she would create far more and far better impressions than by the 'I,' 'me' and 'my' method."

Personality considered from the angle of a would-be business woman is something else again. What attributes must she have to interest an employer?

Miss Emily I. Farnum, personnel officer of the Bureau of the Census, says it is the woman who is alive and alert who is most certain to find a position.

"Keenness will put a girl over when other things won't," she declared. "If she gives quick and assured responses to questions she's bound to make an impression. In most cases the person to whom she is applying hasn't a great deal of time, and the girl's ability to talk clearly, briefly and brightly certainly boosts her stock better than a hesitant, timid manner.

"In a lot of cases the shy girl may prove more capable, but she won't have as easy a time finding a job as her more poised competitor."

Miss Farnum admitted she had frequently been impressed by the way a girl entered and left a room, by the way she stood or sat during the interview.

How does the woman in politics succeed? Does she use the same methods as her masculine competitors? The answer appears in tomorrow's Post in the ninth article of this series.

Leaders Among The Hit Works Are Tabulated

By Nelson B. Bell.

Since the question is one of such tense current interest, precisely what type of diversion do authentic statistics indicate to be the preference of the mass amusement-seeking public?

The July 7 issue of the Motion Picture Herald, foremost of the motion picture trade journals, goes to some pains to analyze the vital relationship among all the amusement arts and industries—the motion picture, the living theater, the book publisher, radio and the music world.

It is not possible, owing to space limitations, to recount here all of the interesting and sometimes surprising facts adduced by the Herald's minute and comprehensive researches. It may not be too much, however, to recite the leaders in each field.

The six pictures, then, grossing the greatest rentals are, in the order names, as follows: Warners' "The Singin' Fool," $5,000,000; Metro's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," $4,500,000; "Ben Hur, Metro, $4,000,000; "The Big Parade," also Metro, $3,500,000; "The Birth of a Nation," D. W. Griffith's enduring masterpiece, which many believe to be the record-holder, $3,500,000, and "Cavalcade," the Fox picturization of the Noel Coward historical pageant, $3,500,000.

All of these but "The Singin' Fool" and "Cavalcade" were silent pictures.

Legitimate Plays.

The records of so-called legitimate plays are measured in terms of number of performances rather than box-office grosses. The six leaders, again in the order named are Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose," 2,532; John Golden's "Lightnin'", starring the late Frank Bacon, 1,291; Wagenhals and Kemper's production of Mary Roberts Rinehart's and Avery Hopwood's "The Bat," 878; Earl Carroll's "White Cargo," 864; "The Ladder," a forced run with free admissions toward the end, 794; Sam Harris' "Rain," starring Jean Eagels, 741.

The six best-selling books of all time are these: Charles Monroe Sheldon's "In his Steps," 8,000,000 copies; Gene Stratton Porter's "Freckles," 2,000,000; Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur," 1,950,000; Gene Stratton Porter's "Girl of the Limberlost," 1,700,000; the same author's "The Harvester," 1,600,000, and Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," 1,500,000.

The radio programs which have taken the air the greatest number of times are Morning Devotions, NBC; Cheerio, NBC; Uncle Dan, WOR; National Farm and Home Hour, NBC; Lady Next Door, NBC, and Orphan Annie, NBC. A majority of the "name" radio artists come much lower down on the list—Guy Lombardo, Kate Smith, Morton Downey, The Goldbergs, Maj. Bowes, &c., &c.

The half-dozen most successful "road shows," were "Rip Van Winkle," playing 40-week seasons to an average weekly gross of $16,000 over a period of 50 years; "Uncle Tom's Cabin," 40 weeks at $16,000 for 40 years; "Ben Hur," 40 weeks at $16,000 for 15 years; "The Music Master," 50 weeks at $20,000 for 12 years; "The Man From Home," 40 weeks at $16,000 for 12 years, and "Arizona," for 40-week seasons at a $15,000 average for 10 years.

The six biggest-selling songs have been "Keep the Home Fires Burning," 3,000,000 copies; "There's a Long, Long Trail," 3,000,000; "Down by the Old Mill Stream," 2,500,000; "Marcheta," 2,500,000; "Pack Up Your Troubles," 2,500,000, and the "St. Louis Blues," 2,500,000.

Recapitulation.

From its great mass of tabulations, the Motion Picture Herald, among numerous others, derives these significant summations:

1. Forty-six best selling novels out of a list of 65 which sold 500,000 copies and over, have been made into motion pictures.

2. Twenty-three legitimate theatrical productions out of list of 32 having 500 performances and over in New York City, have been made into motion pictures.

3. Twelve popular songs out of a list of more than 100 which sold 1,000,000 copies or more were motion picture and musical comedy songs. (This, considering that the depression and other competitive forces set in within a year and one-half after sound pictures came into existence, is generally conceded to be a high percentage).

This column will be glad to publish specific ratings of any of the pictures, plays, books road shows, radio turns or songs appearing in the compilations under discussion upon request.

So the incorrigible Master Hardie Meakin, manager of RKO-Keith's Theater, as was to have been expected, sneaks another plaintive missive into the mails advising all and sundry that the engagement of "Of Human Bondage," co-starring Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, will be inaugurated on Fifteenth street on Wednesday of the present week, July 11. Master Meakin is just a wolf for switching his opening days in sheepish clothing!

Clubhouse-Warming.

The induction of officers and official house-warming of the newly organized Variety Club of Washington, Tent No. 11 in the National organization, in the new club quarters in the Willard Hotel Saturday night was one of the most eminently successful social events of a theatrical nature that has ever been celebrated in the National Capital.

The clubrooms were thrown open to members and their ladies and guests and proved a revelation in the appropriateness and effectiveness of their design and furnishings. The theatrical motif, naturally, predominates throughout, especially in the lounge with its circus frieze, gay lighting effects and luxurious leather and chromium steel furniture of ultramodernistic design and coloring.

Relics of Past.

The old English taproom—ordinarily restricted exclusively to the use of members—is a bit of oaken artistry that contains one unusually interesting exhibit, a wooden plaque made of sections of wood bearing the name and date of establishment of all of Washington's theaters, past and present. These individual sections, upon which the legends are burned, without exception, were made from pieces of the stage flooring of each respective playhouse. It may be remarked, in passing, that securing these mementoes of many of Washington's famous theaters took a deal of doing, for which, I believe, credit must be given to A. Julian Brylawski.

The nomenclature and terminology of the Variety Club are wholly in the vernacular of show business and probably would sound more or less like a foreign tongue to the casual layman.

National President Here.

The induction of the officers of the club was presided over by John H. Harris, of Pittsburgh, founder of the original Variety Club and president, or Chief Barker, of the National organization. Following the installation of officers and pledge of the membership, John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner interests in the Washington territory, Chief Barker of Tent No. 11, wielded the gavel.

Acts from all the Washington theaters put on a show for the guests, which was followed by dancing. A buffet supper was served.

If it is not too long after the event, it should be set down that George V. Riley, managing director of the Wardman Hotel properties, again hit the high point of genial hosting in his party at the Carlton last Thursday night in anticipation of the opening, next day, of the Carlton Club Cocktail Cafe, adjoining the Parisian al fresco dining place to the south of the hotel on Sixteenth street.

The Carlton Club, designed by Nat Eastman, who was present, is the smartest in form and color treatment that the Capital has seen to date. In it music is furnished by the ambulant maestro Gregory Franzell, and his wandering orchestra, who lend a delightful informality to their programs and are especially generous in the matter of request numbers. Then, too, there is John Rupsinaa, maitre d'hotel, who exercises a peculiar vigilance in insuring his guests service that approaches perfection.

Hereafter, whenever I wish a perfectly appointed multi-course dinner, with wines of proper vintages and temperatures, I shall endeavor to persuade George Riley to plan it for me.

Phil Lampkin, musical director at Loew's Fox, leaves Washington for the Pacific Coast on Thursday for a three-week vacation. This will be Prof. Lampkin's first visit to his parents in four years.

The vacation trip, by the way, is merely incidental to Prof. Lampkin's having signed a new contract with Loew's Fox at a substantial rise in what it takes to fill the weekly pay envelope.

Congratulations, fellow, and don't forget, I'm your partner!

There will be more here tomorrow—probably much more—concerning the welcome home party given by City Manager Carter Barron to Mr. Eddie De Star Melcher at the Carlton, at which Mary Brian also will be an honored guest and to which we are hurrying away as this is tumbling upon the copy paper in the hope that it will be in one of those air-cooled suites!

Survival of Fittest Note.

$42,297 Low Bid.

Cumberland, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—The Cumberland Contracting Co., this city, is the lowest bidder on the installation of water works at Moorefield, W. Va., as FERA project. The bid is $42,297.

Like any war or rebellion, the underlying cause of the Indian Mutiny against the British in 1857 were many and varied — but the spark that set off the conflagation was a dispute over what kind of grease was used on rifle cartridges furnished to native soldiers for their Enfield rifles.

Some say the grease was lard, others believe it was tallow, but, whatever it was, a low-caste civilian employe in the arsenal at Dumdum started the trouble by telling a high-class Bengal trooper that the grease was "unclean." The story spread from barracks to barracks. Officers in charge ordered the use of butter henceforth for cartridge grease—but the damage was done, and virtually all of the Bengal native army revolted.

English officers, women, children; in fact, almost all Europeans and Christians were murdered indiscriminately by native troops, who captured Delhi and other important cities. The mutiny was put down by loyal troops and European reinforcements.

BLACKIE BEAR

By D. SAM COX

Turkey With Chestnut Dressing

That sounds good enough for real folks, doesn't it? Well, that's just what the Creek Folks had for dinner. You know how Chatter Squirrel helped them to get both turkeys and chestnuts and you certainly know that Bettie and Grandma are good cooks. The winner was so good that Jenny wanted to know if it was Christmas or somebody's birthday. Blackie said he didn't know whether or not the date was right, but anyway they would play like it was Chatter Squirrel's birthday, and would call it a party. It was just the right thing to do, because if it hadn't been for Chatter Squirrel they wouldn't have had this big dinner.

"Well," said Dr. Coon, "if it's going to be Chatter's party, let's have him do the most of the talking. He hasn't told us much about things down on the creek, and I guess he knows a good deal about them."

"There isn't much to tell you besides what Jay Bird has told," said Chatter Squirrel. "But I can tell you that Mr. Man is talking about getting another donkey. I heard him tell Uncle Joe the other day that he had been hoping all along that Hee-Haw would come back some time, and he had been waiting for him. And he didn't have enough money to buy another donkey and wagon anyway, and wouldn't have till he could sell some of his pigs and crops. But it was funny to hear him wonder who got Hee-Haw. He is all the time talking about it.

"He says there are just two things that he wants to live long enough to do: one is to kill Blackie Bear and stretch his hide on his barn door, and the other is to get Hee-Haw back, and send the man to jail that stole him."

"If he only knew it, he could do both those things at one lick—that is if he could do either of them at all," said Blackie, 'but most folks don't live to be a hundred years old, and I am afraid Mr. Man won't live long enough to send Blackie Bear to jail nor to see his hide stretched on his barn door."

Greeks Here Beg Londos To Rassle

Sign Petition After He Continues to Spurn $3,500 Bid.

Joe Turner Is Hopeful He Will Change Mind, Meet Marshall.

By Frank H. Young.

THE Greeks have a word for it, and, according to Joe Turner, the rassling impresario of the Nation's Capital, it is "No." For more than a week Turner has been telegraphing and writing World Champion Jim Londos trying to coax him to meet Everett Marshall at Griffith Stadium a week from next Thursday. Turner can not see Londos' demand for a $5,000 guarantee, which was first $10,000, and to every offer made lower than this, the Greek said "No," with a capital N.

Turner's last bid was $3,500, and he has hopes that Londos will ultimately accept it, especially as a petition is going the rounds in the Grecian quarter asking Londos to do so and to toss Marshall for the glory of grand old Greece.

Vies With Philadelphia.

"The trouble is," said Turner last night, "I'm competing against Philadelphia, where they demand and get $5.50 for their ringside seats. I could not come close to breaking even at my regular prices—and I have no intention of raising them—if I had to pay Londos $5,000 and then foot the bills for the rest of the card and for staging the show. But Jim has received fair treatment here and I'm hopeful that he will see things my way and give me a break. As for Marshall, he's willing to rassle for almost nothing just to get a crack at Londos' title."

It was in Philadelphia that Marshall battled Londos for nearly two hours before losing the decision when tossed out of the ring and injured in the head.

But the Greeks will win anyway, for if Londos finally turns thumbs down on the bout—and he has good reason to fear Marshall, having been held to a draw by the Coast grappler in four other meetings—George Zaharias, another of their countrymen, will be given the shot. Of course, Zaharias is not a Londos, but if he and Marshall are matched the cash customers are sure to get a good run for their money.

4 Winners Ridden By Jockey Hughes

Is Up on Star Porter in Rockingham Feature.

Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., July 9 (AP).—Given a smart ride by Hank Hughes, clever apprentice jockey, Ral Parr's 4-year-old gelded Star Porter won his third straight Rockingham victory in the $1,200 Raymond Handicap sprint today before a crowd of 6,000.

Hughes brought Star Porter through on the rail before he fought off the stretch challenge of Mrs. A. A. Baroni's Flying Sailor. J. D. Mikel's The Pelican was the show horse.

Hughes had four winners for the day. He rode S. W. Labrot's Gay Blade to victory in the opening event and in the fourth race he brought home the favorite, Mrs. R. T. Flippen's Crazy Jane.

He gained his fourth victory of the day on Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wilson's Moanne Keala, the odds-on favorite, in the sixth race but missed out on Butter Beans in the seventh.

Saunders' 151 Leads Field By 3 Shots

Rippy Falters on Final 18, but Takes Second in Municipal Golf.

man, a former St. John's player, had the honor of scoring the lowest for the 18 holes. He was out in 35 and back in 39.

The big disappointment was Harlan Will, District municipal champion, who turned in rounds of 81-77—158, 7 strokes from the pacesetter, Saunders. If Will hopes to retain his title he will be forced to shoot something like subpar golf in the final 36 holes at Rock Creek's hilly layout today.

Many well-known pay-as-you-go players faltered during the day. Russell Hoag did a 160, as did John Baer, Rock Creek star, and the veteran John Downey, who missed 13 putts on the last 18 of less than 4 feet. Earl Jamison, runner-up for the National southpaw championship, endangered his chances with a 163.

Has Five Birdies.

Saunders scored five birdies, three on the final nine. He finished 4-3, after plunking in good-sized putts for birdies. His 35 on the final nine was 1 under par.

Capt. Giffen Assumes Job as Navy Director

Annapolis, Md., July 9 (Spl.).—Capt. Robert C. Giffen today formally assumed his duties of director of athletics and head of the Department of Physical Training at the Naval Academy, succeeding Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., who filled the post for three years and now will go to sea as commanding officer of the cruiser Chester. Capt. Wilcox will leave Annapolis tomorrow for Provincetown, Mass., where the Chester is berthed. Resumption of athletic relations with the rival West Point Cadets was the high spot of Capt. Wilcox's administration.

Capt. Giffen is not unfamiliar with athletic affairs, for years ago he was the athletic association's representative for boxing. He is one of the Navy's most expert rifle shots.

D. C. Police Defeat Quantico Marines

Knock Hackensted From Mound to Win, 7 to 4.

Post Field, Quantico, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—The Washington police force, fresh over an impressive win from the highly reputed St. Mary's Celtics, evened their score with the Quantico Marines here this afternoon by knocking Hack Hackensted from the hill and copping a 7-to-4 verdict. Capt. Campbell and his Washingtonians, out to stop the string of wins that the Leathernecks had boasted over the cream of the Washintgon semipro crop, seemed primed for action.

Cauliflower, the Cops' hurling selection, had the situation well in hand and held the Marine batters in check for the greater part of the afternoon.

The Leatherneck hopes were shattered prior to the start of the game when it was announced that Nick Nichols dependable receiver, and attached to the medical department here, had received a split finger, automatically shelving him for the balance of the schedule.

Illinois Girl Cards 80, Wins Western Medal

Park Ridge, Ill., July 9 (AP).—Ella Mae Williams, of River Forest, Ill., shot an 80, two over par, to capture the medal in the Women's Western Junior Golf Championship today. Eleanor Dudley, Chicago, was second with an 83.

Sixteen from Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, including the defending titleholder, Alice Ann Anderson, of Kenosha, Wis., qualified for the championship field, which continues the battle over match play tomorrow.

White Oak Triumphs At Stafford, 9 to 8

Fredericksburg, Va., July 9 (Spl.).—The White Oak baseball team nosed out the Eagles at Stafford, near here, by a score of 9 to 8 in a seesaw struggle that was cut to eight innings by thundershowers.

The game was a free-hitting affair, with L. Christy, White Oak outfielder, knocking out a home run and M. Christy, L. Sullivan, Newton of the White Oaks, and Nugent, of the Eagles, getting three-baggers.

Gangland and Australia Seen in Cricket Draw

Manchester, England, July 9 (AP).—Australia today scored 423 runs for the loss of eight wickets in answer to the first innings score of 627 for nine, declared, by England in the third test cricket match.

With only one more day to play before the four-day time limit expires, Australia still had two wickets to lose with the probability the match would be drawn.

Don Bradman, returning to play after his illness, batted strongly for a time but finally lost his wicket for only 30 runs.

Mrs. Martinez Retains Net Honors

Wins Over Mary Ryan by 6-1, 6-1; to Defend Parks Crown.

DESPITE her early elimination in the District championships by Sara Moore, Mrs. Ruth Martinez still remains, for the present at least, Washington's tennis queen.

Yesterday the hard-fighting Roosevelt High School teacher won the women's tennis league championship by defeating Mary Ryan with considerable ease at the Columbia Country Club by scores of 6—1, 6—1. The match had been postponed due to rain and conflicting tournaments.

The tournament was the opener of the usual series to take place during the summer and in winning, Mrs. Martinez retained the title she won last year. Washington's feminine racket-wielders are afforded a breathing spell until July 21, when the annual public parks championships get under way. Mrs. Martinez will be defending her crown in this event also.

The champion had little difficulty in winning her match yesterday. Her hard-hit forehand had her opponent constantly on the run and at no time was there actually any doubt as to the outcome. Mrs. Martinez dropped only the third game of the first set and the second of the last to her slender opponent and slammed over the final point litte more than half an hour after play had commenced.

Endeavor Wins Final Test; Owner Pleased

Torbay, England, July 9 (U.P.).—Endeavor and Velsheda closed their racing tests today with a 20-mile sail to windward and return which Endeavor won in 2 hours 54 minutes 10 seconds. Velsheda was 3 minutes 24 seconds behind.

The two vessels tried maneuvering tests under a variety of conditions for about three hours before the final run. No statement was issued, but it was understood T. O. M. Sopwith, owner of Endeavor, was pleased with the craft's performance.

Gomez-Hubbell Duel To Settle Argument Brewing for Months

Cronin's Line-up Is Set, but Terry May Make Late Changes; Muddle of Forecasts Taxes Master Minds; Game on Air.

By Edward J. Neil.

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP).—Major league baseball tomorrow forgets for a day the bitter strife of the middle stages of two heated pennant drives and gives up to the public its heroes for the all-star duel of the American and National League teams in the Polo Grounds.

Wednesday it will be business as usual in the two major circuits. Tomorrow is strictly the day of the faithful from one end of the land to the other as 52,000, all the National League grounds will hold, pack into the stands, while the rest of the 200,000 who voted the make-up of the two teams in a Nation-wide poll, along with hundreds of thousands more who didn't, listen in by radio to the resumption of hostilities begun with a 4-to-2 American League victory in Chicago last summer.

There was growing sentiment tonight that this might be the day of the National League, the team Bill Terry, manager of the World Champion Giants, will lead from first base against the blasting array Joe Cronin, leader of the Nationals, directs from shortstop.

The last time these two tangled, Terry had all the advantage as the Giants plowed Washington under in brisk and decisive fashion in the world series last fall. His great left-handed screwball ace, Carl Hubbell, was of great comfort to him then, and again tomorrow it will be Hubbell for the National League Stars in a southpaw duel at the start against Lefty Vernon Gomez, a pitching battle the baseball world has been looking forward to and arguing about for months.

Spirit and Morale High.

Though the odds in Jack Doyle's book were 4 to 5 against either and take your choice, there is no questioning the fact that the entire spirit and morale of the National League has been strengthened with the rise of "Lucky" Terry and his Giants.

The American Legion rooters scoff at this. They figure, and probably with deep wisdom, that a fellow will need more than luck tomorrow throwing them down the alley to the belting array backing the American League hurler.

Four left-handed swingers head the list—Gehringer, of the Tigers; Manush, of the Senators; Ruth and Gehrig, of the Yankees—and of these the only man hitting under .350 is the immortal Babe. But he wasn't doing so well last year, either, yet his home run clinched the All-Star game for the junior circuit in Chicago.

Right-Hand Batters.

Backing these are three right-hand hitters—Higgins of the Athletics, Simmons of the White Sox, and Cronin himself—and again the only man under .330 is the manager of the team. Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, swings around .320 from the portside and precedes the all-American out, Gomez, in the starting line-up.

While Cronin's starting choices are definitely set, with Mel Harder of the Indians, Red Ruffing of the Yanks, Tommy Bridges of the Tigers and Jack Russell of the Senators, following Gomez on the mound in that order, there is still some uncertainty as to the National League line-up.

Terry seems hard to convince that Gomez will start, but if he does—and Cronin insists he will—right-hand hitters, Joe Medwick of the Cardinals and Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs will patrol Bill's outfield, instead of the left-handed swingers, Chuck Klein of the Cubs and Mel Ott of the Giants. As a matter of fact, Terry has concentrated all his right-hand artillery for the attack on Gomez, whom he calls a fastball pitcher who can be had.

Frisch Leads Off.

Frisch of the Cards, at second, leads off and hits from either side. Pie Traynor of the Pirates, Medwick, Cuyler, Wallie Berger of the Braves, Travis Jackson of the Giants and Gabby Hartnett, Cubs' catcher, all are right-hand hitters with averages that need no apology even in American League all-star company. However, Jackson, Terry's first shortstop choice, has a sty on his eyelid and probably will be sup-

Big Beau Sets Arlington Record

Headley Horse, 5-1, Easy Victor Under Ride. of Robertson.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 9 (AP).—Hal Price Headley's Big Beau had to take the long way around today, but galloped to victory over Mrs. John D. Hertz's Watch Him, in the one mile feature over the turf, and set a new track record.

Jockey Albert Robertson had to circle the field with Big Beau, but the Kentucky thoroughbred had enough to beat out Watch Him by a half-length in 1:39, one and three-fifths seconds faster than the old mark set by Noah's Pride. William Sachsenmaier's Pot au Brooms finished third, a neck back of Watch Him.

Big Beau was lightly regarded in the wagering and paid off at $12.94 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Two were aboard Mrs. Sloane's horses—Good Goods and Special Agent. The third was in the third race, with Stuyvesant Peabody's Miss Melody, a 7-to-2 shot.

British Poloists Beat American Four, 6 to 3

Ranelegh, England, July 9 (AP).—The British lion roared again today as the 24-goal English polo team, called the Knaves, soundly defeated the 30-goal American Aurora four, 6 goals to 3, in the King's Coronation Tournament, known as "the championship of champions."

Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, the Irish star, who has played much in the United States, practically single-handed accounted for the downfall of the invading Americans, who were led by Seymour Knox, of Buffalo, N. . Roark, playing at No. 2, accounted for three of his side's goals and also played a sterling defensive game.

Rusie, Former Pitcher For Giants, Reds, Hurt

Seattle, July 9 (U.P.).—Amos W. (Speedball) Rusie, former big league pitching ace, was in a hospital today suffering from injuries received when an automobile in which he was riding overturned. He suffered a head injury and fractured ribs.

St. Louis U. Coach Quits.

St. Louis, July 9 (U.P.).—Joe Maxwell, former Philadelphia athlete, today resigned as head football coach at the St. Louis University. Until the resignation of Charles "Chile" Walsh, Maxwell was assistant football coach.

Good morning! We don't expect a little advertisement like this to keep the thousands of people here who are getting ready to leave Washington for the summer or a part of it. We just want to say that the real beauties of Washington are unfolded in summer and yours to enjoy if you dress coolly for them.

Major All-Star Game Has Gallico Wondering

Asks How These Teams Would Fare if Entered in League.

By Paul Gallico.

NEW YORK, July 9 (Spl.).—Among the many fascinating "ifs" which arise out of tomorrow's all-star ball game at the Polo Grounds here, and which kept me awake for an hour or so last night, was wondering how many games the American League all-stars, or the National League all-stars, would win and lose in a season of pennant chasing, each playing against the rest of its own circuit—that is, what was left of the leagues after taking out the two prize squads. And would they win the pennants in their respective leagues, and if not, why not? And if so, what makes you think so?

Now YOU stay awake for a while. As a sort of warm-up, you can amuse yourself with figuring what would happen if the two all-star teams who play tomorrow were to battle it out in a seven-game series, and who would be the individual stars. Then if that doesn't succeed in keeping you awake, why try to figure out how you would get a ticket for tomorrow's game if you wanted one.

Hubbell's Hard Task.

The most charming feature of tomorrow's game, if Hubbell is right and his arm red hot, will be the spectacle of the mighty American League sluggers snapping their spinal cords in an attempt to hit his arrow ball and other tricky and difficult pitches. A slim, fine pitcher in control of a lot of husky ruffians waving wagon tongues at him is as stimulating a sight as was Tommy Loughran when his legs were good and he used to slide in and out and around some big.

Mountain Elk's Late Bid Fails as Scotch Gold Wins Feature Race at Empire City

Gray Gelding Scores by A Head

Dunbilt, 20-1, Weakens in Stretch but Lasts to Finish Third.

Jockey Austin Scores Double on First Round-up and Creaky.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, July 9 (AP).—The Howe Stable's gray gelding, Scotch Gold, aided no little by Lady Luck, drove to a head victory over the Ascot Stable's Mountain Elk in the Prospect Purse, a dash of about six furlongs which served as the feature offering here today. Dunlilt, flying the silks of Mamie Dioguardi, lasted to save the show, three lengths away. Scotch Gold, quoted at 5-to-1, ran the distance in 1:10 4-5.

St. Stephens, saddled by the former idol of the jockeys, Earl Sande, was installed an even money choice, but he was unable to break his trainer's unlucky streak, winding up fourth.

Apprentice Merrit took Scotch Gold to the front shortly after the break. Dunlilt, a 20-to-1 hazard, rushed after the gray 5-year-old and stuck his head in front. The long-shot weakened in the stretch, then Mountain Elk, away last in the field of ten and losing ground, staged a great finish and barely failed to get up in time.

St. Stephens Loses Show.

St. Stephens, well up from the start, lost the show to Dunlilt by a half-length. Laurel Miss broke down early in the running and was pulled up.

The little apprentice, B. Austin, who recently rode his first winner, put up another cool and capable ride to get the 8-to-1 shot, First Roundup, home by a nose in the opening event, a juvenile dash. Breaking the gelding on top, Austin had his mount free of the crowding that ensued just after the start, and kept him in front in a hard drive with Blind Praise. Tarbucket was a fast-closing third, a length and a half behind. The time for the 5½ furlongs was 1:08 3-5.

A good thing went wrong with the running of the second race, a test for maiden 2-year-old fillies. Golden Time, a nice looking filly making her debut, was quickly backed down to 6 to 5. The daughter of High Time failed to run to her fast trials, breaking fourth and finishing in the same position.

High Hand II Lasts.

High Hand II, her odds soaring to 5 to 2, stole a wide early lead and held on, to win by a head under strong handling. Cloud Sweeper made up ground fast in the final quarter and earned the place by three lengths over Treasury Key.

Apprentice Austin completed a double in the fourth event when Creaky, a rather lucky winner in her last start, came right back to score easily at the liberal odds of 7 to 1. Austin kept the filly in a contending position and shot her into command in the stretch. The daughter of Coventry drew away and scored by two lengths. Fluffy Lee, tiring after setting the pace, lasted to save the place from Xandra. Guiding Light, with Coucci up and favorite, never was a serious factor.

Cleves, 2-to-5 choice in a field of seven maiden, 3-year-olds, was far superior to ordinary opposition in the fifth race. Last rounding the first turn, the colt passed the entire field with a sudden spurt on the back stretch. He then coasted home by four lengths. Carabinier II was an easy second over Flaming Light.

Black Watch, 7 to 10, won the nightcap by four lengths from Koterito, with Pernickety third.

At the Post . . .

ROCKINGHAM PARK, July 9.

Dear Al:

Bennings, Inc., represented by Clocker Mike and Commander Bill, pulled into this turf center today just in time to try to root Radiator home in the first race. Radiator must have been overheated or something because he just puffed around the course with Gay Blade, one that Mike and I agreed was a possible longshot, steamed home at a $19.90 mutuel. However, we began to feel at home when our aDncing Queen took the second race and then Crazy Jane and Moane Keala popped home to make it three winners for the day. The boss has decided to give us a shot at this course and says we can stick around as long as we do right by the boys and girls at home. We like the place and shall do our best to stay. Mike unpacked the speedbooks tonight and we dug deep in the small type for what we believe is a winning card. BILL.

First race—I have seen so many maiden races this year that I was doubtful if there was any more non-winners. However, here they are—maiden 3-year-olds. I'll take Secular with that featherweight. Good Sense and Dash In for the other awards.

Second race—And maidens again in this. Gay Banner gets in with light weight and breaks off the rail. He may not be caught. Migratory and Silver Wrack can split the rest of the dough.

Third race—Prosecutor is a rather dependable sort. Seems well placed in this sprint and I'm looking no further for the winner. Little Dinah has her speed and may earn the place award ahead of Old Nick.

Fourth race—Ilchester is hardly the horse that was taking fields with regularity in Maryland last spring. However, he is in good hands and could surprise this gang. Gallardia and Bitty Bit will have something to say about the distribution of the purse.

Fifth race—Vote turned in a nice effort last out and, although he prefers an off track, I expect to see some real speed again tomorrow. One Chance and Adobe Post for the place and show.

Sixth race—Dornoch came through with a nice win here the other day and is asked to carry 116 pounds tomorrow. Goes for the Bennings cash. Jazz Age and Ukraine to complete the money pictures.

FIRST ROUNDUP away clear and free of interference, rushed into lead, saved ground and just lasted to win. BLIND PRAISE on the outside, finished with a rush and appeared to have won. TARBUCKET was probably best. He was caught in a jam just after the start and was next to last but went up and around field, came wide entering stretch and finished very fast. BIRD LORE had plenty of speed. MISS FIREFLY quit badly.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse $900. Maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving. Place easily. Went to post 3:06. Off 3:10½. Winner, ch. f. (2), by Genie—High Spade. Owenr, Dorwood Stable. Trainer, J. P. Smith. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75, fourth. $25. Time 1:01 2-5.

HIGH HAND II broke well in motion, opened wide gap in early part, tired in final furlong but gamely stuck it out to win. CLOUD SWEEPER moved up with a determined rush in stretch but was weakly ridden at end. TREASURY KEY was hustled along from the start, had no mishap. GOLDEN TIME, a nice looking filly may improve over this showing. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—About six furlongs. Purse $1,000; claiming prices $3,000 to $2,500. the Prospect. Three-year-olds and up start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post 3:31. Off at 3:34. Winner gr. f. (5), by Duncan Gray—Rhinegold. Owner, Howe Stable. Trainer, P. M. Walker. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time 1:10 4-5.

| LAUREL MISS | 105 | 1 | 2 | 10 | Broke down | | | S.Renick | 9-2 | 8-5 | 4-5 |

SCOTCH GOLD, going in much improved form, was kept close to the pace, assumed lead in final furlong and just lasted to win. MOUNTAIN ELK, pound for the best, was unfortunate at the start. He was away poorly, circled field and finished fast. He would have won in another stride. DUNLILT had plenty of speed but weakened badly. ST. STEPHENS, well up all the way, had no mishap. LAUREL MISS broke down and was pulled up.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse $900. Claiming price, $1,500, the Venus. Fillies and mares three years old and up. Start good. Won easily, place driving. Went to post 3:55. Off at 3:57½. Winner b. f. (4), by Coventry—Gimbria. Owner, W. Graham. Trainer, G. E. Phillips. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time 1:45 3-5.

| SISTER MADGE | 103 | 4 | 2 | 7² | 8½ | 9 | 9 | 9 | Rosen | 60-1 | 20-1 | 10-1 |

CREAKY, running back to her previous winning effort, moved into lead in stretch, drew away and won nicely in hand. FLUFFY LEE displayed keen speed but tired suddenly in stretch. XANDRA, well up all the way, had no mishap. MURMURING was kept on the inside to the turn, where she was taken wide, lost several lengths and tired. MINT DE MIE had plenty of speed for six furlongs. GUIDING LIGHT well up for five furlongs then tired.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse $900. The Sweet Memory. Maiden three-year-olds. Start good. Won galloping, place easily. Went to post 4:21½. Off 4:23½. Winner b. c. (3), by Sardanapale—Marguerite De Valois. Owner, H. C. Phillips. Trainer, V. Mara. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time 1:46.

| CHILLY | 116 | 5 | 4 | 3½ | 5¹ | 7 | 7 | 7 | M'shall | 500-1 | 150-1 | 50-1 |

CLEVES was pounds the best. He rushed up and into lead in run down back stretch; assumed command and was only galloping at end. CARBINIER 2D easily disposed of FLAMING LIGHT at end. The latter ran good race and should score soon. KOZAK was best of the others.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse $900. Claiming prices $1,200 to $1,000. Three-year-olds and up. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post 4:44½. Off at 4:46. Winner b. g. # Stocks Yield To Dullness; Level Stands

Prices Unchanged as Sales Dwindle to Low of 315,902 Shares.

New York, July 9 (AP).—Inertia tightened its hold on the share market today with the result that transfers on the stock exchange ebbed to a record low for the past decade at 315,902 shares. Volume was the smallest since the unofficial figure of 306,000 shares recorded for June 2, 1924.

Barely showing signs of life, the market prolonged its drift in a narrow range. The vacation atmosphere combined with speculative incertainty and timidity in undertaking operations under the eye of the Federal Control Commission to hold down trading.

A rebound in steel operations, a spurt of $2 a bale in cotton on a smaller acreage report than had been expected and favorable June sales figures by the General Motors Corporation failed to disturb the sleep of the equities division.

Picture Share Selling.

The trading pace quickened a little toward the finish, chiefly as a result of liquidation in moving picture shares.

Loew's, one of the most active issues of the session, sold off more than a point, and Warner Brothers preferred dipped 3½ points in a thin market. Selling in the movie group was ascribed to reports of dwindling theater attendance and the drive for better films.

Coca Cola, Cuban American Sugar preferred, Minneapolis Honeywell Register and American Sugar Refining sold at new 1934 peaks on advances of about 1 to 3 points.

On Gaming List.

General Railway Signal, Bayuk Cigar and U. S. Industrial Alcohol also got up 2 to 3 points in thin trading.

The rank and file, however, stayed in a rut, with fractional gains balancing small declines. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks was unchanged at 78.5.

Rails moved narrowly as the first of last week's carloading reports showed the anticipated curtailment of loadings over Independence Day. Santa Fe held a small lead over the like 1933 week.

Robey's Review

Finance Economics Business

Statistical Basis Presented by J. M. Keynes for Further Government Spending as a Recovery Move Is Not Conclusive.

By Ralph West Robey.

When John Maynard Keynes, the English economist, was in this country a few weeks ago, he advanced the thesis that the Government is not spending money fast enough to assure recovery. At the time it was assumed that this advice was based upon nothing more substantial than a theoretical analysis of the kind for which Dr. Keynes is widely known. It now appears, however, that it was bottomed upon a statistical analysis of what has happened in the United States during the last 18 months. The analysis was published last Saturday as a letter to the New York Times.

The first point made is that our Federal budget is in far better condition than appears from the "crude figures." Our ordinary budget, he says, is "fully balanced, including a substantial sinking fund ($600,000,000)" and "a considerable proportion of the emergency expenditure is represented by more or less valuable capital assets." Obviously, therefore, from the point of view of being able to afford greater expenditures, there is no reason to hold back.

Traces the Increase and Decrease of Expenditures.

Next he gives the "net loan expenditures" of the Treasury. These, in simple language, are the outlays that Mr. Keynes considers especially effective in creating recovery. To get the amount for each month he makes various arbitrary selections and then puts the whole business on a three-months' moving average (the statistical equivalent of knee-action in automobiles). They then show that starting with $102,000,000 last September, the amount of such expenditures was increased month by month until it reached $435,000,000 in March. In April it fell to $348,000,000, and in May to $311,000,000. The increase and decrease, thus, harmonize closely with the trend of business over the same period—changes in the amount spent preceding, by a month or so, changes in business.

In further support of this particular point, Mr. Keynes emphasizes that the recovery in this country has been much greater than in England (which gave up spending in favor of a balanced budget). In Great Britain the increase of employment from the start of 1933 has been about 10 per cent; in the United States the factory employment has shown an improvement of 40 per cent.

Finally, he presents his "schematic picture" of "the rate of progress of the American economy toward normal." This is given by index numbers, with the average of 1923-1925 as 100. For the first quarter of 1933 the index was 63. In each quarter thereafter there was an increase of four points—67, 71, 75, 79, 83. The last is for the quarter just ended.

Superficially the Argument Appears Rather Conclusive.

This, then, is the statistical basis for the support of the conclusion of Mr. Keynes that we can not go much farther unless we increase the rate of expenditures. Superficially it makes a rather effective argument. There are a few points, however, that should be borne in mind in appraising it.

In the first place, had we used $600,000,000 for sinking fund purposes last year our regular budget instead of being "fully balanced" would have shown a deficit of $225,000,000. It was held in balance by devoting only $360,000,000 to the retirement of debt, plus, of course, the shifting of various expenses over to the extraordinary budget.

Secondly, the peak of expenditures of the Government was in January, not in March—and this peak was the direct result of CWA and RFC outlays. The correlation between expenditures and the business trend, thus, falls to pieces.

Finally, the official figures for production in this country, the index of the Federal Reserve Board, do not show a trend that can be interpreted as 63, 67, 71, 75, 79. Rather, they show 63, 79, 90, 73, 82.

On the whole, therefore, it seems to me that Dr. Keynes has fallen somewhat short of proving his case. This, however, should not worry him. His following in this country depends upon the emotional appeal of his theories, not upon his statistical analysis.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—With a cheerful tone prevailing, trading for the new account was slightly more active on the stock exchange today. Investment buying improved gilt-edged securities, industrials and home rails, but mining stocks lost part of an early improvement. German bonds weakened and transatlantic issues were uncertain. The market closed steady.

Paris—Quotations held steady in an inactive session on the bourse, wherein rentes gained half a point. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Although business on the boerse was very quiet, prices exhibited a friendly tendency, with steel shares higher. The closing was practically unchanged.

Wool Market.

Boston, July 9 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agri.).—Asking prices on spot domestic wool remained unchanged from quotations at the close of last week despite the lack of demand from mills. Members of the local trade were giving consideration to the possible effects of London prices upon prices of domestic wools. Current estimates of the import parity of 64s, 70s, Australian wools from London ranged 87@90 secured basis landed Boston duty paid for top-making styles and 90@95 for choice warp staple types.

Estimated receipts of domestic wool at Boston, reported to the Boston Grain and Flour Exchange during week ending July 7, amounted to 8,122,900 pounds compared with 22,200,300 during the previous week.

Bonds Climb One-Tenth as Federals Lead

Quiet Buying Continues; Transfers Total Only $11,545,000.

New York, July 9 (AP).—U. S. Government securities again showed the way for the highest grade bonds in today's loan market. While gains were not exceptionally large, many peak prices for the past year or longer were recorded.

Quiet buying continued, as in recent sessions, and transfers totaled only $11,545,000, par value, of which the Federal turnover accounted for about $4,330,000.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced one-tenth of a point to 86.6.

Pressure of Idle Funds.

Dealers reported that the principal market influence for the moment was the pressure of idle institutional and private funds seeking moderately safe investment.

The market as a whole appeared to be paying little attention to political or economic developments.

Bonds that equalled or bettered their best levels for 1934, or for several years, included some of American Telephone, Santa Fe, Atlantic Refining, Bethlehem Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, K. C. Terminal, Liggett & Myers, Long Island Railroad, Lorillard, Louisville & Nashville, Norfolk & Western, Pennsylvania Power, Texas Corporation, Trumbull Steel and Wheeling & Lake Erie.

Warner Brothers 6s lost 2 points, probably in sympathy with the action of the amusement stocks, which are reflecting partly the summer decline in attendance.

List of Losers.

There were scattered losses of fractions to around a point in some of the secondary groups. Few issues, however, were subjected to any severe pressure.

Eleven of the Government's loans recorded the familiar "new high" marks with gains of 1-32 to 7-32 point. Treasury 3s were the most active of the day. Home Owners Loan bonds were in demand.

Easing of the German political situation brought rallies of 1¼ and 2¼ points, respectively, in the Young and Dawes plan issues. Polish loans were a trifle heavy and other foreign obligations were slightly irregular.

Curb's Prices Change Little On Light Sales

Lerner Stores Advance; Turnover Declines to 80,000 Shares.

New York, July 9 (AP).—Changes on the curb exchange were mostly unimportant today as volume tapered further. Transfers, which approximated only 80,000 shares, were the lowest since March 30, 1933, when 70,000 shares were traded.

Small offerings appeared in some of the alcohol shares. Oils were a trifle irregular. Among the miscellaneous list Lerner Stores provided some excitement, with a 4¼-point rise in a moderate turnover.

Hiram Walker dipped around 2 points, while Distillers Corporation-Seagrams slipped a small fraction. Electrib Bond & Share, Gulf Oil and Wright Hargreaves also finished with small declines.

Standard Oil of Indiana, Glen Alden Coal, Sherwin Williams and Greyhound Corporation were steady. Swift Internacional advanced nearly a point.

Broader Interest Developing In Nationalization of Banking

By Anna P. Youngman.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones, of the RFC, made a very significant statement a short time ago, when he was explaining the policy that the corporation proposed to follow in advancing loans to industry. "We won't concern ourselves as to management," he said, "but we are going to be interested in prospects of the borrower which will mean going into the management." "Going into the management" means, among other things, that the prospective borrower will have to satisfy the RFC that he is complying with all the rules and regulations imposed by NRA codes.

The borrower must prove, too, that he does not buy from concerns that have failed to comply either with code provisions or else with the terms of the President's reemployment agreement, in case the industry is not under a code. "Going into the management" also means investigating the scale of salaries paid by borrowing firms and passing judgment on their dividend policies. Mr. Jones thinks that it is "only fair" that a corporation forced to borrow working capital from a Government agency should limit salaries and forego dividend payments so long as Government loans are outstanding.

It is impossible to deny the reasonableness of these requirements. Public funds can not be lent without regard for the uses to which they are to be put, nor would it be proper for a Governmental lending agency to make advances to concerns that operate in defiance of governmental mandates. The Government lender can not—or, at least, should not—consider merely the safety of the principal and the ability of the borrower to carry the loan. It is futile, therefore, to protest against bureaucratic interference in the business of those who apply for Government loans. Such interference is necessary as a protection against the use of public credit to finance expenditures that appear to the authorities to be so socially or economically unjustifiable.

The country should face frankly the basic problems that are created by the rapid encroachment of the Government upon the private banking field, instead of complaining about the necessarily restrictive regulations that govern public credit grants. In fact, the dangers of political favoritism in the apportionment of loans made by a Governmental agency call for especially strict scrutiny of the status of applicants for loans. The questions that arise can not be dismissed as if Governmental banking activities were temporary and certain to lapse with the passing of the present emergency.

The RFC, to be sure, has a legally limited tenure of existence, and as loans are repaid its actual and potential power of control over borrowing concerns will correspondingly diminish. Nevertheless, the corporation has acquired a very large interest as stockholder in several thousand banks. It is also in a position to exert some influence over the railroads and other corporations that are indebted to it, especially those that have to request a renewal of loans. The Government, through the Farm Credit Administration, moreover, seems destined to become and to remain a dominant factor in the field of agricultural credit. It is also extending its operations into the financing of home loan mortgages on an extensive scale. Treasury domination of the Federal Reserve System, which is the central agency for the private commercial banking system, is an accomplished fact. The Reserve banks can no longer be considered agencies even relatively free from political control.

The country has, therefore, gone a long way toward permanent Nationalization of its banking system as that term is understood by advocates of political or Governmentally controlled banking. Private ownership of bank stocks and management by bankers who are outside the Government service will not protect a country's banking system against effective Nationalization if the Government is in a position to formulate a general credit policy and to determine the allocation of credits to industry. Socialists, Communists, and advocates of industrial planning, who refuse to be labeled, are primarily concerned to make the banks instruments of public policy. Like Chairman Jones of the RFC they feel that Governmental policies must be supported and encouraged by seeing that the individuals, corporations and industries obtaining Government credit are the ones that "deserve" it. If all credits are "Nationalized," the undeserving borrowers would be "frozen out," and only those who are able and willing to cooperate with the planning program would receive consideration.

Europeans appear to be more alive to the importance and the fundamental significance of the present day trend of banking than Americans. Perhaps it is because we are so accustomed to a certain kind of public regulation of private banking activities that we fail to realize the difference between the rather negative protective type of governmental intervention (old style) and the newer form of aggressive direct dictation. On the Continent, nationalization of banking has made great strides in recent years because the State has been compelled to come to the aid of private institutions in order to prevent a complete breakdown of the credit system. Necessity, not deliberate planning or desire for a change, has been the driving force.

Great Britain, on the other hand, has escaped any large measure of government control, although the Bank of England is for all practical purposes a government institution, enjoying greater freedom, however, than woud be possibe if it were definitely recognized as a national central bank. However, despite the fact that the British private banking system has weathered the depression remarkably well, demands for nationalization are growing stronger. R. H. Brand, director of Lloyds Bank, managing director of Lazard Bros. & Co., and G. D. H. Cole, Socialist and well-known lecturer and writer on economic subjects, recently debated the question whether the British banks ought to be nationalized. Mr. Brand emphasized the superior safety and soundness of the British banks. Mr. Cole said he was concerned not only about the prosperity of the banks, but of the people and the workers. "When you leave laissez-faire capitalism for a system of industrial planning," he said, "you then reach a stage when the whole business of financing industry comes to be so intimately connected with the general economic policy that you must have a plan to coordinate banking and industrial policy under the same control."

Amplifying his views, Mr. Cole explained that he did not "want the bankers to control industry, but he did want the socialized banking system as part of a general plan, so that the bankers will take their directions about the credit which they are to grant to industries from those who are responsible for the formulation of the industrial plan as a whole. Whether an enterprise is sound or not seems to be a matter to be judged by a national authority responsible for industrial planning and not by the banks." As a necessary corollary to this unorthodox test of soundness Mr. Cole added, "I hold strongly that the State should guarantee deposits in the National banks."

Mr. Cole is undoubtedly logical in his reasoning; if industry is to be socialized and run according to a governmental plan, the banking system likewise must be operated as a public concern. State control of industry necessitates State control of credit. But State control of credit, without any well defined objective, is a planless kind of governmental interference with private industry that can lead to nothing but confusion and conflict between public and private financing agencies.

Stocks—Inertia tightened its hold on stocks and trading drifted to the smallest turnover since June 2, 1924. Sales totaled only 315,902 shares. Price average was unchanged from Saturday's level.

Curb—Changes in curb prices were slight as sales volume dropped to 80,000 shares, the smallest since March 30, 1933. Oils closed irregular. Lerner stores jumped 4¼ points.

Wheat—Heavy increases in U. S. visible supply caused wheat to tumble. Other grains sagged. Favorable weather for threshing was blamed for the accumulation of wheat. July wheat sold at 86⅝; September at 87¾.

Cotton—Prices were pushed higher as the Government gave reports on the acreage under cultivation. October sold at 12.39. The general market advanced 34 to 37 points. July closed at 12.25.

Rubber—Crude rubber futures closed steady, 6 points higher to 8 points lower. July sold at 14.54; September at 14.80.

Sugar—Raw sugar was unchanged at 3.15; refined sold at 4.75.

Gold—Bar gold sold in London at 137 shillings and 11½ pence.

Dollar—The United States dollar was slightly higher on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $5.04 to the English pound, 6.59½ cents to the French franc and 38.35 cents to the German mark.

Railroads Earn 2.11 Per Cent On Investments

Lines' Operating Incomes Total $183,977,640 in Five Months.

Class I railroads of the United States for the first five months in 1934 had a net railway operating income of $183,977,640, which was at the annual rate of return of 2.11 per cent on their property investment, according to reports just filed by the carriers with the Bureau of Railway Economics and made public today. In the first five months of 1933 their net railway operating income was $94,918,398, or 1.08 per cent on their property investment.

Property investment is the value of road and equipment as shown by the books of the railways, including materials, supplies and cash. The net railway operating income is what is left after the payment of operating expenses, taxes and equipment rentals but before interest and other fixed charges are paid.

This compilation as to earnings for the first five months of 1934 is based on reports from 148 class I railroads representing a total of 239,303 miles.

First Five Months.

Gross operating revenues for the first five months of 1934 totaled $1,347,033,883, compared with $1,136,911,878 for the same period in 1933, an increase of 18.5 per cent. Operating expenses for the first five months of 1934 amounted to $1,003,889,536, compared with $883,616,031 for the same period in 1933, an increase of 13.6 per cent.

Class I railroads in the first five months of 1934 paid $106,444,793 in taxes, compared with $109,042,306 for the same period in 1933, a reduction of 2.4 per cent. For the month of May alone, the tax bill of the class I railroads amounted to $21,872,345, a reduction of $154,503, or 0.7 per cent under May, 1933.

Thirty-three class 1 railroads failed to earn expenses and taxes in the first five months of 1934, of which 8 were in the Eastern, 5 in the Southern and 20 in the Western district.

Class 1 railroads for the month of May alone had a net railway operating income of $39,494,980, which, for that month, was at the annual rate of return of 1.99 per cent on their property investment. In May, 1933, their net railway operating income was $41,042,628, or 2.05 per cent on their property investment.

Gross operating revenues for the month of May amounted to $282,025,664, compared with $255,241,381 in May, 1933, an increase of 10.5 per cent. Operating expenses in May totaled $210,011,001, compared with $181,578,430 in the same month in 1933, or an increase of 15.7 per cent.

Eastern District.

Class 1 railroads in the Eastern district for the first five months in 1934 had a net railway operating income of $121,870,303, which was at the annual rate of return of 2.75 per cent on their property investment.

For the same period in 1933 their net railway operating income was $73,804,303, or 1.66 per cent, on their property investment. Gross operating revenues of the class 1 railroads in the Eastern district for the first five months of 1934 totaled $710,290,410, an increase of 21.3 per cent above the corresponding period in 1933, while operating expenses totaled $508,997,964, an increase of 17.6 per cent above the same period in 1933.

Class I railroads in the Eastern district for the month of May had a net railway operating income of $26,880,239, compared with $23,562,194 in May, 1933.

Southern District.

Class 1 railroads in the Southern District for the first five months of 1934 had a net railway operating income of $29,114,177, which was at the annual rate of return 2.11 per cent on their property investment.

For the same period in 1933 their net railway operating income amounted to $19,396,302, which was at the annual rate of return of 1.38 per cent on their property investment. Gross operating revenues of the Class 1 railroads in the Southern District for the first five months in 1934 amounted to $179,313,248, an increase of 14.5 per cent above the same period of 1933, while operating expenses totaled $131,572,937, an increase of 11.2 per cent.

Class 1 railroads in the Southern District for the month of May had a net railway operating income of $3,966,374, compared with $5,589,445 in May, 1933.

Western District.

Class 1 railroads in the Western District for the first five months in 1934 had a net railway operating income of $33,193,160, which was at the annual rate of return of 1.14 per cent on their property investment. For the same five months in 1933 the railroads in that district had a net railway operating income of $1,717,793, which was at the annual rate of return of 0.06 per cent.

Wheat Values Sink on Jump In U. S. Supply

Domestic Stocks Increase Laid to Good Weather for Threshing.

Chicago, July 9 (AP).—Staggered by an almost record-breaking big increase of the United States wheat visible supply, wheat values reeled heavily downward today.

The increase of stocks of domestic wheat in sight was 8,215,000 bushels the past week, against only 948,000 bushels increase at this time last year.

Lowest prices of the day and since May 16 were current at the last.

Wheat Closes Shaky.

Wheat closed shaky, 1¼ to 2¼ under Saturday's finish; corn, 1⅛ to 1⅝ down; oats, 1⅛ off to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Although a liberal enlargement of the domestic wheat visible supply total today had been expected, few traders were prepared for an increase more than double that of a week ago.

From the outset, the market was under pressure apparently associated with movement of newly harvested wheat. Dearth of any proportionate speculative demand was meanwhile much in evidence, with a Government-sponsored cooperative conspicuous as a seller.

Accumulation of Supplies.

Favorable weather for threshing was a reason assigned for the heavy accumulation of domestic wheat supplies. Contributing to weakness of the market were predictions in some quarters that Washington Government crop estimates to be issued tomorrow afternoon would show some enlargement.

Bears were also favored by more moisture in Canada and some in the American Northwest over the week-end. Traders virtually ignored unfavorable crop advices from across the Atlantic, including assertions that root crops of Europe were only 25 per cent as large as a year ago.

Ideal weather for corn growth especially in Iowa and Illinois had a bearish effect on corn and oats prices.

Despite downturns of hog values and of grains, the provision market advanced, with packers leading as buyers.

Steel Prices Are Reduced; All Classes Hit

Operation Rate Is Cut to 22 Per Cent; Rise Expected.

Cleveland, July 9.—Sweeping price reductions were announced last week by the steel industry, following the readjustments previously made on sheets, strip, bars and other products used chiefly by automobile manufacturers, states the magazine Steel.

Practically all classifications of steel have now been affected. Reductions of $2 a ton were made in sheet bars, billets and slabs, enameling sheets, tin mill black sheets, iron bars, alloy steel billets, blooms and bars.

Reductions of $4 a ton apply to long terne plates, hot-rolled pickled in the breakdown sheets known as the Ford "special," and cold rolled strip. Galvanized sheets have been reduced $3 a ton and shapes and plates $1 a ton.

Wire Products Escaped.

So far wire and wire products and reinforcing bars have escaped, as have rails and track accessories, which, however, were not advanced in April. The general extent of the readjustments may be gaged by Steel's finished steel price composite, which is down $1.40 to 54.10, though still $3 higher than the level at which most of the second quarter orders were booked. The iron and steel composite is off 83 cents to $34.23, but this is $1.83 above the point at which those orders were taken.

To some consumers who stocked up in June in anticipation of the higher advances announced for third quarter the readjustments do not appear as immediately beneficial, as they now have on hand materials which in many instances they could replace at lower figures, considering carrying charges. The possibility of having to meet lower prices for finished manufactured products made from steel likewise does not appeal to many users. The Government's order permitting bidders on Federal work to cut code prices 15 per cent, with the stipulation that such prices become general to the public, is not interpreted in the industry as applying to steel.

Steel demand has felt the full force of the reaction from the June peak, while the price reductions are causing buyers to remain out of the market so long as possible until assured of its stability. Considerable tonnage from automobile manufacturers was booked by those producers who took the initiative in announcing reductions. The general opinion in the industry, however, is that a broad improvement in buying will not be felt until August. Automobile manufacturers placed $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 worth of orders for dies in preparation for new models.

Railroad requirements apparently have passed the year's peak. June freight car awards—1,835—brought the total for the half year to 23,259, highest since the same period in 1930. Informal inquiries indicate 6,000 to 8,000 may still be purchased this year.

Structural shape awards for the week dropped to 10,095 tons. Bids will be opened July 9 on 16,150 tons of steel piling for the Fort Peck, Mont., dam, the largest permanent installation of steel piling in this country. San Francisco has awarded 9,300 tons of cast pipe.

Try to Retain Advance.

Pig iron producers are trying hard to retain their advance of $1 a ton for third quarter, with consumers heavily stocked. Several blast furnaces were blown out last week, and some coke shipments have been suspended. Steel's iron and steel scrap composite holds at $10.37 for the third consecutive week, with little trading in the market.

Steelworks operations receded last week to an artificial low of 22 per cent, but a rebound to at least 33 per cent is expected this week.

Daily average pig-iron production in June—64,563 gross tons—was 2.7 per cent below May, while output for the month—1,936,897 tons—was down 5.8 per cent. The industry made 9,852,608 tons in the first six months, 121 per cent more than in the first half last year. June closed with 92 stacks in blast, a net loss of 25.

Daily average steel ingot output for June, 103,724 gross tons, was 16.5 per cent less than in May, while total output of 3,015,972 was 10 per cent less than for May. Production for the first six months was 16,180,889 tons, compared with 8,989,192 tons in the first half of 1933.

New York, July 9 (AP).—The American Iron & Steel Institute reported today that the indicated rate of output of the country's steel mills for this week was 27.5 per cent of capacity, an increase of 4.5 points or 19.5 per cent over the 23 per cent operating rate of the previous week. The rate a month ago was 56.9 per cent.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, July 9 (AP).—Report of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks as of June 30, made public today by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent, shows that assets of the 12 banks increased from $213,283,531 on March 31, to $274,513,904 at the end of last month. Increases in loans and discounts from $156,343,168 to $198,026,783 accounted for the largest part of this gain. An investment of $25,219,923 in guaranteed Federal farm mortgage bonds also appears on the balance sheet.

The Thermoid Textile Co., of Trenton, N. J., subsidiary of the Thermoid Co., announced its entry into the velvet carpet manufacturing field, with a plant prepared to manufacture special widths up to 50 inches.

A membership on the New York Cotton Exchange has been sold for $17,000, off $500 from the last transaction.

Railroad equipment orders in June involved 1,217 box cars and three locomotives, according to Railway Age. In May, 517 cars and 17 locomotives were ordered.

Little Reaches 'Frisco Unsung; Leaves, Returns for Welcome

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9 (AP).—Lawson Little, British amateur golf champion, returned home today to receive the city's welcome for winning the oldest and most coveted links crown of them all.

What escaped the knowledge of the official greeting party of civic and sporting leaders was that the chunky, curly-haired youth had set foot in the city twice within 12 hours.

He rambled into town last night in his dust-covered coupe, unheralded and unsung. Not wishing to "spoil the party" that had been arranged for him, Little recrossed the bay this morning and returned on the ferry on which he was scheduled to arrive.

Of his amazing 14 and 13 victory over James Wallace at Prestwick, Little said. "I was simply 'hot' that day. I'm glad to be back home. This is the greatest reception I've had. For whatever I've done I want to give credit right now to a few fellows who are the ones really responsible. First, my father. He started teaching me golf in 1917; second, Larry Brazil, professional at the Presido Club, and third, Eddie Twiggs, my coach at Stanford.

"I think Tommy Armour, the Chicago pro, is responsible for my iron play. On my way over to England I stopped off at Chicago for five days. Armour instructed me in iron play during that time."

planted by Arky Vaughan in the starting line-up.

For sustained pitching brilliance, the National League staff of Hubbell, Lon Warneke, of the Cubs; Van Mungo, of the Dodgers; Dizzy Dean, of the Cards, and Fred Frankhouse, of the Braves, probably outshine the American League group. Moreover, since the Giants' triumphs last fall, National League pitchers don't develop shell shock any more just from looking at American League hitters swinging bats in practice. Van Mungo probably will follow Hubbell after three innings.

Master Minds Active.

The master minds of baseball moved into town with the Athletes today and all were full of prognostications of one kind or another. Tom Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, not only brought his entire teams as spectators, but his office staff as well.

"With that array of hitters," said William Harridge, president of the American League, "I don't see how we can lose."

"It should be a great spectacle," said John A. Heydler, National League head, cautiously. "We're full of hope."

"I guess I'm the only one of 120,000,000 fans who doesn't—and can't—have a favorite," said baseball's high commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yanks, made as sensible an observation as any.

"I've seen plenty of days when Ruth, Gehrig, Manush and the rest did nothing but swing at nothing," he remarked. "You can never tell anything about one ball game."

burly, dynamite-bearing heavyweight and cuff him ruddy, but never get his own hair comb spoiled.

As I look back over the ball games I have seen, most of the real thrills have been the pitcher controlling the batter in a crucial moment more than a batter breaking up a ball game. Maybe that was because most of the time I was rooting for the side that had the good pitcher. I suspect if you are on the batter's side, a fine pitcher can be a great bore and something of a public menace.

I recall vaguely that I might have been rooting for Signor Antonio Lazzeri in that memorable world series played by the Yankees against the St. Louis Cardinals when he came to bat with the bases loaded and his frame fairly itching for a paste at the ball, and a very messy-looking old gentleman with a too-big baseball cap and a couple of suitcases under his eyes from his last bender from which he had been dragged forth only a few hours before, struck him out a-swinging.

Switched to Alexander.

No, come to think of it, I started rooting for Tony to "poosh" one, but midway I switched and when Grover Cleveland Alexander struck Lazzeri out I guess my yell was right up there with the big ones.

I do not know whether you have ever thought of it in this light, but there is no figure in sport quite as helpless as a pitcher after the ball has left his hand. True, he doesn't have to wait long to find out what is going to happen, the average length of time being somewhere between five and six-tenths of a second. I guess maybe I was a little hasty in the first statement of this paragraph. An eminent golfer standing on a tee in an important tournament watching a ball he has just hit begin to slice into the great out of bounds, trying to bring it back in with his neck is not just exactly an oil painting of a guy in control of the situation either.

But once a pitcher has made his pitch and let go, he often can look his doom right squarely in the eye and long before anybody else, with the possible exception of his catcher. The bowler, however, is looking his man right in the face. He can see the "alley," and he often can tell as soon as the ball is released from his grip that he has erred and knows he has slid one right down the batter's happy slot and that shortly thereafter there will be a "boom!" followed by the patter of merry little feet on the base paths while the crowd sings "Going Home." You would not wish to be the thrower in that awful sinking moment before the crash of bat against ball.

Is a Pitcher's Man.

No, I guess I am a pitcher's man. When I was a kid I always wanted to be the pitcher and stand on the little hill and make the batters miss and sit down. I am still fascinated by the skill with which I am able to throw a round-house curve, one of those that starts here and ends there, to my kid brother on the lawn. I am a constant miracle to myself for having caused the ball to deviate from the straight and narrow with a twist of the wrist. It wouldn't fool your old Aunt Hepzebah with or without spectacles, but it makes me feel swell. And so I will just keep an admiring and slightly patronizing eye on the pitchers tomorrow afternoon. I promise to report to you faithfully their adventures with the All-Star batsmen.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Notice: A public hearing having been held by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia on June 6, 1934, in the matter of closing certain streets hereinafter described, and the said Commissioners being satisfied that the public convenience and advisability of said closings, and that said closings are in the public interests, and not detrimental to the interests of abutting owners, notice is hereby given that the said Commissioners have prepared the following order: Ordered, that pursuant to the provisions of Public Act No. 307, approved December 20, 1932, the street area as shown in green on plats filed in the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, and numbered as Maps 1837, 1838 and 1839, is hereby ordered closed, same to take effect on and after August 2, 1934, the title to said land comprised in said area so closed to revert to the abutting property owners, as shown on said maps; the said street area hereby ordered closed being described as follows: (1) Closing part of Utah avenue n. w. south of Rittenhouse street, abutting on lots 806 to 815, square 2319, and being that part of said Utah avenue lying east of the extension of the westerly boundary of parcel 61/20 Episcopal Home for Children). (2) Closing part of Sherrett place n. w., west of Reno road, and providing for a dedication in connection with the same, to adjust the street lines and provide for a change in the course of said Sherrett place. (3) Closing part of 9th place n. w., south of Quincy street, abutting on lot 811, square 2901 (known as U. S. Reservation No. 486), and being that part of said 9th place lying south of the extension of the south line of a public alley 15 feet wide, running east and west in square 2901. Any and all parties interested must file objections to said closings in writing before the effective date of above order; otherwise said order shall become effective on August 2, 1934, as aforesaid, and said street area shall on and after said date become closed in accordance with the provisions of said act.
MELVIN C. HAZEN, GEORGE E. ALLEN, JOHN C GOTWALS, Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Walt Mason, Himself

The Biographer.

Boswell thought the air was chilly as he ambled to and fro, for the people thought him silly, and were glad to see him go. He was lacking in good manners, so the stately matrons said, and they longed for clubs or spanners, just to bash him on the head. He was vile in his haranguing, morbid, ghastly tastes had he, and he loved to see a hanging at the famous Tyburn Tree. He was oft inclined to borrow samples of the British jack, always saying on the morrow he'd be sure to pay it back. But he never could remember, and he let such matters fly; coin he borrowed in September would stay borrowed next July. He possessed an eager hunger for all tales of ill and wrong; being born a scandalmonger, he would pass such tales along. Regiments of people knew him, and they thought it safe and sane to ignore him and eschew him, for he gave them all a pain. Had some stern prophetic mortal, speaking with the voice of fate, said that Jim would be immortal, ranking with the truly great, that fool seer would not have tarried spieling in the breaking dawn; by indignant people carried, to the horse pond he'd have gone.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Oakdale the Silent — By Harry J. Tuthill

WELL PEGGY, AS YOU MUST KNOW, THIS IS A CRUSHING SURPRISE TO ME. IT'S ALSO TREMENDOUSLY UNJUST TOO, BUT AS USUAL I SHALL NOT COMPLAIN.
WELL, OF COURSE I WON'T BE GONE FOREVER.
EVERY DAY YOU ARE AWAY WILL SEEM A FOREVER TO ME, PEGGY. BUT THEN AS A HANDFUL OF MY BOYS SO OFTEN TOLD ME WHILE WE WERE CUTTING OUR WAY THROUGH ARABIA, KISMET... WHICH MEANS... IT IS FATE.
MY GOSH! HARTFORD YOU'RE MOODY TODAY.
PEGGY, DO YOU MEAN THAT I SHOULD TRY TO HIDE MY FEELINGS BENEATH A BITTER SMILE WHEN A FELLOW LIKE MONTY TEARS AWAY FROM ME THE ONLY PERSON IN THE WORLD THAT I...?
HARTFORD, PLEASE... PLEASE... REALLY I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY YOU ARE SO... WELL AS YOU ARE...
VERY WELL, PEGGY, I SHALL SAY NO MORE. THIS IS NOT THE FIRST TIME I HAVE SUFFERED IN SILENCE. KISMET! LUCKY IN WAR, UNLUCKY IN LOVE. ALAS SO I HAVE FOUND. IT IS FATE... CRUEL FATE!

THE GUMPS — A Chip Off the Old Block

OLD TIMER- AND YOU TALK ABOUT CATCHING FISH- SOME DAY I'M GOING TO BRING THAT SON OF MINE UP HERE AND I'LL BET HE CAN SIT ON THE BANK AND CATCH MORE FISH WITH A BENT PIN THAN YOU CAN PULL IN WITH A DRAG NET-
I DIDN'T THINK YOU EVER HAD A SON-
OH, I HAVEN'T, EH- ASK HIS UNCLE WHETHER I HAVE A SON OR NOT-
HAS HE A SON? LITTLE CHESTER- WHAT A STRAPPING LITTLE FELLOW HE IS- JUST THE PICTURE OF HEALTH- YOU SHOULD SEE HIM-
AND HE'S THE EXACT IMAGE OF HIS FATHER-
WELL- NOW WHAT'S THE HARM IN THAT? IF THE CHILD IS HEALTHY-

DICK TRACY — To the Surface

DIVING INTO THE RIVER, TRACY QUICKLY VERIFIES HIS FIRST BELIEF THAT THE BURLAP-WRAPPED OBJECT HURLED INTO THE WATER BY STEVE, CONTAINS SCOTTY.
IF HE'S NOT ALREADY DEAD, HE SOON WILL BE UNLESS I CAN GET HIM UP QUICKLY.
TUG AS HE WILL, THE OBJECT WILL NOT BUDGE! EXAMINATION SHOWS IT IS WEIGHED DOWN WITH HEAVY STONES INSIDE THE SACK.
WITH HIS LUNGS FAIRLY BURSTING FOR WANT OF AIR, THE DETECTIVE SEIZES HIS POCKET KNIFE! TWO QUICK SLITS IN THE SACK-THEN WITH A LAST DESPERATE EFFORT HE GRASPS THE BUNDLED OBJECT AND HEAVES!
UP-UP.. IT SEEMS AN ETERNITY BEFORE THE SURFACE IS REACHED. CAN HE ENDURE IT ANOTHER SECOND? WILL THE OCCUPANT OF THE SACK BE LIVING OR —
